G. O. P. IN HOUSE RAPS WASTE IN ARMS PROGRAM

Warns U. S. Credit Is Near Collapse.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Diagrams on page 7.)

Washington, D. C., July 25.—In a stinging indictment of the New Deal administration, Republican members of the house ways and means committee tonight released a supplemental report on the new 3,500 million dollar tax bill, in which they warned that the government's credit is approaching the breaking point.

They announced support of the tax bill as a means of helping to put the government's financial house in order, but observed that inestimable billions of dollars in armaments are yet to be added to the tax and debt burden.

The minority members urged that President Roosevelt break his silence on economy in nonarmament activities of the government and take leadership in such a drive. They also recalled evidence of waste in the construction of army cantonments.

Debate to Begin Tuesday.

The new tax bill, the largest in the nation's history, is expected to be reported out tomorrow, with debate to begin in the house on Tuesday. Republicans already have announced that they will fight attempts to impose gag rules on the debate.

"The nation's finances are in a critical state," said the report, "due to the extravagant spending and reckless borrowing under the New Deal administration during the last eight years. This condition is now aggravated by the fact that unprecedented outlays for national defense are being required.

"It is obvious that a substantial increase in the tax burden is imperative if the credit of the nation is to be preserved and the defense program is to go forward."

The report recalled that arms appropriations to date total 43,000 million dollars, with 7,000 million more in immediate contemplation. This total of 50,000 million may yet be multiplied several times over, it warned.

Record Spending Reviewed.

This unsavory record of New Deal finances was then presented by the committee members:

"These wastrels have engaged in the greatest peacetime orgy of extravagance in all history. In eight years they have spent as much as it cost to run the government during the first 131 years of our country's existence, from the administration of George Washington thru the administration of Woodrow Wilson, including the World war period. [This total was 66,300 millions, compared with New Deal spending of 67,500 millions.]

"They have accumulated a series of staggering annual deficits which have piled up the national debt to a point where even the necessary borrowing for defense will jeopardize seriously the public credit.

"They have taxed and taxed the people until the available sources of federal revenue have been all but exhausted.

13 Major Tax Levies Voted.

"Thirteen major tax measures have been enacted under the New Deal.

"The American people now are loaded down with a burden of taxation—largely in hidden levies—which is 50 per cent greater than under the World war revenue acts. [Present annual tax bill of 9,400 millions, not counting new taxes, against highest World war taxes of 6,200 millions in 1920.]

"The New Deal financial record from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1941, shows that in this period the administration has spent 67,500 million dollars, collected 40,100 millions in revenues, accumulated a combined deficit of 27,400 millions, and increased the public debt to 49,000 millions, not including more than 6,000 millions in obligations of New Deal agencies which are guaranteed by the United States."

The report said that it is obvious from this record that the nation's finances were in a critical condition even before the rearmament program began. The present debt limit of 65,000 million dollars will be reached next year, and before the present emergency is over the national debt may easily go to 100,000 millions, the Republicans predicted. The latter figure is equal to the assessed value of all real estate in the United States.

RUSSIANS AGAIN STOP GERMANS ON ENTIRE FRONT

The German-Russian war appeared to have entered a deadlock today.

Moscow announced German attempts to smash thru soviet defenses in the Nazi drive on Moscow were held for the tenth consecutive day. Elsewhere there were "no substantial changes" on the long Baltic-Black sea front.

Berlin, again acknowledging stiff soviet resistance, merely said operations were proceeding "according to plan."

PLAN 'LIMITED EMERGENCY' TO PROLONG TERM

Move Called Blow to Roosevelt Prestige.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—The senate military affairs committee today reached an agreement on legislation by which congress would declare a limited national emergency to the extent and for the sole purpose of continuing indefinitely the service of all army personnel.

Senator Lee.

The committee unanimously rejected administration proposals for congress to declare a full, unlimited national emergency and to authorize President Roosevelt to send draftees and National Guardsmen outside the western hemisphere.

Privately conceding that the committee's action constituted a blow to the prestige of President Roosevelt, who proclaimed an "unlimited national emergency" on May 27, administration leaders said it was decided to restrict the proposed congressional declaration as drastically as possible in order to prevent possible defeat of the legislation.

Debate to Start Monday.

Altho the military affairs committee did not agree upon the final language of its proposed resolution at today's morning and afternoon closed sessions, it did agree on the substance of provisions to be drafted in legislative form. The committee is expected to report the resolution tomorrow, so it can be taken up for consideration by the senate on Monday, according to Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.], who acted as spokesman for the committee.

Lee predicted that not more than two members of the committee will oppose the resolution. Apparently he referred to Chairman Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] and Senator John Thomas [R., Idaho].

In substance, the resolution will declare that a national emergency exists and the national interest is imperiled to the extent and for the sole purpose of authorizing the President to extend indefinitely the active service of draftees, National Guardsmen, reserve officers, retired personnel of the regular army and regular army enlisted men.

900,000 Limit to Be Removed.

In addition to these provisions it will remove the existing limitation of 900,000 on the number of draftees that may be in training at any one time.

The present strength of the army is approximately 1,450,000 officers and men, including about 600,000 draftees. Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, has testified that present plans call for an increase of about 300,000 conscripts. With the 900,000 limitation removed, however, the army could be increased to any strength within the limitations of appropriations voted by congress.

Wording of the war department's emergency resolution, submitted only yesterday by Secretary Henry L. Stimson, aroused heated discussion as to its intent.

Disagree on Meaning.

Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, expressed his belief that it would enable President Roosevelt to send draftees and National Guard units anywhere in the world. Members of the senate military affairs committee took an opposite view. All agreed that today's understanding will not alter existing restrictions against sending these citizen soldiers outside United States territories and possessions.

The senate committee eliminated what members described as surplus and alarmist language from the national emergency resolution proposed by the war department. It sounded too much like Mr. Roosevelt's radio speech when he proclaimed an "unlimited national emergency" on May 27, some senators said.

The resolution agreed upon today will authorize the President to invoke no powers except those vested in him by the national defense act of 1916, as amended, and the conscription act of 1940.

HOMING PIGEON FLIES IN—CLICK!

Learns $480 in Pocket Beats $500 in Hock.

George L. Johnson, 40 years old, turned homing pigeon yesterday and flew right back into the coop. He was drawn there by the notion that a $500 ring in a hock shop was somehow worth more than $480 in his pocket.

George L. Johnson.

Johnson since 1929 has served five years in the Texas and California's state prisons and six months in the jail at Peoria. Since his parole 14 months ago from the California penitentiary at Folsom he has visited 15 cities and nicked somebody in all of them, but he always thought of Chicago as home.

Trick with Key Nets $500.

Four days ago Johnson was apparently and temporarily a respectable desk clerk in the Stratford hotel at Des Moines, Ia. However, he had the forethought to obtain the key to the hotel safe long enough to make a wax impression. Then he had a duplicate key cast, opened the safe, and decamped with more than $500.

Then he headed for Chicago—home. Last May, after a successful operation in Omaha, Neb., which netted him several rings, he had also come to Chicago. He pawned one of the rings, set with a diamond and valued at $500, for $125 at the Prudential Loan company, 133 North Clark street. It was that ring that made him come back this time.

The ring was worth $375 more than its loan value, and Johnson didn't think it good business to let it lie.

Meanwhile the police had traced the stolen ring to the pawn shop, and the pawnbroker, Lloyd Butler, faced with the loss both of the ring, because it was stolen property, and of the loan he had made on it, was very sad.

Johnson Back in Nick of Time.

At this juncture, happily, Johnson arrived back in town. He telephoned the pawnbroker that he would be over to redeem his ring. The pawnbroker summoned Sergt. George Tucker and Policeman Patrick Griffin, who took up a position behind a peephole in the rear of the shop.

Johnson strolled in and counted out $125.

"And $5 more for interest," said Butler.

Johnson peeled off another five.

Only then did the pawnbroker flag forward Tucker and Griffin. As they clamped on the gyves, Uncle pocketed his lucky money.

Johnson's usual procedure, he said, was to obtain a place as houseman or tavern attendant. He would stay a few days, find out where the cash and jewelry was secreted, and then fly away home—home to good old Chicago. He estimated the value of his loot in the last 14 months at $33,000 and said he had realized about $10,000 on it.

Elliott Roosevelt Fits Army Career to Week-Ends at Home

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—Capt. Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, who is stationed at the army air base in Newfoundland, has been able to arrange his military duties so he can week-end with his family at Swampscott, Mass., it was disclosed tonight.

When the war department was asked yesterday as to the whereabouts of the President's four sons, all of whom have received commissions in the armed forces, it insisted that Elliott was in Newfoundland helping to make aerial surveys for the air corps, into which he catapulted with a captain's commission last Sept. 3, creating a furor. Then a picture of Elliott, his wife, and two children, showing the group in Swampscott last Saturday, arrived in newspaper offices.

Wife Mum on Whereabouts.

Telephone calls tonight developed the fact that Elliott arrived at Swampscott last Friday night to spend the week-end with his wife and children, Ruth and Elliott Jr., where they are staying for the summer. He left Sunday and returned to his "post" Monday, according to his wife. She would give no information as to his present whereabouts.

Meanwhile the war department still insisted that their records show him stationed in Newfoundland, but admitted that he may have obtained a short leave of absence from Newfoundland headquarters. At the temporary White House at Hyde Park, N. Y., it was said there was no information available. It was added that had he left Newfoundland, he would probably turn up at Hyde Park to visit his parents.

Others in Social Swim.

Today's disclosure makes unanimous the Roosevelt boys' socializing. James, the eldest, is a captain in the marine corps, and has been around Hyde Park and Washington in civvies since returning recently from a round the world junket as an "observer." James and the other two sons, Franklin Jr. and John, both ensigns in the navy, have been seen often at fashionable Beverly Farms, Mass., where Franklin's wife has taken a cottage for the summer. John is taking a special course at the Harvard naval supply school preparatory to entering the naval supply branch, and Franklin is on active duty on the U. S. S. Mayrant. Recently he recuperated at Beverly Farms from an automobile accident.

James on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25 [Special].—"Special mission." These two words describe the reason for Capt. James Roosevelt's arrival here today on the TWA stratoliner. The eldest son of the President declined to amplify the statement except to say that he will be in California for 10 days, dividing his time in Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco, on orders from marine corps general headquarters in Washington. Capt. Roosevelt was accompanied by his wife, the former Romelle Theresa Schneider, whom he married in Beverly Hills last April.

60 Clerks in British War Offices Poisoned by Food

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—Sixty clerks, typists, and telephone operators at the ministries of economic warfare and war transport became ill of food poisoning shortly after lunch today.

San Francisco Japs Rush to Draw Out Cash

San Francisco, Cal., July 25 (AP).—Perturbed Japanese stood in long lines at bank windows today, drawing out funds in anticipation of the President's order freezing assets in this country.

The Yokohama Specie bank, a center of Japanese-American business for the Pacific coast and the country at large, did a land office business—all outgoing. Harried officials and clerks were beseiged with questions.

The President's order was received here while business houses still were open altho it was after banking hours. Its effect was electric, not only in the city's large Japanese colony and Chinatown, but in American importing circles as well.

Exporters Nervous for Days.

Banks reported exporters and importers, nervous for days over the impending blow to their business, appeared almost as fearful over red tape regulations under the licensing procedure as over out-and-out business stoppages.

An oil company executive said there was no doubt the order meant a complete cutting off of the oil trade, and estimated that Japan had been taking about 15 per cent of the flow of oil from California alone.

The offices of the Japanese consul general and of Domei, the Japanese news service, hummed with telephone calls from worried business and civic leaders of the Japanese colony. Special concern was voiced over the order that no Japanese ships would be permitted to leave port.

American-born Japanese, with full United States citizenship status, were besought by alien orientals to act for them in personal money matters, to obviate license transactions. There was no accurate information on the extent of this practice.

Forty-five Ships Hide at Sea.

From 45 Japanese vessels said to be hovering at sea awaiting developments before venturing into American ports, there was no word except from the Janapese luxury liner Tatuta Maru. Officials of the NYK Line said the Tatuta Maru, hovering off San Francisco with a $2,500,000 cargo of silk and more than 100 Americans among her passengers, would not dock, as the ship previously reported it would.

The Tatuta Maru, carrying 247 passengers, originally was due at 5 a. m. Thursday. It came almost within sight of mainland, but late today was understood to have proceeded more than 300 miles out to sea before again turning eastward.

Coast guard headquarters here said no instruction had been received regarding detention of Japanese ships in port, but said there might be interesting developments tomorrow.

EXPECT JAPAN TO GRAB SHANGHAI FOREIGN AREAS

SHANGHAI, July 26 [Saturday] (AP).—American official quarters today expressed belief Japan's first retaliatory action against the freezing of her assets in the United States and the British empire would be taken at Shanghai.

They expected Japan might shortly take over the international settlement and the French concession, where more than 4,000,000 Chinese and 100,000 foreigners reside and where American investments valued at $50,000,000 are situated. British investments there are valued at $200,000,000.

Actual occupation, they believed, might be carried out thru the Japanese sponsored Nanking régime which, under Japanese prompting, has been threatening since its formation in March, 1940, to "abolish" foreign concessions and settlements.

ALL TRADE WITH NIPPON FIRMS IS PROHIBITED

Freezes China Funds at Own Request.

Pact Announced

VICHY, France, July 26 [Saturday] (AP).—The French foreign ministry announced at 4 a. m. today conclusion of an agreement with Japan for mutual defense of French Indo-China. The defense plan respects the territorial integrity of Indo-China and French sovereignty. Details of the military and technical accords still are being examined, it was stated. The foreign office communique quoted the Japanese government information office for most of its length, adding only two confirmatory sentences on France's part. It made no mention of the steps Japan will undertake, merely remarking that the practical means were being studied.

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—President Roosevelt struck back tonight against Japan for her push in French Indo-China by clamping a sweeping control over all economic intercourse between the United States and Japan, including cash, oil, ships, silk, and other assets.

Chiang Kai-shek.

At the same time, at the request of China, he tied up Chinese assets in this country so that no one but the beleaguered government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek can use them.

Hereafter, a treasury license will be needed to take any Japanese assets outside the country or to send anything to Japan. This meant, according to a treasury spokesman, that oil can be kept from Japan's war machine by refusal of or even failure to act upon requests for permission to ship oil.

Whether such an embargo actually would be clamped down, however, remained to be seen. The asset "freezing" order put the treasury in a position to turn the economic screws on Japan. Just how hard they will be applied may depend, to some extent, on future events in the far east.

Britain Follows U. S. Lead.

Canada swiftly followed President Roosevelt's lead by announcing that "the necessary steps have been taken to prevent the withdrawal of assets in Canada belonging to residents of Japan."

Britain followed suit, announcing four hours later that assets and credits of Japan in the British empire had been frozen. Informed sources in London made no estimate of the amount of Japanese assets affected, but suggested they were substantial, especially in far eastern colonies and Australia.

There were signs that The Netherlands government in London also would take parallel action. An official Dutch statement issued there said:

"In connection with the British and American action, the Netherlands government in London is in consultation with authorities in Batavia [Dutch East Indies] with regard to measures to be taken in view of the situation that has arisen as a result of Japan's encroachment upon Indo-China."

Will Affect Common Folk.

The sweeping Presidential order, besides its ramifications in the field of high international policy, may have a marked effect on common folk both in the United States and Japan.

For example, it eventually may mean that American women will have to do without silk stockings, except for substitutes like nylon, the supply of which is inadequate. It may affect the Japanese curio shop down the street. Anything connected with Japan is involved to some extent.

Edward H. Foley Jr., general counsel and acting secretary of the treasury, said that tonight's order, technically, froze the title to Japanese ships in American harbors but did not mean seizure of the vessels. However, under other proclamations, they cannot leave without treasury permission.

Foley said the order "freezes all trade" between the two countries, except as it is permitted by specific treasury licenses. Administration policy in granting such licenses, especially in the case of oil, he said, will be determined by a committee composed of himself as treasury representative; Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of state, and Francis Shea, assistant attorney general.

The result of this procedure, he added, "necessarily will have a restraining effect on trade."

Foley explained that in the case of Chinese assets in this country, supplementary orders have been issued which immobilize them except as the owners are willing to place them at the disposal of the nationalist government of China at Chungking or the Central Bank of China. The government and the bank were given complete freedom of action, as if the order never had been issued. This meant that no money or goods could be sent by Chinese or others to the Japanese occupied section of China.

Edict Applies to Hawaii, Too.

Foley explained that for the purposes of the control, Hawaii would be treated about the same as the continental United States, altho "normal" transactions between the Philippine Islands and Japan were permitted. Japanese banks in both places were exempted enough to permit them to receive and pay out deposits within the islands, but he said the exemptions merely put these banks on a par with American banks there and did not permit transactions of any kind that would not be sanctioned in the case of an American bank—such as the sending of money to Japan.

Permanent Japanese residents in this country who are not connected with the Nippon government were immediately exempted under a license granted persons who have resided here continuously since June 17, 1940. Similar action was taken when German and Italian funds were frozen last month.

May Use $500 a Month.

Other Japanese here will be allowed to use $500 a month of their own money for personal living expenses, and more if they can get special permission. Arrangements also will be made to permit Japanese offices here to meet "normal" pay rolls.

A White House statement, issued here and at Hyde Park, explained the freezing order. It said the action was "designed among other things to prevent the use of the financial facilities of the United States and trade between Japan and the United States, in ways harmful to national defense and American interest, to prevent the liquidation in the United States of assets obtained by duress or conquest, and to curb subversive activities in the United States."

It added that "this measure, in effect, brings all financial and import and export trade transactions in which Japanese interests are involved under the control of the government, and imposes criminal penalties for violation of the order."

Technically, the order prohibited the use or removal from the United States of any Japanese or Chinese property without a specific license for each transaction from the secretary of the treasury.

Besides applying to cash, checks, drafts, gold, and a long list of other assets, the order had the effect of immobilizing for the present at least, all Japanese ships in United States waters. Four were believed to have been caught by the order, and 41 more were reported hovering off the west coast of the United States, fearing to come into port.

131 Millions Involved.

It was estimated by some sources that, aside from the ships, some 131 million dollars of Japanese assets were involved, altho others figured the sum was much higher. There are between 60,000 and 70,000 Japanese nationals in United States territory, it was estimated, and many of them are expected to be affected by the order.

If Japan should retaliate in kind, she might tie up some 217 million dollars worth of American assets within her reach.

Technically, the order applied to all Chinese assets, but it was made clear that it would be administered in such a fashion as to do no harm to the cause of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who has been engaged in a four-year battle against Japanese invasion with the active sympathy of the United States.

In fact, the White House statement said that China was included in the order at the request of the generalissimo and "for the purpose of helping the Chinese government."

It was patent that the aim was to prevent the Japanese, by virtue of their occupation of a large portion of China, from getting possession of, or benefit from, any Chinese wealth which is within the jurisdiction of the United States government.

What Freeze Order Affects.

By treasury definition, the freezing order applied to the following:

"Money, checks, drafts, bullion, bank deposits, savings accounts, any debt, indebtedness or obligations, financial securities, commonly dealt in by bankers, brokers, and investment houses, notes, debentures, stocks, bonds, coupons, bankers' acceptances, mortgages, pledges, liens, or other rights in the nature of security, warehouse receipts, bills of lading, trust receipts, bills of sale, any other evidences of title, ownership or indebtedness, goods, wares, merchandise, chattels, stocks on hand;

"Ships, goods on ships, real estate mortgages, vendors' sales agreements, land contracts, real estate and any interest therein, leaseholds, ground rents, options, negotiable instruments, trade acceptances, royalties, book accounts, accounts payable, judgments, patents, trade marks, copyrights, contracts or licenses affecting or involving patents, trade marks or copyrights, insurance policies, safe deposit boxes, and their contents, annuities, pooling agreements, contracts of any nature whatsoever, etc."

The action was taken under the same authority which President Roosevelt used to blacklist 1,800 firms in Latin America suspected of acting for the benefit of Germany or Italy. A similar blacklist of Japanese agents in Latin America was believed authoritatively to be in the making.

Soon after issuing the freezing order, the treasury issued exemptions to 14 banks for the specific purpose of continuing trade between China and the United States, Canada, the Latin American countries, the British empire, Russia or the Dutch East Indies.

Another treasury order exempted "ordinary" trade between the Philippine islands and China or Japan, but provided that the exemption could not be used to help other blocked countries.

Japanese assets in this country, as far as official reports showed, consisted about half of cash and half of securities and other investments.

The freezing order also was expected to have a severely adverse effect on a large merchandise trade between the two countries, because of the difficulty of making payments.

This trade has been declining the last year, however, as the United States has either shut off or restricted sales of scrap iron, copper, other metals, machine tools, and gasoline to Japan.

Before the present war Japan was the third largest customer in the world for American merchandise and in 1940 still ranked fourth. Last year's Japaness purchases here totaled 227 million 220 thousand dollars, slightly below the average for the last 15 years. But in the first five months of this year such purchases slumped to $47,848,000, little more than half the $91,871,000 of the similar period last year.

Despite export controls by this government, principal merchandise moving to Japan so far this year has been petroleum, $11,713,000; copper, $3,966,000, and power driven metal working machinery, $1,342,000.

American purchases from Japan last year totaled 158 million 376 thousand dollars, which was about average, and have been running near the same rate this year. However, silk is the only item upon which the United States depends from Japan. Silk accounted for 106 million 951 thousand dollars or about two-thirds of all American purchases from Japan last year.

Barrage Balloon Service to Be Expanded by Army

Washington, D. C., July 25 [Special].—Expansion of the army barrage balloon service was announced today on the eve of the formal opening of the first barrage balloon training center Monday at Camp Davis, N. C., where a temporary center already is in operation. This school will accommodate 160 officers and 750 men, and is under the direction of Col. Robert Arthur of the coast artillery. A second center, near Paris, Tenn., will have facilities for 7,000 men.

JAPAN EXPECTED TO FREEZE U. S. ASSETS AT ONCE

Denies Indo-China Pact Is Aggressive Act.

TOKIO, July 26 [Saturday] (AP).—Usually reliable sources expressed belief today that Japan would reply within a few hours to the freezing of Japanese funds in the United States by taking similar action against America. It was obvious the Washington move did not take the Japanese by surprise and it was believed counter measures had been planned in advance.

Domei, Japanese news agency, said that well-informed but unofficial circles believed the freezing of Japanese credits in the United States was designed to check "Japan's construction of a new order in East Asia."

These sources, Domei said, pointed out the order was issued on the eve of an announcement that Japan had concluded an agreement with France, for joint defense of Indo-China.

Sees Security Menaced.

This coöperation, the government said, was brought about by "increasing signs that even the security of Indo-China is being threatened."

Prior to the announcement [which coincided with a similar statement in Vichy], one widely circulated newspaper called upon the Japanese to be prepared for any action the United States may take regarding the orient.

The Japanese news agency Domei said the agreement makes Japan responsible for "the territorial integrity of Indo-China." This step, it said, was neither "aggression nor a prerequisite for Japan's armed advance southward as speculated by certain inimical countries."

"Can't Anticipate" U. S. Action.

Commenting upon President Roosevelt's statement yesterday in which he spoke in the past tense of American reasons for permitting oil shipments to Japan, the newspaper Nichi Nichi foresaw the possibility of Washington taking some concrete steps and observed:

"Of course Japan cannot anticipate what course President Roosevelt's action will take and therefore she must be prepared. Hitherto the British-American strategy has been to keep Japan on the sidelines in the effort to destroy the axis powers. It is not certain that this strategy will be followed in the future."

[This comment was published before President Roosevelt's order freezing Japanese assets in the United States. There was no prompt reaction to the Roosevelt order.]

Newspapers generally adopted a more antagonistic attitude toward both Britain and the United States. They printed arguments blaming United States and British economic activities for the disruption of Japanese economy.

Troops Ready to Enter.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, July 25 (AP).—Japan will swiftly pour thousands of troops with war equipment into newly won military, naval, and air bases in southern French Indo-China, starting this week-end, usually reliable sources reported tonight.

[Foreign sources in Shanghai said they heard from Saigon that Japan would land between 40,000 and 50,000 troops in Indo-China about July 30. Foreign intelligence reports in Shanghai also said that "upwards of 1,000,000 men" were being called to arms in Japan in the greatest mobilization since outbreak of the war with China four years ago.]

Moves Closer to Singapore.

Japan has won the right to post troops at several coastal points in southern Indo-China, as well as to station warships in Cam Ranh bay and at Saigon and to establish several air bases in the southern part of the colony, it was reported authoritatively.

Informed sources said "several thousand" Japanese troops would be stationed at Saigon and along the southeast Indo-China coast and within Cambodia, which is on the Gulf of Siam, along Indo-China's border with Thailand [Siam].

All of these positions into which Japan is moving bring her closer to Singapore, Britain's great far eastern naval base, British Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies.

JAPANESE IN CANTON REGION ATTACKED BY CHINESE COLUMNS

HONGKONG, China, July 25 (AP).—The official Chinese Central News agency reported today that Chinese forces attacked vigorously in the Canton region, from which many Japanese troops have been withdrawn recently, presumably to be taken to French Indo-China.

Heavy Japanese casualties were reported in spite of strong support given by the Japanese air force. The heaviest Chinese attack was made by three Chinese columns against Sunkai, railway town 17 miles north of Canton.

Japan's move into Indo-China was expected here to result in sharp reduction of the important rice supplies Hongkong draws from the French colony, and also hamper shipping out of this British colony.

REDS MAY SEND COMMISSION TO BUY WAR GOODS

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—An indication that soviet Russia is to send a special mission to the United States to negotiate the purchase of war supplies came today from Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state.

Welles said he and the soviet ambassador, Constantine Oumansky, had discussed orders which Russia wishes to place in this country. He declined to give details on the ground they were a military secret.

BRITAIN FREEZES JAP ASSETS; U.S. LEAD FOLLOWED

Eden Tells of Defensive Steps in Malaya.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, July 26 [Saturday] (AP).—British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie visited the Japanese foreign office today and it was reported—without official confirmation—that he informed Foreign Minister Teijiro Toyoda his government was suspending all commercial treaties with Japan.

LONDON, July 26 [Saturday] (AP).—Great Britain froze assets and credits of Japan in the British empire today in parallel action with the United States.

Informed sources said this historic action against "a country which neither is a declared enemy nor occupied or controled by a declared enemy," included the freezing of Japanese ships in British waters. It was not stated here how many if any Japanese ships were involved.

These sources said the British measures "exactly parallel" those of the United States government and declared:

"The Japanese won't get away with anything more here than in the United States."

The official press notice said: "Treasury directions have been given to bankers under defense regulation 2A prohibiting as from today, July 26, the carrying out of orders affecting Japanese balances in gold and securities in the United Kingdom without license from the treasury. Corresponding action is being arranged in other parts of the empire."

Decline to Estimate Total.

Informed sources here declined to estimate the amount of Japanese assets affected, but it was suggested they were substantial, especially in far eastern colonies and in Australia.

Comment was withheld whether still further drastic actions were contemplated by Britain alone or by collaboration with the United States as a concrete demonstration of opposition to further Japanese penetration in French Indo-China or elsewhere in the orient.

There also was the question, on which informed sources declined comment, whether Britain was prepared to take steps shutting off trade with Indo-China.

Syrian Attitude Recalled.

It was recalled that Syria was declared "enemy occupied territory" long before the British began fighting their way into that country against the Vichy forces. But sources here explained, "that was because the Germans started to occupy the country's airfields and the Germans are our avowed enemies."

Britain still maintains consulates in Indo-China and apparently continues to carry on normal business relations there, the sources said, unlike her relations with the bulk of the colonies subject to Vichy.

URGE U. S. TO TAKE LEAD

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 26 [Saturday].—The United States should be allowed to take the lead in measures to combat the Japanese expansion in the far east. This is the theme of a long editorial in Saturday morning's Daily Mail.

Altho it classes Japan as "not yet an open enemy," The Daily Mail warns that "for Britain the situation is uncertain and perilous. Our hands are full in the west and middle east and it is obvious that the United States is a restraining influence on Japan in the Pacific. Without her help we could hardly expect to cope with the far eastern menace. For that reason America should have a preponderating voice in Pacific policy."

The Mail interpreted yesterday's speech of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in the house of commons as presaging a joint application of economic sanctions against Japan by the United States and the British empire.

Commons was told by Eden that the British government regarded the Japanese occupation of French Indo-China as a potential threat to the British territories and interests in the far east and had therefore already taken defensive action in Malaya.

"In anticipation of the threat," Eden added, "his majesty's government has been in close communication with the United States government, the government of the Netherlands, and, of course, the governments of the dominions. The attitude of the United States government has been publicly announced in no uncertain terms by the acting secretary of state and I am sure that the house joins me in welcoming that timely and salutary statement."

Germans Assail U. S. Move.

BERLIN, July 25 (AP).—Germany's political leaders watched the far east intently today, accusing the United States of "imperialistic aspirations."

President Roosevelt was referred to as "a collector of island bases all over the earth." The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung caustically called him "world president."

BRITISH DECLARE BLOCKADE WOULD PARALYZE JAPAN

Vision Industry Crippled Within Six Months.

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—A total economic blockade by the United States and the British empire would cripple Japanese industry within six months of an outbreak of war with Japan, British economic warfare experts said tonight.

Japanese occupation of French Indo-China will bolster Japan's stocks of five basic commodities, but even these gains would be outweighed by the effects on Japanese industry and export trade of economic sanctions, the experts said.

Import Balance Sheet.

Here, according to these experts, is the Japanese import balance sheet, a foundation on which she must continue to maintain more than 2,500,000 troops in the field, equip and supply the world's third largest navy, and expand an already large air force:

Iron ore: Japan is dependent on the United States and Britain for 73 per cent; British India supplies another 21 per cent.

Scrap iron: American supplies cut to almost nothing; Japan now living off accumulated stores.

Pig iron: Supply drastically cut from British India.

Oil: Japan has "enormous stocks" on hand, but modern war demands are proportionately great; American curtailment of high octane fuel viewed here as almost worthless, since Japanese are reported able to improve available fuel for aircraft use.

Heavy Copper Purchases.

Copper: Japan purchased heavily in Chile, United States, and Canada; sources in British empire now almost nothing and stocks in Japan are said to be dwindling steadily.

Lead: Formerly bought mostly in Burma, Australia, Canada, and the United States.

Zinc: Buying position in the British empire identical with that of lead; American defense priorities taking much that once went to Japan.

Tin: Japan once was one of the leading tin customers of Malaya and the Dutch East Indies. This source is closed, but there is tin in Indo-China and Thailand [Siam].

Nickel: Formerly bought from Canada. The lone nearby market is New Caledonia, now in "Free French" hands and soon to be closed to Japan.

Limited Stocks of Manganese.

Aluminum: Biggest supplies in Canada and the Netherlands East Indies. Both would be closed to Japan if sanctions are imposed.

Manganese: Supplies from India and Malaya would be lost to Japan in case of blockade. Limited stocks on hand.

Vanadium: Supplies of this important ferro alloy are almost exclusively the property of the British empire and the United States. One other source is Peru, where it is believed United States influence would be important.

Mercury: Italian supply shut off. The United States, Mexico, and Spain are other producers.

Rubber: Malay and East Indies supplies would be stopped by blockade, but considerable stocks are on hand in Thailand, and Indo-China produces some.

Coal "Very Scanty."

Coal: Very scanty, but stocks of anthracite are available in Indo-China.

Cotton: Almost all is imported from the United States and India, and would be cut off by a blockade.

Wool: Japan bought almost her entire stock in Australia.

In the last year the British empire has sharply scaled down its supplies to Japan. According to the ministry of economic warfare, exports of nickel, platinum, cobalt, copper, radium, aluminum, graphite, zinc, tin, industrial diamonds, rubber, asbestos, and mica have been cut to 1 or 2 per cent of the old figure.

By occupation of Indo-China, Japan gains an annual production of 70,000 tons of rubber, between 2,500 and 3,000 tons of tin, 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 tons of rice, 300 tons of tungsten, and 1,000 tons of zinc.

Threatened

HEDY LAMARR.

Baltimore, Md., July 25 (AP).—United States Commissioner James K. Cullen said today Sidney M. Buchanan, 23 years old, had waived a hearing on his removal to Los Angeles to face a charge of writing a threatening letter to Hedy Lamarr, movie actress.

Buchanan, draftee, who said he was inducted last November, appeared before Commissioner Cullen after he had been discharged from the army without trial at Edgewood, Md., arsenal on charges of desertion.

Cullen set bail at $5,000 at the request of California authorities. A federal warrant charged Buchanan with sending Miss Lamarr a communication "containing a threat to do bodily harm."

PINCH OF WAR EXTENDED TO U. S. SICKBEDS

Drug and Hospital Supply Shortages Reported.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The pinch of war and rearmament now has been extended to the sickbed. America faces what some quarters term a serious shortage in medical supplies.

The shortage falls into two categories; drugs and hospital supplies. The former, which America eventually may be able to cope with successfully as it did during the World war, has ensued from a dearth of raw materials caused by the war's interference with shipping.

An instance of the skyrocketing of price, gauze and adhesive tape were taken off the market Thursday for future delivery. Two of the leading manufacturers said they not only could not guarantee future price, but could not guarantee future delivery.

Zinc Demand Reduces Tape.

Explanation of the adhesive tape shortage might lie, it was said, in the fact that zinc oxide, used in its manufacture, is difficult to obtain because of the wide use of zinc in arms industries.

The shortage of surgical gauze, in the light of vast American stores of cotton, is more difficult to explain. It has been pointed out, however, that the medical corps of the army has required increased supplies of this material. Further, the American Red Cross is said to have sent considerable quantities abroad, particularly to Great Britain. Authoritative explanation, however, is lacking.

Armament requirements have made difficult the delivery of such hospital requirements as cast iron, steel, brass, and copper equipment, rubber goods, aluminum utensils [now off the market], and even cotton hospital garments, yardage price of which has increased 50 per cent since Jan. 1. Surgical needles, formerly imported from England, are at a premium. Catheters, imported from France, are unavailable. Silk worm gut, used for suture material, still is being imported from Spain, but the price has shot up.

Drug Market Unpredictable.

The drug market has become wholly unpredictable. The United States annually produces $10,000,000 worth of drugs from cultivated plants, but it uses $180,000,000 worth. Altho many botanical drug plants were grown here during the World war, they were discontinued after the armistice until gradually the country was again importing 80 per cent of its crude drugs.

The war has stopped the importation of almost every important botanical drug. None are coming out of central Europe, heart of the industry. Steamer shortage has almost stopped drug imports from North Africa and the near east. One result is a 200 per cent increase in some prices here.

"We really have a headache now," the president of one drug manufacturing concern said. "Synthetics have cut out most of the botanical drugs, but there are some that seem to be irreplacable. Digitalis is one."

Imports Halted Jan. 1.

Digitalis is widely used as a heart stimulant. It is a concentrate of digitalis leaves, grown mainly in England. Since Jan. 1 none has been imported. One American concern has its own digitalis farm on the shores of Lake Minnetonka in Minnesota, but the average American digitalis is said to be lacking in sufficient strength.

Belladonna is another stimulant, grown in Belgium, Germany, Hungary, and central Europe. Since Jan. 1 only 25 bales of its leaves have been imported. Trial shipments from India were found to be composed of worthless substitutes.

Henbane, from which stramonium, also a stimulant, is derived, comes from central Europe. Only 20 bales have been imported since Jan. 1, and its price has gone from 50 cents to $3 a pound.

Arnica Flower Price Soars.

The list is endless. It includes colchicum seed, used to produce colchicine, an alkaloid; barberry bark, used to produce barberine; arnica flowers, used to soothe sprains and bruises [which shot from $2 to $4.50 a pound in two months]; buckthorn bark, used to make laxatives, and White's squills, grown in Italy and used as a stimulant.

A threatened shortage in cinchona bark, grown principally in Java and used to make quinine, apparently has been averted. Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States public health service announced three months ago that the United States had acquired substantial supplies of it. The country also has a sufficient opium reserve, he said, to meet a three year demand.

Some Cod Liver Oil Cut Off.

Much of the country's supply of cod liver oil, originally coming from the Lofoten Islands of Norway, has been cut off, but a supply is available from Newfoundland. Halibut oil, a rich substitute, is being offered widely on the market, as are "fish liver oil concentrates," many of them made from tuna.

"What we'll do, of course, is what we did in the last war—get some substitutes," one manufacturer said. "We only stopped after the war because we could get drugs cheaper from Europe."

One shortage, which will not bother the sickbed at all but may cause extreme annoyance to women who have been wearing red hair, is a dearth of henna leaves. From these leaves comes henna dye.

No Priorities Established.

Washington, D. C., July 25 [Special].—Office of Production Management officials said today they cannot suggest any reason for a shortage in surgical gauze and adhesive tape. No priorities have been imposed on these items, they added. The army has been granted priority on some drugs. However, officials said hospitals and doctors can apply to OPM if they are facing such a shortage and they will immediately expedite the filling of such orders ahead of other civilian needs. The OPM can grant a preference rating certificate, which would put the hospitals and doctors ahead of other customers of supply houses.

ELECTROCUTED IN HOME.

Charles Wendt, 49 years old, a watchman, was killed by electric shock yesterday when he accidentally touched an exposed wire in the basement of his home at 9240 Luella avenue.

HOTEL GIVES UP ITS ALUMINUM IN CAPITAL DRIVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—The government today received its largest single lot of aluminum made available in the current drive when the Statler Hotels company of New York turned over 54,000 pounds of aluminum intended for a new 1,000 room hotel here.

Statler officials had been debating for some time what to do about aluminum which they purchased for windows in the huge hotel. The metal was purchased before priorities were imposed by the Office of Production Management, and officials were in the clear as far as priority regulations were concerned.

William S. Knudsen, director general of OPM, expressed appreciation to the Statler company and the metal manufacturer for turning over the metal, saying it was a "demonstration of patriotism and a great benefit to the national defense program."

Night Club Owner Arrested in $49,000 Union Shortage

Benton, Ill., July 25 [Special].—The loss of thousands of dollars of union funds in a Springfield night club venture was charged tonight against Eugene E. Scott, 52 years old, former boss of union electrical workers in central Illinois.

Scott was held in jail here under $10,000 bond on a warrant charging him with embezzling $49,076 from local 702 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Approximately 2,300 Illinois members of the AFL union paid dues to the local, of which Scott was secretary-treasurer. The local membership includes many electricians in the Rural Electrification administration and workers in Springfield, Peoria, Bloomington, Champaign, Danville, and other downstate cities.

Scott was arrested last night in Springfield, where he has lived in recent years and operated two night clubs, The Tropics and the Golden Gate. He was seized in the apartment of Miss Dorothy Harris, who had been his secretary at The Tropics.

Family in West Frankfort.

His wife and his daughter, Elizabeth, 25, the latter his assistant in union work, live in West Frankfort, where the headquarters of the big union is located.

"According to the information I have been able to gather," said State's Attorney Leonard J. Dunn of Franklin county, "Scott lost the money in his night clubs—which, I have been told, were consistently unprofitable."

Scott has lost the Golden Gate club but still is the titular owner of the Tropics, Dunn said. Miss Harris told authorities who questioned her that Scott had lost considerable money in the clubs.

Prosecutor Dunn, who went to Springfield from here to arrest Scott, said the union shortage was discovered last month after Scott was defeated for reëlection to the local offices he had held since 1933. A warrant for his arrest was issued on the basis of the audit.

Hidden by Bogus Checks.

The prosecutor said Scott forestalled a disclosure in previous audits by depositing bogus checks to cover the missing amounts. Just before an audit was made, Dunn said, Scott would write a large check on his personal bank account at Ziegler, Ill., and place it in a union account in a Springfield bank. When the check "bounced," some days later, Dunn said, nothing was done about it because Scott himself was both the payor and the payee.

The state's attorney said that when Scott was told of the shortages at the time of his arrest, his only comment was: "I didn't know they were so much." He had only 37 cents in his pockets when taken in custody.

CAROL TO LEAVE CUBA FOR HOME IN MEXICO CITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 25.—Former King Carol of Rumania announced unexpectedly today that he and Mme. Elena [Magda] Lupescu will sail tomorrow for Mexico. Interviewed by the Tribune correspondent, Carol and his chamberlain, Count Ernest Urdareanu, declined to explain their sudden decision to leave. Carol merely said he had decided to establish his residence in Mexico City for an indefinite period. He said he did not know whether he would return to Cuba. Altho he said he had "immensely" enjoyed his stay here, he added, "but it is time for us to leave."

He looked worried and excited. For several days rumors have circulated that members of secret totalitarian organizations had threatened his life and that native revolutionary organizations had demanded large sums of money from him.

Altho none of these reports could be confirmed, it has been known that the government two weeks ago doubled the guards assigned to his protection and both Carol and Mme. Lupescu have ceased appearing at receptions in their honor.

DELAY SAILING OF U. S. CONSULS FROM PORTUGAL

LISBON, Portugal, July 25 (AP).—Delay in clearing luggage thru customs today forced postponement until 6 p. m. tomorrow of the sailing of the naval transport West Point to New York with 400 American consular officials and other American citizens from Germany, Italy, and axis occupied territory. The vessel originally had been scheduled to sail tonight and the first of the passengers went on board shortly after 9 a. m. New assignments from the state department sent 28 of the consular officials to posts in England, Ireland, Africa, and Spain.

15 Die as Spanish Express Train Hits Switch Engine

LEON, Spain, July 25 (AP).—At least 15 persons were killed and 17 were injured today when the southbound Oviedo-Madrid Express crashed head-on into a switching engine and was derailed near Pola de Gordon, in northern Leon province.

RETREATING REDS BURN BIG CITY ON WAR FRONT: NAZIS

Berlin Again Admits Stiff Resistance by Foe.

BERLIN, July 25 (AP).—A German radio reporter tonight said that Vitebsk, a city of 127,000 and a bastion in the Stalin line, had been wiped out.

In a broadcast from the city, which is 90 miles northwest of Smolensk, the reporter declared, "one can only say a city once was here." [Smolensk, which is claimed by both the Germans and the Russians is 230 miles southwest of Moscow.]

He said it was 95 per cent destroyed, principally by retreating soviet soldiers who went from house to house, ordered out the occupants and burned the buildings.

Admits Stiff Resistance.

The high command's only announcement of the war front again spoke of operations proceeding "according to plan" against stiff resistance in some areas.

Altho the official war bulletin was general, it reported that "a large number of prisoners and war material are being captured daily."

A military spokesman declared that, in the far northern theater, Germany's Finnish allies had forced a passage between Lakes Ladoga and Onega and were menacing the Murmansk-Leningrad railway [presumably in the Petrozavodsk sector, where the Russians themselves reported heavy fighting].

He added that German forces also were progressing steadily on both sides of the Peipus and Ilmen lakes toward Leningrad.

Capture 10,000 Reds.

News dispatches stated that 10,000 Red prisoners, more than 100 cannon and other war material had been taken in the vicinity of Mogilev along the central front, where it was declared that soviet units were being encircled. The dead there, it was added, far exceeded the number of captives in hand.

One war reporter told of vicious hand-to-hand fighting with Russian troops entrenched in the Stalin line and said that Red army warriors were "stubborn unto death."

"Often they had to be slain in their rifle pits," a dispatch said in telling of German infantry storming the Red positions. Russian counterattacks also were acknowledged and at times Nazi artillery was "firing point blank at a distance of 100 yards," against the charging Russians.

The air force said that 26 soviet bombers were burned as a result of a lucky hit which exploded a gasoline truck on a Russian air field east of Smolensk.

The official news agency, DNB, reported that German submarine chasers [light, fast, surface craft] destroyed a soviet submarine in the Barents sea with depth charges on July 23. [How German surface craft reached those far northern waters was not disclosed.]

Claim Reds Hemmed In.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 25 (AP).—Russian troops about Kiev, the Ukrainian capital, are surrounded on three sides and "fighting desperately to break out from an ever narrowing circle," Hungarian military reports said tonight.

Destroy Two Submarines.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 25 (AP).—Finnish patrol boats tonight officially were reported to have destroyed two soviet submarines in the Gulf of Finland, while the high command claimed new land advances into Russian territory on the northern front.

Finnish troops attacking across the northeastern side of Lake Ladoga were credited with pushing the Russians back to the former Finnish-Russian frontier. In one sector Finnish troops were said to have penetrated 25 miles into Russian territory and in another a Russian regiment was reported wiped out.

MEXICO OUSTS 'ALLEGED SEEKER OF NAZI PLANES

MEXICO CITY, July 25 (AP).—Informed diplomatic sources said tonight that Mexico had expelled a Nicaraguan political exile, Gen. Roberto Hurtado, because he had urged the German minister here to provide him with planes for a revolution in Nicaragua.

The ministry of the interior was said to have placed Gen. Hurtado in the custody of United States authorities at Laredo, Tex., where he was imprisoned pending final disposition of the case.

Gen. Hurtado, a member of Nicaragua's Nazi party, was said to have written German Minister Rudt von Collenberg that, "I have enough arms, but I need planes" for a coup against the Managua régime that exiled him several years ago.

One source said there were persistent rumors that crated Messerschmitt fighters had arrived recently in the Carribean area and are stored on out-of-the-way islands.

REPORT BULGARIA MOVES TROOPS TO TURKISH BORDER

Nazi Sailors Appear in Streets of Sofia.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, July 25.—Reports continued to circulate here today of increasing Bulgarian troop concentrations on the Turkish-Bulgarian frontier.

Travelers entering Turkey reported that large numbers of Bulgarian soldiers are being moved by train. Among them were men from 45 to 50 years of age. This was taken to mean that the summoning of men for service has been extensive.

Diplomatic circles in Ankara voiced the belief that greater military preparation will be necessary before Bulgaria makes any move against Turkey, even if Germany is urging such action which, so far as is known here, is not the case at present. Some military observers estimated that Bulgaria may have 100,000 troops near the frontier.

More Nazi Sailors Seen.

From Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, came reports of the appearance on streets of increasing numbers of German naval officers and sailors, with naval uniforms outnumbering those of the other branches of the Nazi armed forces.

A neutral businessman arriving here from Berlin said nothing was known publicly in Germany about any rift between Adolf Hitler and Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

[The German radio on Thursday ridiculed a rumor that Goering was in a concentration camp.]

The traveler said that the internal situation appeared stable and that the Germans were confident of ultimate victory. He insisted that the Russian war is popular with the German public.

Exhibits Captured Documents.

MOSCOW, July 25 (AP).—S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, said today that capture of documents on the German-Russian front had disclosed Germany was "secretly preparing a surprise attack on Turkey.

Lozovsky showed the documents to foreign correspondents at a press conference. The documents, which were said to have been captured from the 52d German chemical regiment, included maps of European Turkey with the Dardanelles and the Bosporus.

ECUADOR CALLS MORE MEN FOR PERU WAR AS HEAVY FIGHTING RAGES

QUITO, Ecuador, July 25 (AP).—Reporting fighting "of great intensity all day yesterday and last night" against Peru in their border war, Ecuador today ordered all men born between 1916 and 1919 to report for military duty within five days. A communique said the Peruvians "in great force attacked Chacras and Huaquillas." A second communique reported a naval fight in which the Ecuadorean gunboat Calderon was attacked by Peruvian ships. The communique said the gunboat was undamaged.

Peru Acts for Peace.

LIMA, Peru, July 25 (AP).—The Peruvian government tonight prepared a note to Argentina accepting "peaceful means" to halt the border fighting with Ecuador, it was learned reliably. Ecuador already has replied to Argentina's suggestion that the nations call a truce to their century old dispute.

America Sends New Appeal.

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—The United States sent a new appeal to Peru and Ecuador tonight to end frontier clashes and mediate their border dispute. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles dispatched identical telegrams to the Quito and Lima governments giving the United States' "wholehearted support" to a similar appeal made yesterday by Argentina.

GERMAN THRUSTS STOPPED ON ALL FRONTS—MOSCOW

Fighting Enters 11th Day in Smolensk Drive.

BULLETIN.

MOSCOW, July 26 [Saturday] (AP).—An air raid alarm sounded here at 5:45 p. m. yesterday [9:45 a. m. Chicago time] and ended at 7 p. m. without any bombs being dropped. It was the fifth successive night raid.

MOSCOW, July 26 [Saturday]—(AP).—German efforts to smash thru the Polotsk-Nevel-Smolensk triangle 230 miles west of Moscow were held for the tenth consecutive day yesterday, and there were "no substantial changes" elsewhere on the long Baltic-Black Sea front, the soviet information bureau announced today.

Fighting raged on into this, the eleventh day, in this vital area, and in the Porkhov and Zhitomir sectors. The Germans were reported still stalled 100 miles south of Leningrad in their northern push and 80 miles west of Kiev, Ukrainian capital in the south.

Heavy Action in North.

Earlier the Russians had announced that heavy fighting also was raging on the Finnish front in the Petrozavodsk sector north of Lake Ladoga.

[A dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, said a Russian counterattack in the Murmansk area, the exact location of which has not yet been defined by either side, was "proceeding according to plan."]

The Red air force claimed the destruction of 34 German planes Thursday, and the communique added that five out of six German planes approaching Moscow early Friday morning were destroyed. The Rumanian port of Constanta was bombed.

Russian resistance at the front was matched by the growing effectiveness of Moscow's defense against German night air attacks.

Single Raider Breaks Thru.

For, it was stated officially, the fourth successive aerial assault upon this capital—delivered in two sections during Thursday night and early Friday—was a greater failure than any that had come before. Only a single raider was able to break thru the city's defenses, and that lone attacker was shot down, along with another destroyed outside of Moscow.

Official accounts of the fighting at the fronts made it appear that guerrilla fighting was spreading far behind the Nazi lines and that scouts using the ancient advantage of familiar terrain were causing the invaders many a local disaster.

For example, a guerrilla party operating near a village identified as "N" launched a dawn surprise attack on the Germans. A large Nazi force was "substantially annihilated" in a bog.

Claims Three Million Slain.

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—M. Averin, a soviet political commentator declared in a broadcast from Moscow tonight that 3,000,000 persons had been killed thus far in the soviet-German conflict.

TALMADGE NAMES A. M. GATES NEW HEAD OF COLLEGE

Atlanta, Ga., July 25 [Special].—Gov. Eugene Talmadge today confirmed the appointment of a new president for the Georgia State Teachers college at Statesboro, Ga., to replace Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, ousted on the governor's charge of advocating racial co-education.

Talmadge said Dr. Albert M. Gates, president of Brewton-Parker institute, a Baptist junior college at Mount Vernon, Ga., had been selected to succeed Dr. Pittman. Dr. Gates was chosen by the governor, Chancellor S. V. Sanford of the University of Georgia, and Chairman Sandy Beaver of the board of regents.

SOVIET CAPTIVES DESCRIBE LIFE IN RUSSIA AS BLUFF

Need a Pull to Get Along, Finns Told.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE FINNISH FORCES ADVANCING TOWARD KEMI, Russia, July 23—[Via courier to Helsingfors] [Delayed].—A Finnish patrol, which had penetrated far behind the soviet lines on the Karelian front to plant land mines, returned to camp today with five Russian prisoners.

After the Finns had washed their faces and hands, they sat down and consumed astonishing portions of a soup made of American corned beef, potatoes, and greens.

I acted as interpreter as the Finns conversed with their captives. Instead of the Finns interrogating the Russians, it was the reverse. The Russians put their questions slyly.

Expected to Be Tortured.

It developed they had expected to be tortured and put to death after being questioned. The prisoners said political commissars had told them the Finns would pour gasoline over them and set them afire, and that their noses and ears would be cut off. The Finns laughed. With evident relief the Russians joined in the laughter.

A six foot Tartar from Kazan, a former factory worker, wanted to know how many hours a day people worked in Finland. He was told that Finland has an eight hour day.

"But what do you have to do afterwards?" the Tartar asked.

He disclosed that in all the factories in which he had been employed, workers were obliged to attend propaganda courses several evenings a week. When the daily life of the Finnish worker was explained to him, he said he hoped that he could remain in Finland and get a job there. He wanted to know how long he would have to work before he could buy a watch and a bicycle.

Need "Blat" to Get Along.

This has been his ambition for several years. In Russia his earnings had been consumed by his simplest needs. One must have "blat" to get along, he said. "Blat" is the Russian word for "pull."

The prisoners, with the exception of an elderly peasant from the Ukraine, asked about life in Finland. A worker from Moscow spat as he said that Dictator Stalin's special decree calling for a "happy, joyous life" for the Russian workers was bluff. Everything in Russia, he said, was bluff. But no one dares to call the bluff because of the GPU [secret police], he added.

Then the Ukrainian peasant began a tirade against the communist régime. He said that the crops on his collectivized farm had been taken away with little or no recompense. All the Ukrainians, he declared, hoped the Germans would win the war. The other prisoners nodded their assent.

Share Cigarets with Captives.

Finnish soldiers only receive three cigarets a day, but many receive packages from home containing cigarets. These were shared with the Russians, who were 35 years of age or more. All had wives and children whom they despaired of seeing again.

The Moscow worker told how the GPU had shot many of the prisoners which the Finns had turned over to the soviet government after the winter war and had sent others to work on Sakhalin Island along Russia's Pacific coast.

Sen. Wheeler's Daughter Resigns Labor Board Post

St. Louis, Mo., July 25 (AP).—Miss Frances Wheeler, 25 years old, daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] today resigned as a field examiner for the National Labor Relations board office here. Miss Wheeler, whose father has been a bitter critic of the Roosevelt administration's foreign policy, declined to give her reasons for resigning except to say she had contemplated quitting for months. She said she would join her two sisters at Lake Geneva, Wis., for a brief vacation and then seek other employment.

ICELANDERS SEE AN EVIL OMEN IN U. S. OCCUPATION

'Fire Draws Fire' Is View as Troops Arrive.

New York, July 25 [Special].—The American soldiers sent to Iceland are regarded by the natives with anything but enthusiasm, but are more popular than the British they are succeeding, members of the crew of the Iceland freighter Dettifoss said on arriving here today with a cargo of fish, cod liver oil, and wool.

Peter Gudjonsson, 15 year old messboy, expressed the general opinion of the seamen when he said Icelanders feel that fire draws fire, and that any occupying army would bring trouble.

Troops—Then Bombers.

"The Germans never flew anywhere near us until the British troops came last year, did they?" he asked. "Now with both British and American troops there — well, you know how things happen.

"The English soldiers, particularly the military police, are often rude and arrogant. Sometimes they even fire their guns in the air to frighten us."

More Troops Arriving.

He said he had seen 30 American warships arrive with the first contingent of American soldiers. They are working day and night, he said, building gun emplacements and other defense works. More troops are arriving all the time, he said.

First Mate Sigmund Sigmundson, who saw "thousands of marines" land, said that British censorship was strict and that all mail from Iceland to this country has to be sent via London for inspection.

The officers, as well as Capt. E. Stefansson, who refused to be interviewed, wore tie clasps bearing tiny American and Icelandic flags. The Dettifoss left Iceland July 14, meeting only one warship—and that American.

British Cadet Is Killed in Ground Crash at School

Albany, Ga., July 25 (AP).—A British cadet training to fly warplanes for the RAF was killed today when his grounded training plane was smashed by another trainer which was attempting to take off. The cadet, D'Arcy H. Wilson of Barkbooth, Windermere, Westmorland, England, was sitting in his plane on the flight line when the crash occurred. Army officers at Darr Aero Tech, where 291 Britons are taking primary training, declined to give the name of the cadet who was flying the plane which struck Wilson's. He was not seriously injured.

U. S. TO OPEN ITS NAVY PLANE BASE IN TRINIDAD AUG. 1

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, July 25.—Formal opening of the United States naval seaplane base in this British colony, for which the lease was signed in April, will take place on Aug. 1, when Capt. A. W. Radford will take over as commanding officer.

Meanwhile, the work of clearing the ground and beginning shore construction is going forward rapidly, while intense studies are being made of malaria mosquito, the first "enemy" which the army and navy must vanquish here.

Great slashes have been made in the jungle along Chaguaramus and Carenage bays, which command the narrow entrance to the Gulf of Paria which can provide anchorage for a whole fleet. At Carenage bay the seaplane base proper is being built. Present plans are for a base to facilitate aerial patrols of the Caribbean.

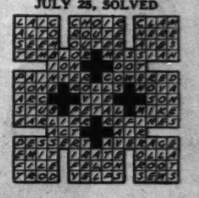
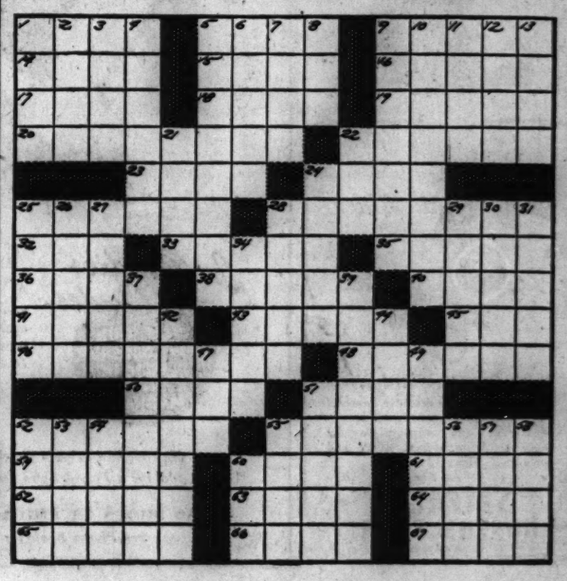
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, JULY 25, SOLVED





IT'S F. D. R. WHO 'GOES TOO FAR,' WHEELER SAYS

President Subscribes to Attack on Senator..

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—The President is the one who has "gone too far" in taking this country down the road to war and permitting Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and other cabinet members openly to advocate steps which will mean war, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said today in reply to an attack by Mr. Roosevelt in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Secretary Stimson charged yesterday that Wheeler, leader of the senate noninterventionists, has been guilty of near treasonable action. He based his accusation on evidence that two postcards, urging that persons opposed to the involvement of the United States in the European war write to the President, had gotten into the hands of soldiers.

President Backs Attack.

Today at his press conference Mr. Roosevelt gave his blessing to the secretary's attack on a member of the United States senate by commenting that he agreed with the captions on editorials in two New York newspapers which read: "Mr. Wheeler Goes Too Far," and "On Dangerous Ground."

Wheeler's opposition to the administration's foreign policy has made him the target of numerous other attacks from the White House, it was recalled.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked if he had advance information of Stimson's attack on Wheeler. He said he had not, altho it was believed in some circles that he had approved if not initialed Stimson's statement.

Reported Written by Early.

In White House circles it was reported that the secretary's words were written by Stephen T. Early, White House secretary in charge of press. The question which brought the reading of the statement from Stimson at his press conference in the war department yesterday was reported planted with a newspaper man who is friendly with Stimson's war policy.

Wheeler emphasized that more than a million cards had been sent out under his franking privilege. He said he would be willing to bet that less than 100 were received by members of the armed forces. Most of the names of addressees were taken from a commercial list available to any one wanting to buy it. Other names were from Wheeler's personal files of letters received during his anti-war campaign in the senate.

Denies Soldiers on List.

The senator denied emphatically that any soldiers as such had been included on the mailing list. The mailing of the cards, which contained anti-war quotations from President Roosevelt's speeches and others, had no connection with the current proposal to lengthen the terms of service of draftees, National Guardsmen and reservists, he declared, having been ordered addressed and mailed before congress began consideration of the question.

"Contrary to the impression Mr. Stimson tried to give," Wheeler declared, "the cards were sent out before there had been any mention of retaining the citizen soldiers in the armed forces, either by Mr. Roosevelt or the war department. I only regret that I wasn't able to send postcards to every mother and father in the United States."

EDWARD O. HOLLY NAMED TO POST IN STATE BUREAU

Edward O. Holly of Berwyn, has been appointed superintendent of registration in charge of the Chicago office of the department of registration and education. The announcement was made yesterday by Frank G. Thompson, department director, in Springfield.

Holly is Republican committeeman for Berwyn township. He has been active in political affairs there and in other Cook county suburban towns. He was a suburban leader in Gov. Dwight H. Green's primary and election campaigns. His home is at 6540 34th street, Berwyn.

6TH CORPS AREA GETS NEW CHIEF, GEN. CUMMINS

Veteran of 38 Years' Army Service.

Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Cummins, yesterday assumed command of the 6th corps area, succeeding Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel. The 6th comprises Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Gen. Cummins comes here from command of the 5th division, one of the army's streamlined triangular divisions at Fort Custer, Mich.

Commissioned in 1903.

He is 60 years old, a native of St. Louis, Mo., where he was graduated from St. Louis university in 1901. He was commissioned from civilian life in 1903, served in the Philippines, and in France as a division machine gun officer. He was appointed a brigadier general of the line Feb. 1, 1938, with command of the 18th infantry brigade at Boston.

His home will be the corps area commander's quarters at Fort Sheridan, where he will live with his wife and daughter, Kathleen.

Vacation Army Camp.

Gen. Cummins announced yesterday construction of a camp where soldiers can lie abed and give the bugler a Bronx cheer—where there'll be no work and no drill, and nothing to do but swim, fish, play baseball, golf, or tennis. It will be built soon near Decatur, Ill.

The camp will occupy part of a 27 acre park area east of Lake Decatur, with 90 tents and facilities for 500 men. Vacationing troops from Chanute field are to be transported the 65 miles to the camp by motor. Other soldiers vacationing in central Illinois also will be welcomed.

Gen. Cummins also announced that a school for army officers on duty with ROTC units, the first of its kind in this corps area, will be held at Fort Custer, Mich., Aug. 4 to 23. The purpose is to bring ROTC instructors up to date on developments in their field and standardize instruction. Eighty-eight officers will attend.

SOLDIERS TOLD TO AVOID ARMY FACTS IN LETTERS

Fort Devens, Mass., July 25 (AP).—Acting on the advice of the British censor in the western hemisphere, who is stationed in Bermuda, the war department cautioned all soldiers of this fort today to refrain from mentioning military facts in personal mail to friends, especially to those in foreign countries.

In a circular to Col. William A. Smith, post commander, the war department said:

"The director of British censorship, western hemisphere, has brought to the attention of the war department several letters written by United States army personnel to individuals in foreign countries in which mention was made of matters pertaining to the military establishments. While the cases reported appeared to be the result of indiscretion, measures must be taken to cause this practice to be discontinued. All personnel of your command will be directed to omit all reference to matters pertaining to the national defense in personal letters written by them, especially to foreign countries."

GENERALS LASH TENDENCY TO DO THINGS EASY WAY

Cavalry Units Too Slow in War Games, They Say.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Bliss, Tex., July 25.—Lack of alertness, plus slowness in movement and avoidance of the more strenuous physical duties of combat, were the greatest faults displayed by the 17,000 cavalrymen who played at war in the desert country of New Mexico during the last two weeks.

Gen. Krueger [top] and Gen. Swift.

These criticisms were made today by Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the 3d army, and Maj. Gen. Innis P. Swift, commander of the 1st cavalry division and director of the war games. More than 300 officers attended the critique, held in the post theater at Fort Bliss.

"Alertness during the maneuvers left lots to be desired," Gen. Krueger stated. "On several occasions, as I roamed the maneuver area during the night, sentries failed to challenge me. This was bad. They didn't know me from Adam's off ox. Anybody could have pinned a few stars on his shoulders and done the same."

Raid Red Headquarters.

It was revealed at the critique that during the last "battle" of the war games, a 15 man raiding party of the Blue army stole thru Red sentry lines at night and invaded headquarters of the Red army. Their mission was to capture Gen. Swift, commander of the Red 1st division, and win a $25 prize offered by the Blue commander. They failed only because Gen. Swift was 20 miles away at another field headquarters.

Gen. Swift declared at the critique that he was so proud of the speed and aggressiveness of this raiding party that he had given its commander $25 to divide among his men.

Assails "Easy Way" Tactics.

Criticism of a tendency on the part of units in the war games to do things the easy way was voiced by Gen. Krueger.

"Entirely too much dependence was placed on scout cars alone for gathering information about the enemy," he declared. "Greater use must be made of mounted and dismounted reconnaissance. Soldiers should be taught to go as far as they can on their horses, and then get down and crawl on their bellies."

"Again, I discovered that quartermaster units were distributing rations for the maneuvers from Fort Bliss depots," Gen. Krueger added. "These quartermaster units should have done their part in the field, working in the dark as they would have to do in real campaigns."

USO CAMPAIGN IN CHICAGO HITS $560,000 MARK

Chicago's campaign for the United Service Organizations had netted $560,000 last night with receipt of $5,970 from subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation.

A contribution of $5,000 was received from the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, $400 from the American Bridge company, $470 from Universal Atlas Cement company, and $100 from the American Steel and Wire company. Smaller amounts came in from United States Steel branches in Joliet, Waukegan, and Gary.

In addition, Chicago employés of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., contributed $275 and employés of Rand, McNally & Co. added $250 to the $250 already contributed by the company. Mandel Brothers contributed $1,500.

"NO BLACKOUT"

In an address broadcast to the nation and the world on Sept. 3, 1939—the day that Great Britain and France declared war on Germany — President Roosevelt declared:

"I have said not once but many times that I have seen war, and that I hate war. I say that again and again.

"I hope the United States will keep out of this war. I believe that it will. And I give you assurances that every effort of your government will be directed toward that end.

"As long as it remains within my power to prevent, there will be no blackout of peace in the United States."

Ministry's Optimism Is Hit in Parliament.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—Despite the optimistic statement yesterday by Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of food, regarding the food supplies in this country and the efforts taken to insure equitable distribution, members of parliament today expressed dissatisfaction with that department.

A. B. Baxter, Conservative, told the house of commons he was convinced that only the national protest had prevented enforcement of an edict denying rationed foodstuffs to shopkeepers with fewer than 25 registered customers. Such an order, he said, would have caused hardship on a very large scale and been "the death sentence as far as little traders are concerned."

Charges Combines Are Favored.

Baxter declared that the tendency of the government "in this war on the domestic front has been more and more to strengthen great combines at the expense of the individual and the way is being paved for the great octupus of state control."

Two other Conservatives took the same view. Lieut. Col. G. F. Doland said "a very insiduous method has crept into the ministry of food and other departments of the state for crushing out small traders." Capt. A. S. Cummingham-Reid complained that hundreds of small restaurant keepers found great difficulties in making a living because of sharp limitations in the amounts of rationed foodstuffs they are allowed, whereas communal restaurants receive "very generous" supplies.

Edgar Granville, Liberal, urged the food minister [Lord Woolton] to make it clear that small shopkeepers will be allowed to exist, especially at the present time when the food supplies must be scattered over large areas.

Maj. Lloyd George declared that it was not the intention of the ministry to put the small man out of business.

Press Criticizes Administration.

The Evening News caustically editorializes on the food front. It says: "The two government departments of agriculture and food are patting themselves on the back. The housewife might prefer to kick them elsewhere. R. S. Hudson, minister of agriculture, says the food situation is good. Woolton, the food minister, says the food stocks position is good, too."

After reviewing the criticisms brought up in yesterday's debate, the News concludes, "What is wanted is a concerted plan of distribution and control thoroly organized to stop racketeers."

The new importance attached to food was evinced in two court prosecutions today. Michael Kundel, a 56 year old egg tester, admitted stealing 27 eggs worth 5 shillings 6 pence [about $1.10] at the controled price. He was sent to prison for six weeks.

Harry Lightfoot Hollands had stored a food package in a grocery store which he formerly owned. Mice had strewn cereals all over the floor. Hollands was fined 11½ pounds [about $46] on a charge of "wasting food."

NEW BOTTLENECK IN NAVY PROGRAM —NAVAL ENGINES

Delay Laid to Burocracy and Extravagance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—The present bottleneck in the construction of a two ocean navy is naval engines, rather than ships, it was learned authoritatively today.

At the outset of the two ocean navy program the bottleneck appeared to be a lack of sufficient shipbuilding ways in government and private yards. But in the last year, the navy has pushed into every possible shipyard to lay the keel of a warship or an auxiliary vessel.

The hunt for shipyards was undertaken with a view not only to pushing the building program, but also with a view to making members of congress navy-minded. Admirals are well aware that nothing makes a congressman or senator so naval-minded as fat naval contracts in his home district or state.

As construction began at the new tempo the naval department remained fearful that the nation lacked sufficient shipyards to carry out the ambitious program under which 360 ships are on order. Of these, about 60 actually are under construction and about 300 are contracted for or on the drafting board.

Fall Behind Other Powers.

In the last few weeks it has become increasingly apparent to the navy department that the nation is not ready to turn out naval engines at the rate needed to keep abreast of present shipbuilding facilities.

The United States has been behind other powers in the development of naval engines. This has been due to the indecision of burocracy and to buck passing and lack of coördination and coöperation, according to observers.

Germany began developing the Diesel engine for naval craft, particularly submarines, in 1904. The United States did not begin experimentation until 1912.

At the close of the World war, when veils of secrecy were lifted, it was found that the Diesels the United States was using in submarines were twice as heavy as those in comparable German U-boats, which was convincing evidence that German marine engineers were far ahead of Americans.

Civilian Aid Declined.

Since the war the naval design bureau and engineering bureau have not stepped up their tempo. Navy officers have not made use of the best civilian brains. Former Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison attempted to break the navy caste system in the construction division and bring in civilian experts, but this effort has lagged since he left the department. The admirals did not welcome the outsiders.

The navy construction program has been complicated further by extravagance. Naval designers insist on the same precision in small auxiliary craft that they demand in battleships. As a result, ships which could be designed in simple straight lines are miniature editions of the intricacies of modern fighting craft.

These craft get Diesels of modern design when steam engines would serve as well and permit the use of Diesels in combat craft. Furthermore, the steam engines would be easier to operate and thus would release the technicians required to operate and maintain Diesels on fighting craft.

Precision on unnecessary items is another manifestation of navy extravagance. Everything must be tooled to the thousandth of an inch, even simple brackets for fastening light and power cables. This makes for expense without increasing serviceability.

WOMAN STARVING SELF IN PROTEST AT BEING JAILED

Accused Arsonist's Son Ends His 'Strike.'

Glencoe, Minn., July 25 [Special].—"I'll never eat again until I'm cleared of these false charges," Mrs. Eleanor Jaffray, 42 years old, declared today as she lay on a cot in a jail cell where for 17 days she has refused food.

Mrs. Eleanor Jaffray.

The woman and her son, Robert, 23, are being held on charges of second degree arson for alleged complicity in setting a fire which destroyed their chicken hatchery last May 15. Their hired man, Clyde Weaver, pleaded guilty to setting the fire and implicated them.

Son Eating, Says Sheriff.

Robert began the hunger strike with his mother following their arrest on July 9 and still professes to be on it, but Sheriff Arthur G. Tessmer says he has been eating for a week.

"He tells us he is throwing his food out the window, when we ask him what happened to the food on his plate," the sheriff related, "but we haven't found any that he has thrown away and the plate is emptied every day."

The state charges that the hatchery was burned to collect about $18,500 insurance. Weaver asserted Mrs. Jaffray induced him to set the fire, promising him a lifetime job. The hired man, having pleaded guilty, is now awaiting sentence.

Small Equity Claimed.

"My conscience is clear," Mrs. Jaffray told interviewers. "I had nothing to do with the fire and in time they'll find that out. I had an equity of only about $1,200 of insurance; the rest was held by a firm that I owed for most of the hatchery equipment.

"Does it seem reasonable that I would have burned down the hatchery to collect that little insurance when I could have made a profit of about $4,000 on a good season which was in prospect?"

BERLIN EFFORTS AT CAMOUFLAGE CALLED FUTILE

New York, July 25 (AP).—German efforts to camouflage Berlin by planting trees on rooftops were appraised by a tree research authority today as futile because of physical and economic problems.

F. A. Bartlett of Stamford, Conn., founder of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, said effective camouflage of Berlin's 350 square miles would require more than 200 million trees.

Should this be done, he added, tall spires and domes unadaptable to tree placements would still serve as aviators' landmarks.

WAR WITH JAPAN—FOR WHAT?

Apparently the Vichy French government and the Japanese have reached an agreement, or are near an agreement, which will give that country air and naval bases in Indo-China. Sumner Welles, the acting secretary of state, talking to reporters, said that Japan had been given a definite warning thru its ambassador in Washington that any move into French Indo-China would be regarded as a threat to American security and a step toward further conquest, and that strong counter measures would be taken to check it.

The Japanese are reported to have moved their transports and warships into two Indo-China ports and to be prepared to take possession. The new bases would put them about a thousand miles west of Manila and 800 miles north of Singapore. Supposedly they are threatening the Dutch East Indies. Mr. Welles says this is an aggression which bears "directly upon the vital problem of our national security."

Just how does it do so? Elsewhere on this page is a map showing the geographical relation of the Japanese advance into Indo-China to the territory of the United States. The movement concerns imperial territory of France nearly eight thousand miles from our continent. It may concern British and Dutch imperial possessions. How does it concern us? Why should we go to war because an Asiatic power is going south in Asia?

There is no indicated attack on the Philippines. We have told the Filipinos that they are about to accept responsibility for themselves. They get their complete independence in 1946. They say they want it and are willing to take the chances. The Japanese movement toward Malayan resources is not in the direction of the American continent, which still remains on this side of the Pacific.

Every time a nation-on-the-make starts moving in an opposite direction from American territory and putting its armed forces farther away, Mr. Roosevelt and the proxy voices find a new peril to American security. We know that the British have wanted to make Singapore an outpost of the American republic, and both the British and the Dutch have wanted to put the Netherlands East Indies under the protection of the American flag.

Are we not only to police the four freedoms in all parts of the world but as an economic effect of that to say who is to have the resources of the world? The job grows bigger and bigger.

The four freedoms are not in a particularly healthy state in any of the yast region to which Singapore is the key, but that is not so important as the very heavy investments of capital in profitable enterprises, which are not less profitable because of the proximity of abundant and cheap native labor.

Mr. Roosevelt, supporting Mr. Welles' war talk to Japan, told the reporters that he had endeavored to subsidize the Japanese and, in a fashion, pay them to be good by letting them buy their oil here. He said that scheme has worked for two years and he offered the explanation—for what it was worth—to placate other friends of the four freedoms who haven't understood why the administration was supporting both sides in the Chinese war. The Chinese got encouraging words and some supplies; the Japanese got the fuel with which to attack them. The doctrine that American supplies to our friends, the belligerents, must not be destroyed en route did not apply on the Burma road to which American gasoline carried the Japanese bomb.

Mr. Roosevelt's thought on the matter, as he revealed it, was that if the Japanese got enough fuel to bomb the Chinese they wouldn't seek another source of supply and, consequently, would be deterred from moving south, going into Indo-China, and reaching out for British and Dutch possessions. These imperial possessions of friends of the White House apparently were the chief objects of Mr. Roosevelt's solicitation, and when Japan diverts some of its force away from the war with China and brings it to bear on the British and the Dutch we talk of war, which, of course, will be a war for the democratic way of life. However thin that may be in China, it is a generous helping there compared with what is dished out in the Malayan investment fields.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands is reputed to be one of the wealthiest women in the world. Her investments are large and profitable and her portfolio undoubtedly contains many paying shares in East Indian rubber, oil, and tin. Her country might not only lose the lands of its Asiatic conquests but the queen might suffer a serious personal loss. Her daughter, the crown princess, and her children are on this side of the water, where her husband has visited her, and they are among the royal friends of the Roosevelt family to whom the White House extends welcome and hospitality. Mr. Roosevelt has come to be very fond of kings, kinglets, princes, and princelings and, in the good old royal fashion, has invited them to ask for it, even if it should be half of his kingdom.

The map on this page shows the French positions in Indo-China upon which the Japanese have their eye. Indo-China is a large supplier of rubber and also a supplier of foods. The French and Spanish intervened in the country in 1858, after the killing of missionaries and the persecution of their converts. The dealings of the two Europeans with each other are on the shabby side of imperialistic politics. The Spanish withdrew and the French took over.

The present political conditions in France are not very different from those in other parts of German occupied or German dominated Europe. Vichy is playing ball with Berlin and says it has to. So we are to go to war for that. The French, who were fighting alongside the British, are fighting against them. The Nazis who divided looted lands with the communists are now trying to destroy their treaty comrades. And because the Japanese are moving south in Asia the American national security is gravely endangered.

This is nonsense, but it is slyly calculated and its designs are apparent. Are we to fight Japan for good old Singapore and Queen Wilhelmina?

AN ANGRY OLD MAN.

Senator Wheeler a month ago sent a raft of postal cards to citizens in many parts of the country. The cards contained quotations from the President and other national leaders arguing against sending an American expeditionary force to Europe. The quotations were reprinted from the Congressional Record. The printing bill was paid by the America First committee. There was no charge for mailing because the cards went out under Senator Wheeler's frank.

Some of these cards forwarded to them by their relatives reached soldiers in camp. Secretary Stimson seized upon this circumstance to deliver a diatribe against Senator Wheeler, whom he accused of coming "very near the line of subversive activities against the United States, if not treason." Mr. Stimson sought to create the impression that the cards were calculated to promote discontent at a time when the President is seeking to keep the men in the army for an indefinite period. The fact is that the cards were mailed before the President made his proposal.

Mr. Stimson's venom is easily explained. The cards quote the President as saying in Boston on Oct. 30, 1940, less than a year ago, that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars." Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson would much prefer to have that promise forgotten. To be sure, it won Mr. Roosevelt his third term; if he hadn't given it, he never would have been elected. He was elected and now he doesn't want to be reminded of his pledge.

That's all there is to explain Mr. Stimson's anger. We are not at war and even if we were at war it would still be the right of a senator to communicate with citizens of the United States on public questions and for citizens of the United States to receive communications from a senator. Mr. Roosevelt and those about him have persuaded themselves that their acts and opinions are above question and criticism. They have even persuaded themselves that when they engage in deceit it is not deceit but high principle. Anybody who dares to call attention to the disparity between their promises and acts is denounced as a subverter and a near-traitor. Any one who holds views contrary to theirs is a scoundrel.

Senator Wheeler is not likely to be frightened by Mr. Stimson, and neither is any one else who is striving to persuade the President to keep his word with the people. As for the people generally, four-fifths of them are opposed to war and they are not likely to share in the effort to suppress their viewpoint.

SHERIFFS AND SLOT MACHINES.

There seems to be an affinity between sheriffs and slot machines in Illinois. Why this should be true we wouldn't know, unless possibly because the Illinois statutes make it illegal to possess a slot machine and also provide that the sheriff shall arrest people who break the laws.

THE TRIBUNE'S Mr. Morrow, happening into Taylorville—perhaps to find out how that Illinois-Notre Dame football game really came out—discovered that the local sheriff had reached the conclusion that the possession of slot machines was illegal. He and his deputies broke into a steel barred storage room and seized a hundred of the one armed bandits.

The storage place happened to be the city jail, where the police chief was keeping the machines pending prosecution of the original possessors by the state's attorney. This complicates the matter a trifle. The townsfolk mention further complications, such as the city authorities' refusal to let the sheriff park his car on the town square, and the sheriff's retaliatory banishment of the town band from the courthouse lawn. The state's attorney and grand jurors apparently do not join in the merriment. They are pretty grim about it, in fact.

Meanwhile Chicago's own sheriff, the Statesman O'Brien, has had his attention directed by Mr. Cahn of the crime commission to the fact that slot machines are rather prevalent in some of the country towns. The Statesman O'Brien says that he wouldn't know, and furthermore he is too busy collecting delinquent taxes to find out.

Mr. Cahn may have been surprised to learn that the sheriff was collecting delinquent taxes. Considering the infrequency with which the Statesman O'Brien is found in his office, he also may have been surprised to find his official self engaged in this useful activity. It is a fact, however, that the sheriff is outshining his limber spined colleagues in the county building in this almost unprecedented activity of asking delinquent taxpayers to pay their bills. The outshining is on the ratio of a tallow dip to a bevy of fireflies, but it's a start, anyway, and we hope nothing happens to snuff out the feeble gleam.

It is not inconceivable, however, that the sheriff could both collect taxes and oblige Mr. Cahn. Slot machine operators have contradictory personalities. Altho they engage from time to time in occupational manslaughter, they are in some respects the most shrinking of violets. They need no more than a frown from the right quarters to cause them to pick up their goods and scuttle back to the warehouse. The Statesman O'Brien might try a good hearty frown. It should be effective, inasmuch as the slot machine probably wouldn't be on display if some one hadn't found him in a smiling mood.

SILVER—POLITICAL PARADISE.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

The defense problem has been responsible for turning the searchlight on the government's silver buying program with results which may conceivably prove fatal to the latter. Office of Production Management officials, it is said, have noted with dismay that men, materials, and labor that could well be used for rearmament are being employed to mine silver merely so that the metal can be turned over to the treasury for the personal enrichment of a handful of mineowners, there to serve no purpose whatsoever except to take up valuable room in government vaults. Not only do economists and defense officials find this process at once fantastic and repugnant, but they want to know, since nearly everything else is being fitted into the rearmament program, why this treasury hoard of 42,000 tons of silver bullion should not be made to justify its existence in some practical way.

This is a fair question. It is high time that the silver industry in the United States should be compelled to abandon its rôle as a political racket for the representatives of the silver states in the United States senate, and should be compelled to stand on its own feet economically.

MR. PEPYS WALKS IN THE PARK.

25th July—Walked in the great park on the lake front the other evening for lack of anything better to do in the summer dullness, and found it a fine place except for the railroad tracks and the parking area, which are useful but homely. Not so long ago nothing grew there, but now the lawns are lush with grass and the trees are thriving; and, indeed, the gardens of the Tuileries in Paris cannot be compared with it.

Thirty years ago much of this land was under water, and ten years ago it looked like the great American desert without sagebrush or cactus plants; yet now it invites the eye and affords a pretty view from the windows of every building for a mile along its edge. Some evening, I vow, I will have the cook at my club prepare a basket of edibles, with a cool flask of wine, and I will take it out beyond the Illinois Central tracks and have a picnic, all by myself if I cannot find an adventurous companion. When I return and tell my friends, who have been frowsting in movie theaters, that I have been picnicking in Grant park, they will, no doubt, think me a gaudy liar, for no man-about-town has ever done such a thing in the history of the city.

Much of the planting in the park has been of locust trees because they would thrive on the bare waste, but now that the locusts are growing nicely I think larger trees should be set out, for the locust does not attain a great size. Sycamores, which rise to lordly heights, might be tried, for they have a way of seeking a waterside environment.

Walking in parks and talking about trees may not be the sophisticated life, but I have found Chicago exceedingly dull since my return from vacation, and I have been going here and there, in a restless way, searching for signs of progress to convince myself it has not become a ghost town.

PROTEST TO A WHIPPOORWILL.

Now listen here, my little feathered friend,
I don't mean to be harsh or to offend,
But the travel folder prints in great detail:
"Come to the north, where slumber never fails."
What really happens when I seek my sleep?
You hold a family consultation deep,
And papa sternly bellows: "Whippoorwill!"
While mamma in a treetop on the hill
Pleads tearfully, "Don't whippoorwill! The boy
Is young and thoughtless. He's my pride and joy."
Then from the hollow grandma snorts, "He's wild;
I said you'd spare the rod and spoil the child."
Aunt Emma chimes in from the tallest pine:
"I'd whippoorwill, the brat, if he were mine."
So then you argue, plead, cajole, while I,
A weary, wakeful judge, just toss and sigh.
Please, either whip poor Will or stop the fight;
I've simply got to get some sleep tonight.

Eugenia Gerlach Stein.

Report by Recruiting Sergeant.

What with the draft getting most of them, pickings have been slim, so I changed my spot to the La Salle street station and kept an eye out for country boys. Two likely prospects came along and I buttonholed them.

"By Gad, fellows," said I, "this bombing has got to stop." "You're right," said they, "but as long as we ain't gettin' 'em it ain't so bad."

"What do you mean?" said I. "Do you see that building across the street?" pointing at the almost razed Postal Telegraph building. "What do you think made a mess of it? A bomb did. A dirty, night-fallin', bloomin' buster did it," says I.

The boys didn't look convinced, so I pointed toward Wells street and also down Sherman. "See those open spaces with plastered walls still visible? What do you think caused that? Why, if you fellows want to go along either State or Dearborn you can see them building bomb shelters."

When the boys left I felt discouraged. A few hours later, however, back they came with six other fellows, and all of them enlisted. They told me they didn't believe my story until they saw them State street bomb shelters.

The Great Scissors Mystery.

Regarding scissors trouble with the left hand [July 22]: Gals seem to do better than men, but are not infallible. Science says that the typical left-handed grasp by a right-hander spreads the blades apart and thus the edges do not bite. Note this: All scissors handles are made for the right hand.

CHARGE OF THE CRUTCH BRIGADE.

Militant old men, thin and fat,
Urge young men to fight for this and that;
But their own sons will manage to miss
Wars that are fought for that and this.

They lean on canes, full of fears,
Saluting the flag and shedding tears;
They take their sons, after it's over,
To the battlefields knee-deep in clover:

Clover covering the broken breast
Of other men's sons forever at rest:
Forever at rest because these old men
Waged war to the death with mouth and pen:

Then write mothers of dead sons
Who fell in front of the belching guns;
And they consider it money well spent
To rear in the park a soldier's monument.

Remarks on a Civic Ornament.

Since the park commissioners, etc., have decided that Polasek's figure of Polyhymnia, or whatever her name is, was unfortunately situated on the edge of the Grant park pavement, maybe I should arise to boast that years ago I made the Line with a similar declaration. I also added, "It would be more favorably located three or four miles east."

Solution of Scissors Mystery.

To use scissors in the left hand, hold scissors so that thumb pushes on upper blade and fingers pull on lower blade. This means thumb must enter handle on opposite side of what appears to be natural.

CLEAN FOOD FOR PICNICS.

FOOD must be clean. No one relishes the thought of swallowing a mouthful that contains "bugs"—visible or invisible—even tho thoro cooking eliminates the danger. Germ-laden meals may be responsible not only for typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and sore throat but for poisoning as well. The Salmonella group of bacteria disturb the intestinal tract profoundly.

Outbreaks are far more frequent in the summertime than during the remainder of the year. They arise because perfectly good material has become contaminated thru handling or exposure. If cockroaches, flies, rats, mice, or other pests are allowed access to our nutriment, bacteria from their bodies or their excrement may reach human stomachs.

Little wonder, then, that strict sanitation in the kitchen is so essential. This includes clean hands—not only of cooks and waitresses, but of all who are engaged in preparing or selling edibles. Otherwise organisms may be planted which are capable of producing potent toxins.

Let us assume that, despite all precautions, such an illness appears. As a rule, symptoms will come on within 4 to 24 hours. Cramps within the abdomen constitute early indications of the approaching storm. They may imitate distant, rumbling thunder. The signs mount in intensity steadily until diarrhea, nausea, and vomiting announce the malady. At times, pain may be so severe as to require an opiate for control.

The rapid loss of fluids, because of watery stools, brings on collapse quickly, with nervousness and restlessness. The sudden onset and speedy progress of the seizure helps to make the diagnosis. Should all the members of the family, or a number of persons in the neighborhood become affected, a common origin may be blamed.

Naturally, relief must be provided. A mild narcotic, such as paregoric, may suffice. If not, a generous dose of "painkiller" may be demanded. But measures designed to stop the discharges can be adopted safely only after the bowel has been emptied completely. Then comes the administration of salt solution, which must be provided to fill the depleted circulation.

There is little harm in starvation for from 48 to 72 hours, or until the sufferer reports that he is hungry. Even then, for several days at least, a bland diet is advised. The reason for this is because the lining of the digestive canal is inflamed and sensitive, responding to the slightest irritation.

The health department, of course, will want to know where the trouble came from. Water and milk supplies are usually investigated, as well as places where a crowd has been served food—such as a picnic, a church social, or a lodge meeting.

Not long ago, a supper was served at a public gathering in a small western town. One hundred and fifty people partook of the meal and three out of every five became ill. The disease was diagnosed as typhoid fever and, after a long search, was traced to spaghetti baked with Spanish sauce. The gravy afforded congenial pasturage for the bacteria. Experiments proved that, even after a half-hour of baking at 320 degrees Fahrenheit, the middle of the dish still showed the temperature of a cool summer day; and the bacilli were alive close beneath the golden crust.

In the laboratory, it was found that when the top of the pan was at germ-killing heat, the middle and bottom fell far short of this level. Within the limits of edibility, one cannot sterilize a huge mass of baked spaghetti. An innocent cook had unwittingly planted the seeds of a disease which she did not know she had.

UNERUPTED TEETH.

Mrs. R. G. writes: An X-ray of my mouth shows that I have five teeth which have not come thru. One of them started to appear about a year ago, but it now seems to be stationary. I am 23 years old.

REPLY.

Delayed dentition may be ascribed frequently to deficient nutrition. Anything that interferes with the metabolism of the body as a whole may play a part. Your physician may wish to prescribe a special diet, including calcium and phosphorus with viosterol or cod liver oil. Occasionally a molar will lie in an abnormal position, preventing its eruption. After a reasonable interval on a dietary régime, a structure that refuses to budge may need to be removed surgically.

NOT A REDUCER.

Mrs. S. writes: Is it harmful to use camphorated oil to reduce the hips? Is it a known fact that it can?

REPLY.

This preparation, as a rule, may be rubbed on the skin without the slightest danger. But it will have as much effect in reducing the hips—or any other part of the body—as a good strong wish.

RHEUMATIC HEART.

R. T. writes: What are the signs of a rheumatic heart?

REPLY.

A murmur, enlargement, and—after a time—heart failure, with symptoms of shortness of breath, etc.

OLD DEBT.

Chicago, July 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been told that a bill for two months' rent, unpaid since 1933, cannot be collected at this time in the state of Michigan, that the time has expired for legal collection. Is this correct? There was no lease or signed agreement and no notice or bill has been rendered until now.

The debt is barred by lapse of time unless the period is extended by special facts, such as absence of the debtor from the state.

YESTERDAY WAS A BIT WARMER.

Chicago, July 24.—Wednesday's temperature proves emphatically Chicago's position as a summer resort.

Chicago, 77 degrees high.

Taken from the official weather report:

Milwaukee	86	Springfield	95
Minneapolis	100	Indianapolis	92
Des Moines	103	Detroit	89
Kansas City	103

Use these cities as the outer ring of a circle around Chicago and you will have her as the cool center with the outer ring spreading the heat waves.

This in itself is a bid for our midwestern friends to spend their vacation in Chicago, the genuine summer resort.

ALFRED DECKER.

WOULD STOP HITLER NOW.

Antioch, Ill., July 21.—You are so wrong in this serious time to be doing the things you are doing because it gives encouragement to the real enemies of our government. To survive thru these times this government must have unity.

I have a son in the army and don't want war, but there is a madman loose in Europe and the quicker he can be stopped the better. Our turn will come later on if he is not stopped, so why not help get him now?

All of those other countries now occupied by Hitler were divided by just such talk as you are encouraging. Even using the same name. France First, Norway First, Belgium First, and even lately a Britain First group was started by Hitler agents. These agents are past masters in creating dissension and yet not showing their hands. The ones doing the work for them think they are working for the best interests of their country; that's how clever they are. Please don't be helping out such a cause.

R. A. ARNOLD.

JOB ENOUGH AT HOME.

Chicago, July 16.—Having a public and private interest-bearing debt of $300,000,000,000 with the annual interest on said debt amounting to $15,000,000,000, I think it is about time to call a halt on the insane idea of jumping all the way from 3,000 to 10,000 miles away from home in search of a war. We have enough to do to put our own house in order without fighting the foreigners' battles all over the world.

The Reds, thru orders from Moscow, have vowed to destroy our form of government, therefore we should not aid them directly or indirectly. The lend-lease [now communist aid] legislation should at once be repealed.

I also submit that all alien agents, propagandists and provocateurs should be shipped back to from whence they came; they have no business to come here and tell us what to do, and we do not want them around.

WILLIAM D. WEBBER.

ENGLAND SITS TIGHT.

Chicago, July 21.—We are asked to send a second AEF to Europe to win England's war for her. Let us pattern our actions after those of England. Some of us guess that Hitler might attack us after defeating her. England knows that Hitler will attack her after defeating Russia. Is she sending an expeditionary force, or even materials to Russia? No, she is sitting tight, saying "Come and get me." If we're wise, we'll do likewise.

SENDS THE DOG'S THANKS.

Chicago, July 22.—During the rush hour yesterday evening at Adams and Michigan, the policeman on duty smilingly held up traffic [north and south], altho the light was green. Why?

He stopped traffic to see a bewildered little brown and white dog safely across the street, and since the little dog cannot express his thanks, I'm doing it for him.

ETHEL MCEWEN.

ABOUT THE IMMINENT DANGER.

Chicago, July 23.—THE TRIBUNE, in commenting upon President Roosevelt's statement that the "United States is in grave danger," appears puzzled as to where the danger lies.

To me it is quite apparent that the most imminent danger facing the United States is not from Hitler or foreign enemies but present danger of economic collapse.

It is no secret that industries are closing down right and left, and men thrown out of work due to federal policy of restricting needed supplies. This immediately endangers bank loans and extension of credit, and we are rushing headlong into a situation so grave that unless a large committee of the best brains in this country is immediately put to work to solve our economic problems nothing can stop a disaster which would make the 1929 stock market crash kindergarten play by comparison.

The handwriting is on the wall, and the evidences so plain that we cannot continue to ignore the situation. It is evident that the condition is beyond the control of our President and administration in Washington.

I think the situation should be given front page space, in large type, altho it is essential that the people of this country be not frightened into a state of panic in calling their attention to the seriousness of the situation.

ARTHUR C. JOHNSON.

SEES IT AS PROPAGANDA.

Skokie, Ill., July 23.—Just now there passed my window a parade of "tin" from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union. A blaring band and workers in a parade on paper littered streets carrying and banging pots and pans for "America, the Land of Plenty!" For one moment I completely forgot myself and thought I might be in Germany where such abnorm lities exists.

Ironically enough I would call this parade "a cheap resort of propaganda"—an unnecessary demonstration that we, as Americans, should never indulge in. True it happens in Europe where quantity of aluminum is scarce; but let it never be said that America has finally humbled herself to such exploitations.

Y. D. C.

IF T. R. WERE PRESIDENT NOW.

Chicago, July 23.—A woman in last Monday's TRIBUNE asks where Teddy Roosevelt would stand if he were now President? For one thing, the British would not take mail off our Atlantic Clippers in the Bahamas more than twice, because after the second warning Teddy would take over the Bahamas. Next he would take over or sink the British navy if the British persisted in removing mail from our American vessels on the high seas.

If Teddy thought we had a just reason for fighting in Europe he would openly declare war against Hitler and fight it in our own way, not under the domination of the British foreign office.

If he went to war he and his sons would be in the front line trenches or their equivalent, not safely ensconced in swivel chairs or quartermaster jobs.

INTERNMENT CAMP'S NEEDS.

Bismarck, N. D., July 23.—Capt. Stengler is commander in charge of 250 Germans at Camp Lincoln here. He is having much insubordination. They have been interned for two years and, tho good men, have become infected with communism and refuse to coöperate in the work necessary in the camp.

They need, he suggests, lessons in English, but no books are available in this city.

He suggests that grade school, first, third, and fourth readers, and English grammars would be best.

Would you suggest to your readers that they send second hand or new books to Capt. Stengler and forget their bundles for Britain and packages for Poland for a day or two. It would be a decent service to some unhappy sailor boys away from home.

COTTON MATHER.

GREASE THE POLE.

Chicago, July 23.—I noticed in your paper a few weeks ago the picture and article regarding the squirrel that robbed the nest of the martins occupying a birdhouse on the Waveland golf course. If the pole supporting the house is greased there will be no more trouble, as the squirrel would not wish to soil his coat.

EXILED PRINCESS BUYS $252,000 WINTER ESTATE

Martha Settles 9 Miles from Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—A deal has been closed for the purchase of Pook's Hill, the Maryland estate of Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business magazine, by the Norwegian government for occupancy by Crown Princess Martha, her three children and attendants. The reported sale price is $252,000.

Crown Princess Martha.

Since last November the crown princess has lived on the estate which she had leased for one year. Last Armistice day President Roosevelt called there for tea after laying the cornerstone of a new naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md. The 105 acre estate is only about nine miles from Washington.

For Winter Use Only.

Princess Martha will make this her winter residence for the duration of the war. She and her children, Prince Harald and Princesses Astrid and Ragnhild, are spending the summer at a cottage leased at Cape Cod. They visited at the Hyde Park estate of the President's mother recently prior to establishing residence at the summer home and have been frequent guests of the Presidential family.

Her royal highness has been in the United States for about a year, takihg a refuge here after German occupation of her homeland. Crown Prince Olva is with his father, King Haakon, in London where the government in exile is located. Olav and Martha had toured the United States prior to the war and were entertained by the Roosevelts.

House Has 6 Bedrooms.

The Thorpe mansion has been one of the showplaces of Washington. The stone house is of Colonial and old English architecture. There are six bedrooms and seven or eight rooms downstairs. In addition there are servants' quarters and the Norwegians are adding another wing to the house.

Surrounding the mansion is a rare collection of 22 species of native American trees. The wooded area is also heavily populated by all kinds of birds. Thorpe bought the estate in 1927.

U. S.-BRITISH AID TO POLAND AFTER WAR IS PROPOSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—Industrialization of Poland under American and British leadership if Germany loses the war was urged today by Dr. Henryk Strasburger, Polish finance minister, in a speech at the American Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

Dr. Henryk Strasburger.

"To industrialize Poland should be one of the important tasks of any future international program," he added. "In the immediate postwar period Poland will need speedy and efficient assistance in obtaining raw materials to resume production."

Stanilas Pawlowicz, economist of the Polish Research Center in London, suggested that Germany, if defeated, should be made to pay reparations after the present war in the form of iron, cement, machinery, and labor, which will be needed in other countries for reconstruction.

ICKES SOUNDS LIKE HITLER, SAYS PHIL LAFOLLETTE

New York, July 25 (AP).—Former Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin asserted tonight that Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes in recent denunciations of critics of President Roosevelt's foreign policy "sounds more like a Hitler than an American cabinet member."

He told a Richmond Hill rally of the America First Committee that President Roosevelt should find something constructive for Ickes to do "before he and others like him shatter all hopes for national unity."

"Ickes has been racing around the country behaving like a cantankerous shrew, forever scolding and smearing," La Follette said. "The taxpayers never intended to pay a cabinet officer $15,000 a year for an almost daily exhibition of name-calling.

"Of course, it's quite likely that there is nothing for Ickes to do in the interior department because almost nobody in Washington is paying much attention to the interior of America now."

Tullahoma, Tenn., July 25 (Special). Two new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Franklin county today, and one more in Coffee, to bring the current total in the area to 29, Dr. A. E. New Deal Spending Comparison of amount spent in eight years under President Roosevelt with the total spending under all his predecessors thru Woodrow Wilson.

World war era taxes reached their peak of 6,200 millions in 1920, far below the present tax bill of 9,400 millions, on top of which the new tax bill will put 3,500 millions more.

From July 1, 1933 to June 30, 1941, President Roosevelt has spent 67,500 millions, collected 40,100 millions, and incurred a deficit of 27,400 millions.

NAVY MOBILIZES SMALL BOATS ON WESTERN COAST

San Francisco, Cal., July 25 (AP).—Taking a lesson from Dunkirk and the aid rendered the British by a motley volunteer fleet of small boats, the navy is organizing an auxiliary of small craft along the Pacific coast for close-in patrol work in case of war.

The little fishing and pleasure boats that ply coastal waters and know every inlet and bar are being mobilized by the hundreds and arrangements have been made to fit them with guns if a coast defense emergency arises.

It is all being done on a volunteer basis, 12th naval district officers say. Skippers, along with their crews, are being inducted into the naval reserve at San Francisco, Monterey, Eureka, and a dozen other port towns along the west coast.

"The larger craft will mount machine guns," a navy spokesman explained, "perhaps even heavier armament, to combat aircraft if the necessity should arise. But the principal function will be patrol."

U. S. Experts in All Parts of World to Speed Ships

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—The maritime commission announced today that it had sent "trouble shooters" to far-flung parts of the globe to expedite movement of vessels carrying cargoes vital to the national defense program. The commission statement said shipping experts are at Durban, Calcutta, Singapore, Manila, Honolulu, and in the Red sea area. "The services of these men," the commission commented, "become more vital as the situation in the far east grows more critical."

SECOND FRENCH DIVISION TO FIGHT REDS CONSIDERED

15,000 Volunteers for First Unit Reported.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 25.—Several hundred more volunteers joined the French legion to fight bolshevism today at various recruiting offices on both side of the line of occupation.

The central committee organizing the legion said enlistments would exceed 15,000, the number required for a full division, and indicated a second division might be formed.

Inspects Recruiting Center.

The central bureau for recruiting in unoccupied France is at No. 13 Rue Emil Zola, in Lyons. This office has charge of scores of other recruiting offices in other parts of the unoccupied region. I saw this office function today. Scores of young Frenchmen called to volunteer or to make inquiries and clerks were busily sending out information in response to inquiries from other sections.

On the German side of the line, 300 recruiting offices have been opened for signing volunteers. Two hundred of these are in Paris and its suburbs.

A few days ago a huge massmeeting was held in Paris at the Velodrome d'Hiver where 15,000 persons demonstrated against bolshevism.

Occupied Area Tops List.

Volunteers for the anti-bolshevik legion are more numerous on the German side of the line of occupation, but that is explained by the fact that the French population in occupied France is twice that of the unoccupied region.

Recruits from this, the unoccupied area, will be sent in groups to the Paris region where they will be equipped with uniforms and arms before passing on to the Russian front. The central committee said the legion would be sent to the rear areas of the Russian front first.

GERMAN AGENCY FINED $1,000 BY FEDERAL JUDGE

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—A federal District court jury convicted Transocean News Service today of failing to register under the foreign agents act after hearing a federal prosecutor argue the agency was "a propaganda army of the Nazi government."

Judge T. Whitfield Davidson denied a new trial motion and assessed the maximum fine of $1,000.

Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, United States managers for the service, were indicted jointly with the corporation, but escaped trial when the state department ordered them exchanged for two American newsmen held in Germany. They were landed in Portugal with German and Italian consular officials recently ousted from this country.

George McNulty, assistant attorney general, asserted in closing arguments today that Transocean "gathered the sinews—the materials—for propaganda against the United States for use in countries abroad."

TWO DESTROYERS TAKE TO WAYS IN DUAL CEREMONY

Kearny, N. J., July 25 (AP).—Two destroyers were launched today in a double ceremony at the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company. The U. S. S. Bristol and U. S. S. Ellyson slid down the way seven and a half months after their keels had been laid.

Mrs. Powell Clayton of Washington, D. C., sponsored the Bristol, first to be launched. The destroyer was named in honor of the late Rear Admiral Mark Lambert Bristol, who served in the Spanish-American war and the World war, after which he was high commissioner in Turkey until 1927, when he assumed command of the United States Asiatic fleet.

The Ellyson was sponsored by Miss Gordon Ellyson of Richmond, Va., daughter of the late Commander Theodore Gordon Ellyson, in whose honor the destroyer was named. Commander Ellyson saw service with the navy flying force and was killed in 1928 in an airplane crash.

Air Offensive: Two Versions

RAF Story of Raid

BULLETIN.

LONDON, July 26 (Saturday)—(AP).—The royal air force, now equipped with huge American Boeing "flying fortresses," last night attacked Berlin.

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—United States-built four-engined bombers attacked the German battleship Gneisenau at Brest, France, yesterday from nearly seven miles' altitude, the greatest height ever reached by the royal air force in operational flights, the air ministry said tonight.

Recounting preparations for the first real bombing from 36,000 feet, the ministry said:

"The crews who flew the fortresses to Brest were all picked men. The medical officer at the airdrome from which the squadron took off had himself flown in one of the fortresses to get first hand information on the probable reaction of the crews.

Fat People Won't Do.

"More than 80 per cent of people, he said, were unable to fly at that height. Any one with fat on him would be quite unfit."

The RAF reported seven direct hits on the Gneisenau with armor-piercing bombs but the credits, as between the American and other bombers, have not been distributed.

Raid Two Nazi Naval Bases.

Large fires and great damage were left in the German naval bases of Kiel and Emden when the RAF finished raids on them last night, the RAF reported today. Other forces attacked Wilhelmshaven and Rotterdam, The Netherlands, and airfields in occupied France. Five British planes were acknowledged lost.

The air ministry declared 33 German planes were shot down in yesterday's daylight attacks on the Gneisenau and its sister ship, the 26,000 ton Scharnhorst, which was bombed at La Pallice, France.

Nazis Deride Attacks

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, July 26 (Saturday), (AP).—Berlin experienced another air raid last night after sleeping undisturbed for 53 consecutive nights. It was said no bombs were dropped within the city.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 25.—German airmen today derided the so-called "British air offensive" for the relief of England's Russian ally. In order to carry out their day attacks on the English channel coast, the German flyers said, the British "set up a huge apparatus which is in no proportion to the results achieved."

According to the Germans, the British employ about 400 pursuit ships to protect 20 bombers. The bombers are escorted to their objectives by 200 fighters. After the bombing, the fighters have to return immediately to their British bases because they have run short of fuel. They are replaced by another 200 fighters which escort the bombers back home.

Claim Only 100 Bombs Dropped.

The 20 British bombers, according to the Germans, drop a total of approximately 100 bombs daily. Most of these 100 bombs, the Nazis assert, are dropped without being aimed because the British bombers are incessantly attacked by German fighters. The remainder mostly miss their targets because the British are compelled to drop their bombs at a great height, it is said.

The British losses in these day attacks are terrific and "out of proportion to the negligible results," the Germans declare. To the German belief, these day raids are made "for pure propaganda reasons. The British pilots who fall into our hands know this and resent it."

33 Planes Downed, Say Nazis.

The German high command today claimed a costly defeat for the British planes which have attacked the channel for the last 30 hours, asserting 87 had been shot down, including 9 four motored American "flying fortress" bombers. This victory was achieved with the loss of only four German craft, it was said.

3,000 PANAMA CANAL DEFENSE WORKERS RIOT

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, July 25 (AP).—About 3,000 Latin and West Indies laborers employed on special defense projects in the Gatun area of the Canal Zone rioted for an hour and a half today in a new flareup of racial antagonism and local resentment against imported labor.

Police reserves were called out to quell the disturbance, after which it was decided to segregate the Latin from the Indies laborers at all camp messes.

Many workers were hurt seriously and taken to hospitals. One was jailed on a charge of rioting and another charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Several were held charged with assault and battery.

After an initial fight last night, in which about 200 men were involved, rioting was renewed today and soon enveloped an entire labor camp of 3,000 workers wielding knives, bottles, sticks, and stones.

Denying the possibility of sabotage, police blamed the rioting entirely on enmity between several hundred laborers brought into the Canal Zone from Trinidad, Jamaica, and other West Indian islands, and natives of Panama and other Latin American workers.

WARNS BRITAIN TO PREPARE FOR 'WORST WINTER'

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison told fellow Laborites tonight at a party meeting to prepare "for the worst winter of strain and struggle that ever descended on our country." The British, he said, must remain aroused to the peril despite the Russians' stubborn fight against Germany.

"Don't listen to the siren song of the premature optimist, whoever he be," Morrison went on. "He is an unintentional fifth columnist and, as you value your country's life, stop your ears to his blandishments.

"We are facing a tremendous enemy who for four years in the last war sustained a terrific struggle on two major fronts and certainly is not less strong today."

ITALY CLAIMS 8 SHIPS SUNK IN 2 DAY ATTACK ON A BRITISH CONVOY

ROME, July 25 (AP).—Fascist observers estimated tonight that the British had lost more than 70,000 tons of shipping in a two day running attack on a Mediterranean convoy by Italian planes and light naval forces.

The high command said three merchant ships were destroyed yesterday, making a total of six sunk out of a convoy of 18, besides the sinking of a destroyer and one unidentified warship and damage to 10 escorting warships.

British Sink Torpedo Boat.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 25 (AP).—An axis torpedo boat which approached a British convoy in the Mediterranean Wednesday was attacked by royal air force fighter planes "and left sinking," the RAF middle east communique reported today.

Another RAF stab at the Italian homeland, an assault Wednesday on air bases and shipping at Trapani, Sicily, also was reported.

Bombers were said to have made a heavy raid on axis port facilities at Bengazi, Libya, starting many fires.

CANADA TO CURB CASH-CARRY GAS LAW VIOLATORS

TORONTO, Ont., July 25 (AP).—The Canadian federal oil control ordered tonight that on and after July 31 private motorists must pay cash for automobile fuel and oil and that they cannot receive gasoline in receptacles other than the tanks installed in their cars.

Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle said in the announcement that taxicab operators will be exempted from the order to pay cash and that dealers still may grant credit to operators of vehicles bearing commercial license plates.

"Dealers are now expressly prohibited from delivering gasoline to cans or other receptacles which may be used to supply a private passenger vehicle during prohibited hours of sale," the order said. Cottrelle said some motorists had sought to evade the prohibition with reserve gasoline in extra cans.

3 NAZI TRAITORS AND 2 SLAYERS DIE ON GUILLOTINE

Spy and Mass Murderer Among Five Executed.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 25.—Five criminals—three condemned to death for political offenses and two for murder—were beheaded on the guillotine early this morning.

Two of the political criminals, 32 year old Willie Gall, who came from a village near the town of Zitau, at the extreme eastern tip of Saxony, and 42 year old Otto Neite of Berlin, were sentenced last January to death and the perpetual loss of the rights of citizenship by the Peoples' court for "actions subversive to the defensive strength of the German people, treasonable furtherance to the enemy, and preparation for high treason."

Third Condemned as Spy.

The third political case, that of 46 year old Wilhelm Meini, was similar. He was executed "for spying for an enemy intelligence service for purposes of personal enrichment."

It is interesting to note that Meini's home town is a village near Carlsbad, in what formerly was Czecho-Slovakia.

The two murderers were a 28 year old Berlin resident, Paul Ogorzow, condemned to death and perpetual loss of honor for manslaughter in eight cases and attempts at manslaughter in six other cases, and 30 year old Kurt Polenski, also from Berlin, condemned to death last June for the murder of his wife.

Ogorzow, a railroad employé with eight murders to his credit, was one of the most notorious mass murderers of recent times in Europe. For two years he is said to have terrorized passengers on late elevated trains operating in the outer suburbs, attacking women in empty compartments and disposing of his victims by pushing them out of the moving train.

Altho the murderer was condemned to death only yesterday by the Berlin special court, he was beheaded this morning.

7 ITALIANS GET PRISON TERMS FOR SPREADING ROOSEVELT SPEECHES

ROME, July 25 (AP).—Seven persons convicted of copying and distributing speeches by President Roosevelt, United States Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and Prime Minister Churchill were sentenced today to prison terms ranging from 3 to 12 years by a special tribunal from which there can be no appeal.

They were accused also, in one instance, of having altered a Roosevelt speech so that it was "offensive to the Italian government."

The defense urged that the speeches already had been published all over the world—including in the Italian press, altho not in full—and stated that the accused distributed them only to a few friends. Five defendants, two of them women, were acquitted.

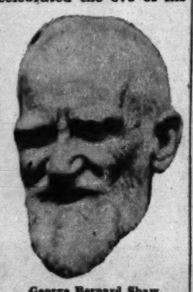
SHAW TO REVEAL HOW 2 + 2 EQUAL 4—IN POLITICS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—George Bernard Shaw celebrated the eve of his 85th birthday today by informing a reporter that he is writing a new book entitled, "Everybody's Political What's What." "I have discovered," he said, "that nobody knows even the ABC of politics and my book is an elementary textbook on the subject. It will explain simply that two and two make four, not seven or eight, as most people seem to think."



George Bernard Shaw.

Discussing the war at his Hertfordshire home, the playwright said that "it was mad of Hitler to attack Russia. Now it seems clear that the Russians are going to win the war for us."

Asked what Britain was going to do with Hitler when Germany is defeated, he replied, "The question is what Russia will do with him."

"And what will Russia do with Hitler?" the reporter queried.

"I haven't the slightest idea," Shaw replied. "I am much more interested to know what England and America are going to do about Russia when it is all over."

ALUMINUM DRIVE TOTAL RISES TO 140,000 POUNDS

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, vice chairman of the Chicago Commission on National Defense, said yesterday that the city's aluminum drive had produced 140,000 pounds since Monday. This figure was arrived at by weight reports from some of the 500 collection stations and estimates from other stations, Hodes explained.

Seventeen nail kegs containing aluminum golf tees were donated during the day by Charles Izenstark, owner of a sporting goods store at 232 West Madison street, who said the kegs contained a total of 3,396,000 tees—or one for every person in Chicago.

"The tees will serve a much better purpose in national defense than on a golf course," Izenstark said.

Hodes yesterday asked the 87 community chairmen in the drive to appoint emergency squads to canvass their districts and hasten collections from householders who have notified headquarters at 176 West Washington street that they have aluminum to contribute.

Hodes announced that the Office of Production Management has designated Chicago as the concentration center for old aluminum collected in Cook, Du Page, Kankakee, Lake, and Will counties.

PRISONER SHOT BY POLICEMAN IN TRYING TO FLEE

Michael Gebroski, 19 years old, 1725 Warren avenue, was shot in the right leg yesterday when he attempted to jump out of a police squad car.

He was arrested by Sergt. Edward O'Connell of the automobile detail after a companion, seized earlier, had implicated him in the theft of auto accessories. Sergt. O'Connell fired at him when he tried to escape at Washington boulevard and Clinton street. At the Bridewell hospital he admitted helping to strip a car.

Capt. George Teeling of the automobile detail said that Gebroski's companion, arrested after police surprised two men stripping a car at 31st and Wallace streets, is Charles White, 34, of 1708 Warren avenue.

THIEVES STEAL BEESWAX.

Louis Rosst, owner of a warehouse at 1817 Roosevelt road, notified police yesterday that thieves broke into the building and stole 10 cases of beeswax, valued at $500, belonging to D. A. Hanson & Sons.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Here Today—Gone Tomorrow

DISINFECT POOLS TO CHECK POLIO, ASKS DR. CUTTER

Tells Way to Restrict Spread of Virus.

Infantile paralysis virus will not propagate in ponds and pools which have been dosed with copper sulphate, Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, said yesterday in urging the disinfecting of small bodies of water.

One grain of the inexpensive blue salt to a cubic yard of water is the proper amount for pools containing aquatic life and five grains a cubic yard for swimming and reflecting pools, Dr. Cutter said.

"Under that condition the infantile paralysis virus can neither grow nor flourish," Dr. Cutter added.

Recovered from Sewage.

"We don't know why nor how the virus is spread," the health editor continued, "but we do know it has been recovered from sewage in communities where the disease exists. This indicates that it gets in thru the digestive tract, and we also know that it can enter the nasal passages.

"Assuming that we don't know more, we are under obligation to do everything we can to combat its spread. The least we can do is to assume that it is a water borne disease.

"Thousands who have infantile paralysis never exhibit any signs of paralysis. It is probable that many youngsters who have it get into pools and ponds. The emanations from their bodies can affect uninfected children.

"Chlorine is not very effective in disinfecting swimming pools against infantile paralysis, for if enough is added to thoroly disinfect, the pool becomes practically unusable.

Every 24 Hours.

"However, the virus cannot propagate—it cannot grow nor flourish—in water treated with copper sulphate every 24 hours. It is not harmful in the dosage of 5 grains a cubic yard of water for swimming and reflecting pools, and 1 grain a cubic yard in pools in which there is aquatic life."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, yesterday called attention to advice given by Dr. John A. Toomey of Cleveland, who has conducted extensive research into infantile paralysis.

Writing in the July issue of the Journal of Pediatrics, Dr. Toomey advises observance of these cautions: Children should wash their hands thoroly before eating and should drink only pastuerized milk; they should not swim in uncontroled pools nor drink any but approved water. All vegetables should be washed thoroly before being consumed, and normal elimination should be assured.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, yesterday reported the disclosure here of another possible case of paralysis. Chicago's total of new cases for July is three, as compared to one in July, 1940.

STATE WITNESS IN BLAST TRIAL IS GIVEN FREEDOM

South Bend, Ind., July 25 (AP).—Parrish E. Freeman, 22 years old, of Joliet, Ill., is free today after 18 months incarceration, but Prosecutor James E. Keating declined to reveal the whereabouts of the star state witness in the prosecution of three men charged with dynamiting towers of the Indiana & Michigan Electric company, nearly two years ago.

Keating disclosed yesterday that Freeman was released Monday on order of Circuit Judge Dan Pyle, who last Friday authorized withholding sentence on him for five years.

Freeman was charged with illegal possession of dynamite after his arrest in Joliet in January, 1940. He pleaded guilty to the charge and later testified that his life had been threatened if he turned State's evidence.

Keating said an appeal was being sought by the defendents, convicted of illegal use of dynamite in the wrecking of a power line transmission tower near Millersburg on Nov. 23, 1939. They are John Marks, Michigan City labor leader; Frank S. Lung and Earl Freeman, both of South Bend.

VETOES BY GREEN VOID 12 MILLION IN TAX MEASURES

Springfield, Ill., July 25 (AP).—The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois reported today that more than $12,200,000 in bond issues and local tax authorizations were involved in bills vetoed by Gov. Green.

Thomas E. Fiske, executive secretary of the federation, said the governor had "courageously used the power of veto" in refusing to approve measures that would permit "higher tax rates, increased indebtedness, and new taxes for local governments without the consent of those who must ultimately pay the bill."

The federation's analysis showed possible increases in local government expenditures voted by the 62d assembly were reduced from a total of $20,860,000 to $8,660,000 by executive vetoes. In setting a record of 81 vetoes for a single legislative session, Gov. Green also disapproved $281,961 in direct state appropriations.

Tonight's event will be in Turner field, Hammond, Ind. It is sponsored by the Hammond park board. Activities will be directed by George Calder, supervisor of music in the Whiting, Ind., public schools.

George Calder.

Assisting Mr. Calder in the presentation of the program will be A. V. Scott, recreational director of Hammond, and R. C. Dixey, Harold Haines, and Charles Lehman, representing Legion posts of the Calumet area. Richard McCloughry is president of the Hammond Park board.

AUDITORIUM MAY CLOSE THURSDAY, BY COMPULSION

The Auditorium theater, hotel, and office building, long a Chicago landmark, faces the prospect of an enforced closing next Thursday. The Congress hotel, which has been providing the Auditorium with light, power, and steam, then will cut off these services, it was learned yesterday.

John Goodridge, president of the Auditorium, informed a committee which has been striving to save the building that it would require at least three months for separate installations of heat and power. Mayor Kelly has been informed by the Congress hotel management that its own improvement program, including new power arrangements, must go ahead at once, and that these changes include the tearing out of machinery serving the Auditorium.

William F. Krahl, chairman of the Auditorium Music Foundation, said the fight to save the building would be continued.

TRICK IS DEVISED IN HOPE OF CLEW TO MYSTERY BOY

Tommy, the 3 year old boy found at the Brookfield zoo July 13, still was unidentified yesterday at the Juvenile home. Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Juvenile court said authorities are planning to play a trick on Tommy in the hope that he will give some clew to his identity.

Preparation for the trick began Wednesday, when Tommy was kept in seclusion and a rest cure to quiet his nerves was instituted. Constant questioning and strange surroundings have upset the ordinarily good natured child, said Judge Bicek.

When his nerves have calmed, Miss Minnie Jones, the court's case worker, will sidle up to him casually and make some such remark as "Well, how do you like Chicago, Tommy?"

Tommy, it is hoped, will reply somewhat in this fashion: "Chicago's all right, but I like it better at home in Des Moines, where I used to go swimming a lot."

ILLNESS BLAMED IN SUICIDE.

And the Day Will Be Filled with Weddings

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE rich Classic at Arlington Park today undoubtedly will draw the record crowd of the season. There are three weddings this afternoon, tho, to keep some who might otherwise be going to the races, away from the Post and Paddock club. The ceremonies all are scheduled for 4:30, which is just before post time for the big race. The weddings are all on the north shore.

Miss Dorothy Ruth MacArthur and Ensign Winfield Newton Burdick Jr. will be married in Libertyville; Miss Frances Price and Lieut. Clinton Edward Frank in Winnetka, and Miss Patricia Anne Manley and Robert Fuller Norcott in Evanston. The first named two will be fairly small ceremonies, however, being at home, but the Norcott-Manley marriage will be a large church affair.

Numerous Luncheons Today to Precede Running of Classic.

On hand to watch the Classic from their box will be Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright, owners of the favorite, Whirlaway, who so far this year has run away with the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont, the Preakness, and the Dwyer. Miss MacArthur will carry a handkerchief that her maternal grandmother, Mrs. James R. McMaster, carried when she was a bride 51 years ago, when she and "Newt" Burdick are married this afternoon. The wedding will take place at Thornacres, where the bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, live. The Rev. W. Oliver Brackett of the Lake Forest Presbyterian church will officiate.

Only relatives and intimate friends have been invited to witness the wedding and to attend the reception that will follow. Mrs. Gustavus Babson Jr. [Jean MacArthur] and little Barbara Babson will attend the bride, and George Henry Tryon III. of West Hartford, Conn., will serve as best man. The bridegroom's parents have come from their home in South Orange, N. J., for the wedding. The junior Mr. Burdick, who is an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve, and his bride will depart after the ceremony for San Francisco, where he is to report for duty on Aug. 1.

Only Families, Close Friends at Frank-Price Ceremony.

Miss Price and Lieut. Frank will be married in the presence of the families and a few close friends in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Price. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard will read the service and a small reception will follow.

Mrs. Price Jr. and her little daughter, Gail, will be the bride's only attendants. Arthur A. Frank Jr. will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be Mr. Price Jr., Lieut. Frank Case, and Lieut. They're Hoping for No Rain Tomorrow

The hundreds who are anticipating with pleasure being at the Galloping Hills horse show tomorrow hope that no pictures like this one will be obtainable there. This was taken at the Hinsdale show earlier in the summer and shows Robert Lempke keeping Christabel Hamilton from getting wet as she held Miss Coquette and awaited the children's jumping class. Tomorrow's show, which will commence at 9:30 o'clock, will be held at the Louis F. Swift farm in Wheaton. Admission will be 50 cents per person.

1,500 Children Frolic at 20th Annual Party

For the 20th year yesterday Mrs. Herbert Drew, 707 Sheridan road, Evanston, opened her home and her heart to orphans and underprivileged children of every nationality. More than 1,500 boys and girls from Chicago's settlement houses and clinics romped over a spacious lawn, screamed and clapped their hands with delight as circus performers put on a show. Then they settled down in relative quiet to devour ice cream, cakes, candy, fruit, and cookies provided in abundance.

But none of the children, ranging from the excited 6 year olds to the more quiet but equally pleased 14 year olds, understood exactly the meaning of the occasion.

Even busy Mrs. Drew, responding to the question of how the parties started, said only, "I like children so much, and I decided to give a party for a few [the number was 500 at the beginning] after my husband died."

Then sadly she added, "And there used to be two little girls who played out here—one was burned to death, the other had infantile paralysis. But I don't think about that part. Just look at those children laugh and those older ladies are giggling more than the youngsters." She pointed to her elderly friends along the sidelines.

Every one's attention was being held by the antics of Koko, the clown; Scotty, the juggler, and a slender blonde acrobat and her funny partner who kept falling over a table and chairs. The circle of youngsters, five and 10 deep down the block long lawn to the lake, had crowded up close so as not to miss a single action. Then a family of western riders, the adults on horses, the children on ponies, dashed into the ring as the children scattered back to the edge of the lawn.

For more than an hour they watched the circus, blared on noisemakers, pulled at each other's paper hats, and played with balloons and flags. Each child had received several gifts as he came in from Mrs. Drew or one of her friends who were helping with the party.

Prominent among the workers were Mrs. Drew's two sons and two daughters, who had enjoyed the parties themselves years ago and now were taking pleasure in seeing so many more youngsters made happy.

Many of the groups carried banners identifying themselves. Freckled boys and spick and span little girls came from the Chicago and Northwestern university clinics, Erie house, Madonna center, Chase house, Holy Family Vacation school, Helpers of Holy Souls, St. Philip's parish, St. Joseph's parish, and the Off the Street clubs.

Also in the gathering were some specially invited guests, about 55 English refugee children, some with relatives and others with their American foster parents. But the children mingled with the Chicago youngsters, and only a few were identified by Mrs. Drew.

"Mayor Kelly thought it would be a nice gesture to include them," explained Mrs. Drew, "and I was delighted with the suggestion. I hope they're here and enjoying themselves. But they all look happy enough. Don't you think so?"

Maurice Evans will bring Macbeth to Chicago next autumn, with Judith Anderson as his leading lady, if he thinks Chicagoans would like it and support it. He writes a friend that is what he would like to do, and asks an opinion. . . . A Chicago branch library has augmented its collection of mystery and detective stories with a half dozen copies of Death Comes for the Archbishop. . . . An Evanston resident suggests the contribution of old lipstick containers to augment the aluminum collection. Boxes and corners might be permanent depository for old lipstick containers, she suggests. . . . One of the letters in the large electric sign on the new Drive In theater went out the other rainy evening, making it read "DIVE IN." . . . The Drive In theater is popular with chauffeurs. There they can drive in and see the movie instead of depositing their employers and returning for them.

Quip.

"Egyptians Deny Native Revolt" reads a headline. "Must have been a couple of other fellahs," quips Ed Broderick.

By Way of Report.

It was a Chicagoan, the late Theodore Wesley Koch, head librarian of Northwestern university, who originated and administered the first soldier libraries in World war I., book lovers recall with the Chicago Public library's drive for books to be sent to training camps. Apropos of the library's suggestion that instead of contributing old magazines, possessors of them sell them and use the money toward new subscriptions for draftees, Koch in his Books in the War, which he wrote after the armistice, tells how the collectors were swamped with back number magazines. The quantity gave rise to a soldier's remark in the trenches: "We are up to our knees in mud, mufflers, and magazines."

Galloping Hills Horse Show Is to Be Different

There are about 180 entries in the Galloping Hills horse show that Mrs. Louis F. Swift is staging tomorrow at the Swift farm in Wheaton, so if the weather is good, the show is certain to be a huge success.

It probably will be the first annual Galloping Hills show, which assuredly is a one woman show, for Mrs. Swift conceived the idea of it, planned it, and will run it. It will be different from most shows, she says, in that there is to be a special place for exhibitors to meet for rest and refreshments whenever they are away from the ring. This place is a mammoth tent about a quarter of a mile from the ring, and there Rochester, the Swifts' butler, will be in charge.

For others there is to be a big refreshment tent near the ring. The events will start at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and continue all day, for there are 18 classes. Most of the local stables will be represented and there are numerous entries from away, including some from St. Paul.

Universal day—Catch up on correspondence and your telephone calls and visits.

August—The month of August may be the freest month of all for those who are in a six year. The way may open up for you to put aside your responsibilities for the time being and take a little trip for your own pleasure, or find freedom from the ties that bind in some way. Make the most of the little things which pop up unexpectedly for they have the ingredients of adventure and romance. At least they should stimulate you mentally and give you some new ideas. This is a good month for selling, and it is a good month for a summer romance. Keep mentally alert to whatever comes along in the way of opportunities. Don't make your plans for the month too rigid because you more than likely will have to change them.

Good Morning!

Bette Davis eschews dignity and tragedy in this one and hacks a new sort of notch in her record of movie achievements.

She hands the Cagney wham for wham, insult for insult, wisecrack for wisecrack, fairly staggering him at times [you feel sure] by the force of her coöperation. . . . No two ways about it, "The Old Maid" knows her slapstick onions and "Queen Elizabeth" her Keystone comedy technique.

A glamor girl, this Joan Winfield, avid for thrills and perfectly willing to elope with Band Leader Allen Brice at the instigation of Gossip Columnist Tommy Keenan who needs a juicy item with which to pep up his tired radio program. . . .

Allen and she hire Steve Collins—about to lose his plane to a pay-or-else company—to fly them to Arizona for the ceremony. Papa Winfield, hearing the news in New York where he is temporarily chained by a business deal, promises Steve to pay him $10 a pound—Joan weighs approximately 110—to deliver the young lady to her parent unmarried. . . .

By hook and by crook Steve starts off alone with Joan. . . . Their plane is forced down in the desert—and there are the pair of them All-ll alone with a ghost town's one inhabitant, Pop Tolliver. . . . All alone and loving each other like a pair of strange bulldogs.

Which is where Mr. Cagney goes caveman and Miss Davis hellcat. . . . Far be it from me to tell you more of the very interesting, very laugh provoking story.

The crack performances of the stars are highlighted by swell cast support and excellent direction. . . . The comedy finish is a knockout.

Y'all'r going to go for "The Bride Came C. O. D." in a great big way.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

From the notebook:

If you want cologne in a gift rôle take a look at the newest novelty of candle-like bottle set right spang in the center of large, natural looking composition flower. The whole affair is on a firm base, and one of these—or a pair—is surprisingly decorative. There are five fragrances—gardenia, jasmin, lilac, and two blends—and each fragrance is distinguished by its own flower base. The bases, incidentally, can be used as candle holders when the cologne is used up.

The flowers are white peony, red poppy, water lily, tea rose, yellow peony, and one combination of violets and roses. The tall, slim, candle shaped bottle is clear glass with a tapering stopper that simulates a candle flame. These are quite inexpensive.

Another gift thought with special charms, if you want to give a bride or an engaged girl something personal and useful, is the dresser set in crystal plastic. There's a square shaped mirror with beveled glass on both sides; a matching fluted back hairbrush and, of course, a matching comb. You can get complexion and hand brushes in the same crystal finish if you wish. The plastic sets are also available in pretty shades of ruby, sapphire, and emerald, but brides seem to go for the crystal, which fits so well into the modern scheme. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Singer Judged Festival's Best Proves It Again

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Iowa soprano, Irma Cooper, sang at Grant park last night with the Rico Marcelli orchestra and once more justified the verdict of the judges who had selected her as the best woman singer in the 1940 Chicagoland Music Festival.

In "Vol lo sapete, O mama," from "Cavalleria Rusticana," she proved herself a true dramatic soprano, singing with the bigness and strength and passion characteristic of that species. She managed to project Santuzza's sorry mental and emotional state vividly by means of fire bright tone colorings and jagged, tortured phrase lines.

Why so gifted a person as Miss Cooper should then have gone on to such things as "Will You Remember?" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" is one of those mysteries into which a mere reporter may not probe. Her final number, "A Brown Bird Singing," seemed music of the quality of "Come, Sweet Death" in comparison to what had gone before, and she sang it with a wonderfully delicate tone quality and a very attractive sincerity and directness.

Not all of last night's honors went to the soloist. Marcelli put before us a conception of Beethoven's fifth symphony so noble in its proportions and so consistently alive in its every detail as to constitute one of the triumphs of the 1941 Grant park season.

The execution, alas, did not compare with the conception, but you could sense what Marcelli wanted even when he did not get it. Evidently he had been faced with that common dilemma of conductors whose rehearsal time is rigidly limited. Shall I put on a commonplace but accurate performance, or shall I try to give them something fine even at the risk of a few mistakes? Marcelli chose the second option, and more power to him!

In easier music, Strauss' "Artist's Life" waltz, the results were splendid. The orchestra, led by its live little concertmaster, Fritz Siegal, jumped to execute the conductor's every idea. The piece had a glorious lift and lilt to it. Its tunes sang along as naturally and joyfully as if one man rather than 75 were trilling them out.

INSTALMENT XII.

CALL FOR HELP.

Inspector Banks arrived as the policemen were leaving. "Miss Murray, aside from Mr. Lang, you were the last person to see Miss Payson alive. I'd like to ask you a few questions."

"Certainly, inspector. Come in here."

She led him into the big living room facing the lake. Toby was in there and went out to leave them alone. He touched Kathleen lightly as he passed her. Tone down that story of Jeanie's distress, the touch told her.

The big square man sat down heavily on the gray and yellow sofa.

"Mrs. Payson told us her daughter came here last night in trouble of some sort and Mr. Lang went away with her."

"She did come here and she did ask him to take her home or something. So it was getting late and he went. I can't say that she was in any trouble."

"Her mother said you said she was crying."

"It looked like it because her face was wet and shining in the light, but it might have been the rain. Some heavy drops were just falling——"

"Mrs. Payson says she was in a state of hysteria."

"It's her mother who's hysterical and I don't blame her. Jeanie was quite calm in her demeanor."

"Didn't you think it very unusual?"

Kathleen marveled at her own frozen calmness.

"No. Why should it be?"

"I'm asking you the question."

"Well, I'm sorry, inspector. I'm as much in the dark as you are."

"You would know if there were any relations between Mr. Lang and Miss Payson, wouldn't you?"

"No. Why should I?"

Her eyes were as steady as his. She would not allow his staring little gimlet eyes to disconcert her.

"Because of your own relations with Mr. Lang. You and he were engaged, weren't you?"

Toby entered the room from the hall and crossed it to the veranda.

"Excuse me," he said politely. He looked at Kathleen from the French window. "That last is a question which might wait on advice from a lawyer."

"You know too much," said the inspector with irritation.

"Then cross-examine me. Miss Murray is too upset. I was here last night when Jeanie came. I can tell you all about it."

"What about that last question, Miss Murray?" The inspector ignored Toby.

She got up from her chair. "I think Toby's right. We don't know where this is going to end. I want to help you, but I do think I'd better get a lawyer."

"What for, Miss Murray? You're not in trouble."

Toby spoke dreamily without looking at them. "He could protect Hugo's interests in his absence. It might be desirable."

The suggestion was a tonic to Kathleen. She lifted her chin and straightened up her back. She had always liked this game, talented, resourceful boy. Now she loved him.

"That's a good idea. And I know the very man to help us."

The inspector went then, aware he would get no further. Kathleen went at once to the telephone and dictated a telegram to George Cassell of the law firm which had once employed her.

PLEASE COME HERE AND SEE ME RIGHT AWAY. NEED LEGAL AID. AM IN DEEP TROUBLE. DEPEND ON YOU.

She kept the operator waiting for a full minute before she decided on the next word. Then she added—AFFECTIONATELY KATHLEEN.

* * * *

The hectic developments of the day continued. Kathleen had reason to be thankful that the grounds of her house were fenced in. Old Mrs. Murray had not taken to the Californian disregard for home privacy so she had not permitted the public footpath to run across her property. The lakeside path ended at the boundary of the estate, went round by the main road and returned to the lake again. So Kathleen could sit on her veranda unmolested while motor cars gathered in the road and groups of thrill seekers stood staring inanely at the front of the house.

Bad news spreads with miraculous rapidity. However, Kathleen sent Toby to the theater to make sure that every member of the company was aware that there would be no performance that night.

Toby returned with news of what was going on down there. Maurice Reed's important appointment had been an air flight to Yuma with Carol to get married. Carol was acting like a hen with its head cut off, unable to decide whether to discharge the stage hands or wait developments. She wanted to go away on a honeymoon, but Maurice wanted to stay and see what happened. He was comforting the hysterical Mrs. Payson. He was going to move from his hotel cabin to Carol's home.

Ellen Mount was confined to her room with illness. She was having one of her bad spells. No one had had the heart to disturb her.

Kathleen passed over the sensational news of the elopement. It would have surprised her yesterday, but now it fell flat. She could think only of one thing.

"What about the stage hands, Toby? There's one like a bad-tempered gorilla. That red-haired electrician."

"That's why you want a lawyer, Kathleen. They won't bother about any one else while Hugo's missing."

"What do they say down there? I suppose there is a general epidemic of stupidity."

Toby admitted it. "There's a warrant out already for Hugo's arrest. People don't know him like we do, and it does look black against him."

"You haven't known him very long, Toby."

"Long enough."

"It's a bitter ending to your chance—your wonderful ambitions."

Toby stuck his hands in his pockets and leaned against the veranda railing.

"It isn't an end. It's an interruption, that's all. Besides that's very unimportant in comparison with Hugo's trouble."

If he's still living, thought Kathleen, and was afraid to say it. Toby saw the shadow that darkened her mind in the tragic aspect of her face.

"Now that the play's washed up I hope you won't send me home again. I'd like to stay with you and see you thru."

The telephone bell pealed thru the quietness of the house.

Kathleen's tired eyes filled with tears again. She blinked them back. "Bless you, Toby. That's what I hoped you would do."

Susan came out to them.

"Telephone, Miss Kathleen. It's Mr. Cassell calling from New York."

A deep self-confident voice. "Hello Kathleen, nice to hear from you. How are you?"

"Fine George—thanks. I mean I'm in terrible trouble. I need your help. Is there anything in the New York papers about a murder here this morning?"

She heard his low surprised whistle. "What? You mixed up in a murder?"

"Indirectly. But painfully. The police blame a very dear friend of mine."

"I see." George Cassell had a legal orderly mind. "Better begin at the beginning, Kathleen."

"Must I? It's so difficult on the telephone. Can't you hop on a plane and come out to see me?"

"My dear child! I'm so tied up. Of course, if it's a matter of life and death. At least try to tell me something."

Once she began it came easily. There was actually little to tell. The bald facts were so simple. She left out the important one—that she was in love with Hugo.

"They found Jeanie in the woods early this morning," she finished. "Murdered, poor girl! And there is a warrant out for Hugo Lang's arrest."

"Where is he, Kathleen?"

"I don't know. Nobody knows. He may be dead, too. You see, he's just—disappeared."

"That looks bad—very bad."

"I know. That's why I want you to protect his interests. That's why I want you here."

Between Alexandria and Mount Vernon, on a hill overlooking the Potomac, stands a lovely, white pillared colonial manor house known as Collingwood Tea House. The land surrounding it once belonged to George Washington, and in colonial times was a famous dueling ground. Close to the manor is a spring where captains of English vessels sailing from Alexandria used to replenish their water supplies before sailing for home across the Atlantic.

The tea house is famous now for its good food, and for the pure water from that old spring. Baked Virginia ham, fried chicken, and pecan pie are specialties, and I know how good they are from the experience of a recent dinner there. If you travel that way, don't miss Collingwood.

Another famous and unusual dining place, farther south, is situated in a hotel in Talladega, Alabama. There's no "atmosphere" here, to speak of, but the food is wonderful, and the startling thing about dining there is the way the colored waiters keep bringing on more and more southern specialties until your table is loaded with as many as 30 different dishes of food. I remember, from my last visit there, that the array included fried chicken, "country ham" [southerners are proud of their really "hammy" hams], black eyed peas, southern style, summer squash, string beans, lima beans, sweet potatoes, potato salad, chicken salad, stuffed peaches, corn, and a score of other platterfuls. And the waiters kept pleading with us to name something else we'd like to eat!

I was the recipient of a box of fresh, green and crisp watercress the other day, and since there was more than enough of this aristocratic green for salads, I cooked some, seasoning it with salt, pepper, bacon fat and tarragon vinegar. And it was delicious! I don't recommend cooked watercress as an economy dish, for one bunch makes only two "teaser" servings. But if you've access to a large supply, try it that way some time.

A chill sauce French dressing is one of the two best coatings for crisp watercress salad. The other is a combination of bacon fat, vinegar, seasonings, and finely chopped crisp bacon, poured over the greens while hot.

I was pleased to see "Mary Meade's Sherry Chiffon Pie" on the dessert menu of one of Chicago's finest restaurants a recent Sunday. The recipe is in "37 Choice Chiffon Pies," a booklet which is mailed to readers who send in 5 cents in stamps for it.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is a vast difference in the relative importance of tricks. Some tricks may be called vital, others are comparatively unimportant. The first duty of a declarer is to differentiate in this respect. To lose a contract such as the one in today's hand is inexcusable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	Pass	2 spades
Pass	3 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened his heart king and, when he saw East's deuce and declarer's nine, promptly shifted to the diamond queen. Dummy's ace was played and the trump finesse was taken. West, in with the king, continued with diamonds, and declarer suddenly awoke to the fact that his contract was in jeopardy. He won with the diamond king and drew the last outstanding trump, then led the jack of hearts. West clattered up with the ace and led a third diamond. Now, altho the heart queen was established in dummy, there was absolutely no use for it. Declarer could not avoid the club finesse and, not unnaturally, considering the bidding, it lost to West's king.

Declarer had made an atrocious play in finessing for the king of trumps before establishing dummy's heart queen. The vital trick in this hand was not a spade, but a diamond. In other words, declarer could well afford to lose one trump trick in addition to two hearts and one club. Moreover, if a trump trick had to be lost, there was no way of saving it. There was, however, a way to guard against a diamond loser, and that is what should have been done.

Obviously, it was easier to make the contract than to lose it, but that does not mean that declarer deserved any credit for his feat.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 25.—At a film colony café the other night Mrs. David Hempstead made the perfect comment about Hollywood social life. "I hate," she said, "to be with so many wrong people in order to be right." . . . Frank Capra will return to the Warner lot to produce and direct "Arsenic and Old Lace." Shooting should start within ten weeks. Casting is stil in the talking stage—but what would it be without Boris Karloff? . . . . 20th-Fox's Dean Jagger may blow the movies for a while for a Broadway play. His best remembered stage performance was in "Missouri Legend." . . . Same studio has contracted Helene Fortescue Reynolds and will give her the second lead in "Confirm or Deny," a yarn about London war correspondents. Roddie McDowall, English refugee lad whom Darryl Zanuck considers the best child discovery of the last five years, will play a bomb-terrified waif. Which is practically what he was. . . . Jane Withers' next, "Young America," will be about the 4-H clubs. . . . There was a luncheon for Lord Halifax the other day at the MGM executive dining room, a frightfully exclusive place. Morning before the lunch, minor executives were telephoned and asked not to come to eat.

Accident department: C. B. De Mille has a real boat in a big tank at Paramount for "Reap the Wild Wind." Not long ago Ted Bonnet, his publicity man, took a correspondent for a tour of the boat. To get off, the correspondent lowered himself over the side and dropped to what he thought was the stage floor. But it wasn't floor. It was scum on the water and the fellow went in over his head. . . . There's water, too, on one of Walter Wanger's "Sundown" sets. On a night scene last week Assistant Director Arthur Jacobson yelled, "We're going to turn off the work lights in a minute. Don't walk around, folks, or you'll fall in the water!" The lights behind the camera crew went out, and in a moment there was a splash. Jacobson had fallen in.

There's no pleasing movie people Less than a month ago they were yawping that business was terrible. Now business is good—and they are yawping that they can't understand it. . . . SLOT MACHINE PROBERS INDICT 6 AS GAMBLERS

Jurors Take Recess in Taylorville Inquiry.

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Taylorville, Ill., July 25.—The traveled slot machines of Taylorville were ready for another move tonight.

Now stabled in the county jail, these restless gaming devices were scheduled for another trip to add to the 11 blocks already piled up despite their 8,240 pounds of total weight.

Plans for the new journey were made as the recalled grand jury returned 14 indictments against six defendants charged with gambling in various forms. Five of these defendants, already apprehended, are Andrew Vadalabene and his mother, Anna, owners of the Rose Social buffet near Pana; W. F. [Jack] Scovill, owner of a cafe near Pana, Earl Rightnowar and his brother, Homer, keepers of a tavern near Taylorville.

Name of Sixth Withheld.

While the sixth defendant's name was withheld until his arrest, reports were that he was a local man responsible for the first journey of the slot machines.

There was no official mention of Sheriff Virgil Ezra, whose prank last week brought the recall of the grand jury to delve into the slot machine situation. He, his deputies, and some pistols and sledge hammers called at the county jail, arrested Chief of Police Ed Zemke, and carted away the roving machines for one lap of their journey.

The city council, which has expressed resentment over the sheriff's action, has instructed its building committee to ascertain whether a suit for damages can be filed against the sheriff.

Jury to Stick to Job.

Grand Jury Foreman T. C. Ostermeier of South Fork told Judge J. T. Bullington, however, that the jury had not finished its work. On his recommendation the jury hearing was recessed until next Tuesday.

The machines in question first moved six blocks when a raiding party led by State's Attorney Tom Sweeney seized them from a local warehouse and James Farney of Taylorville was arrested. They were taken to the city jail. Then Sheriff Ezra and his deputies made their raid on the jail and carted them another five blocks to the county jail.

Late this afternoon Judge Bullington, acting on a petition filed by State's Attorney Sweeney, placed the 108 machines in custody of Coroner Sidney Stilts until further order of the court. The machines are to be impounded and reports were that Stilts would take them to some cozy neutral warehouse.

MRS. BRILL LOSES NEW APPEAL FOR COST FREE TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25 [Special].—For the second time, Mrs. Norma Brill, former model, failed today in a petition for a cost-free trial in her suit against Leon Raab, insurance broker, to compel him to support her daughter, Betty Louise.

Mrs. Norma Brill.

Mrs. Brill asked Superior Judge B. Ray Schauer to allow her to proceed with the trial without putting up jury fees or other costs. She claimed she was without funds. Raab opposed the request with the contention that payment by the county would be improper.

More than a year ago Mrs. Brill won a judgment of $5,000 against Raab when a jury held him to be the father of the child. This judgment was set aside and a new trial granted.

BARNYARD FOWLS, IT SEEMS, OUTDO BIG CITY NOISES

Ducks and roosters have one thing in common. That's the racket they make. Ducks belonging to Mrs. Edna Stenzel, 26 West Chestnut street, so annoyed Edgar W. Chapman, who lives around the corner at 859 North Dearborn street, that Mrs. Stenzel promised police yesterday to ship them off to her mother's farm in Kentucky.

Mrs. Margaret Dudones, 3422 Union avenue, told Municipal Judge Michael Tremko that there were no objections as long as her neighbor, Felix Kumpicekas, 3416 Union avenue, just had eight hens. But when he added a rooster, which she said crowed from 3 a. m. until dark every day, making her baby sick and preventing her husband, who works nights, from getting any sleep, it was too much. She obtained a warrant charging Kumpicekas with disorderly conduct.

WIFE'S ILLICIT LOVE BARED AS SHE KILLS MATE

Oregon, Wis., July 25 [Special].—An illicit love affair between two well known married persons in this little town of 1,000 inhabitants was linked today to the slaying last night of Merle Gibbon, 40 years old, by his wife, Mildred, 30.

Mrs. Gibbon, a comely brunette, confessed today that she shot her husband after a drinking party last night. She declared he had threatened to beat her.

Pending the filing of slaying charges against her, she and Andrew Morgan, a tavern operator, were arraigned on charges of adultery, pleaded guilty and are awaiting sentence.

The Gibbons have two children, Jerry, 4, and Guy, 2.

Al Pollack holding swastika marked brick and showing damage it did to window of his father's shop, the Pollack Electric company, at 2017 Division street.

Bricks painted on both sides with crude, black swastikas were hurled early yesterday against seven Chicago store windows by three vandals in an automobile.

Six of the stores are in the North avenue police district and one in the Racine avenue district. The bricks were hurled between midnight and 5 a. m., and police were unable to find any clews as to the throwers' identities.

The places where windows were broken are: Gershuny and Epstein, cigar dealers at 964 Milwaukee avenue; Blitmore Tire and Battery shop at 2011 Division street; Pollack Electric company at 2017 Division street; Brown and Koppel restaurant at 2003 Division street; Sam Stein's tavern at 2002 Grand avenue; Lebovitz Hardware store, 2004 Grand avenue, and Jacobson's Department store at 2058 Grand avenue.

MECHANIZED UNIT IN BOOKIE ARMY FALLS TO POLICE

Captain Is Wounded in Small Skirmish.

A novel arrangement for evading the police drive against handbooks failed yesterday. And, as a sequel, Acting Captain Walter McGloon of the Warren avenue station has a split lip, and an alleged handbook owner is in a cell.

Detectives Lyons Kelliher, Leo Scully, and James Slattery were touring the district in a squad car when they saw a group of men standing around an automobile parked in a vacant lot near Madison street and Damen avenue.

The policemen heard a loud speaker in the car announce, "They're in the stretch. Here comes the winner."

Winner at Race Track.

Said the detectives: "There might be a winner at the race track, but you are all losers here."

The police said that Joe Nicpon and Sam Schwartz, who were in the automobile, had a telephone connection with a room in the building at 2003 Madison street, a few feet away. Bets laid by persons who visited the car were telephoned to the room.

When a race was started the two would switch on a loud speaker and betters standing near by could listen to the race. Nicpon and Schwartz, along with six patrons who were rounded up by the detectives, were taken to the Warren avenue station.

Police Report on Skirmish.

They had been there a few minutes when Sam Kollman, 43 years old, 3712 Pine Grove avenue, appeared and demanded that they be booked immediately. Capt. McGloon informed him that they would be booked after they had been fingerprinted and investigated.

"When will that be?" demanded Kollman.

"Maybe tonight, and maybe tomorrow," Capt. McGloon informed him.

Kollman then punched the captain in the mouth, according to police. Several policemen standing near by went to the assistance of McGloon, and Kollman landed in a cell.

The automobile with race sheets and telephone connection was confiscated. Police said that Kollman was the owner of the handbook.

Desplaines street police, under Capt. John Cartan, yesterday raided an alleged handbook in the building at 908 West Madison street, arresting 60 persons. Charles Miller, 33 years old, 1528 Madison street, was charged with being the keeper of a gambling house. The other 59 persons were taken in several patrol wagons to the bureau of identification, where they were questioned.

EVANS, FACING 2 LIFE TERMS, IS TAKEN TO JOLIET

William Evans Jr., 25 years old, was among a group of 12 prisoners taken from the county jail yesterday to Joliet penitentiary. Evans was sentenced last month to two terms of life imprisonment for the fatal stabbing of his son, Douglas, 2 years old, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. William Sanders, 45.

Evans, termed a "spoiled child" by his parents, was surly yesterday as he was led handcuffed to another prisoner from the county jail. "I don't feel so good," he remarked.

Military Police Assist in Handling Fire Crowd

Half a dozen military policemen helped police last night in holding back spectators at a fire which drove several families to the street from the 14 apartment building at 6223-29 University avenue. The fire broke out in a basement storage room and did $500 damage. The military police happened to be touring the 63d street district.

WARDEN RESIGNS AFTER WHIPPING WOMEN RIOTERS

5 Choose Lashes to Loss of Prison Privileges.

Montgomery, Ala., July 25 (AP).—An incident in which five women prisoners agreed to suffer whippings instead of loss of prison privileges for taking part in a riot in the beauty parlor of the Wetumpka state prison has resulted in the resignation of the prison warden, it became known today.

Gov. Frank Dixon said the warden, J. Curtis Weldon Sr., administered seven lashes to each woman after a free-for-all fight that occurred Saturday when an inmate was refused a manicure in the newly installed prison beauty shop. The shop was designed to improve morale and teach a trade. The governor said the women were not injured by the whippings.

"But we just don't use those methods in our prisons," he said.

Poker Wielded in Battle.

Dixon said the five women, all white, wielded a poker, pulled one another's hair, and engaged in face slapping and scratching. From another source it was learned the five had been offered the alternative of the whippings or being deprived of prison privileges for 60 days.

The governor said the whippings were administered without the permission of the state department of corrections and institutions, as is required by law. He explained that regulations require that a permit be obtained from the department, that a physician examine the prisoner who is to be whipped to determine whether his health would be impaired, and that the punishment be administered in the presence of a physician.

Warden Called for Quiz.

Dixon said he learned of the whippings Tuesday when he returned from Asheville, N. C., and called Weldon immediately. Weldon's resignation was in his office yesterday, the governor said.

Weldon refused to comment. The governor declined to disclose the names of the women, saying that to do so might retard rehabilitation efforts.

"They have been treated badly, we recognize, and the warden is out," he said.

Mack Freeman was named acting warden at the prison, where approximately 300 women are imprisoned, 30 per cent of them white.

Gov. Dixon said only one other whipping had been administered during his administration, and that at Atmore prison, which has 1,000 men prisoners.

"We have found other methods far more effective," Dixon said.

INDIANA G.O.P. OUSTS BOBBITT; GATES NEW HEAD

Indianapolis, Ind., July 25 [Special].—Arch N. Bobbitt today was ousted as Republican state chairman by the state committee and replaced by Ralph F. Gates, 4th district chairman. Two factions united to make the vote 19 to 5. Bobbitt charged that his retirement meant bipartisan forces were seizing control of the party machinery.

Committeemen said that Bobbitt was displaced because he had failed to establish a state reorganization program to displace the one enacted in 1933 under the régime of former Gov. Paul McNutt despite the fact the Republicans had a majority in the legislature.

It was reported, however, that the real reason was what committeemen termed Bobbitt's inability to cope with factionalism among state G. O. P. leaders.

JOSEPH HEALY TO HEAD POLICE CENSOR BOARD

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday named Sergt. Joseph Healy to succeed Lieut. Harry M. Costello in charge of the crime prevention bureau and the police censor board. Lieut. Costello was retired Wednesday. Sergt. Healy has been on the police force 29 years and on the police movie censor board for 10 years. Prior to his appointment to the board he served with the Juvenile court. He has been a sergeant for two years.

JEWELER DIES OF BULLET WOUND.

Rare Birds

Stewardess Estelle Kloky holds two of the humming birds brought from South America by Peter French.

Twenty birds arrived at Chicago airport by American Airlines yesterday and were immediately whisked to the Brookfield zoo and placed in exercising cages by Karl Plath, bird curator. All 20 of the birds weighed much less than a pound. They are rare varieties of humming birds, captured by Peter French of St. Louis, Mo., in La Guairia, Venezuela. French also captured 50 of the tiny creatures for the St. Louis zoo.

3 ON HONEYMOON, HAMBURGER KING IN A FINE PICKLE!

Bride, 23, Sues Mate, 71; He Sues, Too.

Flint, Mich., July 25 [Special].—Details of the bizarre honeymoon on which an elderly bridegroom took along his former wife to keep him and his young bride company were unfolded in Circuit court today where the newlyweds are seeking divorces.

Principals in the honeymoon threesome are:

Samuel V. Blair, 71 years old, four times married, wealthy owner of "Kewpie" hamburger restaurants which reputedly made him a fortune with the slogan, inscribed on kewpie doll nakpins: "A pickle on top makes the heart go flippety-flop."

His bride, Betty Blair, 23, a former waitress, who had discarded two previous husbands.

His third wife, Mrs. Opal Smith, 47, a broadminded lady who introduced Betty to Blair, and who is now living with her fifth husband.

Bride Called Her "Mom."

"Sure I went along," testified Mrs. Smith in explaining her presence in the honeymooners' railroad compartment on a trip to the west coast. "All the arrangements were made by Mr. Blair, but Betty wanted me along. She called me "Mom," and I called her "daughter."

The May and December wedding took place in Toledo on Nov. 9, the day after Betty divorced her second husband. They celebrated with a champagne wedding dinner.

Blair testified that large quantities of champagne were consumed. After the party the elderly Mr. Blair had a most embarrassing experience. He lost his false teeth in the bridal chamber. Betty testified that they finally found them—under the bed.

Champagne for Breakfast.

"The next morning," Betty testified, "Mr. Blair went out and got a bottle of champagne. We ended up by having a champagne breakfast. Yes, Mrs. Smith was there."

After a trip to northern Michigan, the threesome embarked on the western trip, all in the same compartment.

The trio visited Hollywood, then Mrs. Smith and the newlyweds parted company for virtually the first time since the marriage. Mrs. Smith went to Alaska to visit her son, and Blair and Betty went to Honolulu.

With Mrs. Smith gone, the remaining two-thirds of the wedding party settled down to steady bickering. By the time they reached Honolulu, Blair had struck his bride, she charged. They decided to call it quits, then and there. Blair gave her $500 and title to some northern Michigan real estate. They came home separately. In cross-suits for divorce, each charged the other with drunkenness, Blair adding a charge of infidelity. The trial will continue next week.

HAGUE RESIGNS AS DEMOCRATIC BOSS OF JERSEY

Yields Post to Edison in Rail Tax Dispute.

Jersey City, N. J., July 25 [Special].—Mayor Frank Hague tonight announced he is relinquishing his Democratic party leadership in New Jersey to Gov. Charles Edison rather than have the railroad tax compromise issue involved in a fight for the party helm between himself and the governor. Hague has been New Jersey's Democratic boss for years and national vice chairman of the party.

The announcement of Hague's abdication was made in a statement issued at city hall two days after the mayor and Mrs. Hague departed for Tucson, Ariz., for a trip for her health.

It came in the wake of reports from Trenton that Gov. Edison,, victorious over the mayor in the campaign for the passage of the rail tax compromise bills, planned to work for the reëlection of the Democratic legislators who had voted for the bills and wrest the leadership of the state organization from the mayor.

Mayor Issues Statement.

In his statement, Boss Hague said, "The irrevelant question of political motives should not be injected into the tax question. I have the honor of being recognized as state leader of the Democratic party for the past 25 years, but in order to save the governor the trouble of campaigning thruout the state for this leadership, I now wish to confer the honor of the state leadership of the Democratic party upon him."

The mayor said he wanted it understood, however, that he intended to remain politically active in Hudson county and was going to continue his fight against the railroad tax legislation. He declared he would take the issue to the courts.

The remainder of the mayor's statement was devoted to a repetition of attacks he has been making on Gov. Edison. He again accused the governor of violating a pledge of the Democratic platform in pressing for the adoption of the tax measures and of coercing Democratic legislators to vote for them.

Bill Cut 13 Million.

The bills compromising railroad taxes and revising the method of levying them were passed by the legislator Tuesday morning after an all-night session. The program calls for full payment of $34,000,000 in delinquent taxes, and cancels $18,000,000 in interest and penalties for the arrears.

The entire $52,000,000 debt has been upheld in the state and federal courts, including the United States Supreme court, but the carriers pleaded inability to pay and said some would be forced into bankruptcy. Hague demanded payment in full.

FURS STOLEN FROM CAR.

Aaron Jacobsen of 622 Patterson avenue, a fur salesman, reported to police yesterday that four fur coats and other furs with a total value of $1,500 were stolen from his automobile, parked in front of 2716 Milwaukee avenue.

ANTI-COMMUNIST WITNESS TELLS OF WPA PAY CUT

New York, July 25 [Special].—Sylvan A. Pollack, writer and former communist, today charged that his testimony identifying communists to the joint legislative committee investigating subversive activities in New York schools had resulted in discrimination against him by the local Work Projects administration and a 30 per cent cut in pay.

Pollack, in a letter to Washington officials, asserted that when he returned to work on the writers' project, after testifying last June 5, his supervisor called him a "tattletale." Altho his work had been praised previously, he said, he was re-rated downward only 23 days later.

WPA officials here denied discrimination. They said Pollack's re-rating downward had been part of the curtailment program resulting from the reduced relief appropriation, in which 13,000 WPA workers have been fired here since July 1.

Pollack, a founder of the American communist party in 1919 and former Daily Worker writer, was expelled from the party in 1930 on charges of Trotskyism. He now denies any Trotskyist sympathies and is New York chairman of the American Security union, formed after an anti-communist split in the Workers Alliance.

When two robbers entered a laundry at 2021 Taylor street yesterday and demanded money the manager, Louis Bonnelli, 60 years old, put up a fight. As he wrestled with one bandit the other struck him on the head with a pistol butt. Both men then fled without any loot.

POLICE CALLED AFTER UPROAR IN CLERKS' UNION

Revolting Group Assails International Chiefs.

Police were called last night to enforce orderly procedure at a meeting of members of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks International Protective association, held in Musicians' hall at 175 West Washington street. When a squad arrived Harry O'Reilly, regional AFL director, had taken the chair and restored a measure of calm.

The meeting was for employés of the National Tea company only. They were met at the door by a delegation from the Hillman Stores' group of local members, who first revolted against the czarlike régime of Max Caldwell and brought about his ousting.

Group Distributes Handbills.

This group handed out literature attacking the good faith of the international association and the deputies it sent here to iron out the difficulties. The reading matter was an answer to a circular the deputies had sent out calling the Hillman group members purveyors of "vile and malicious propaganda." It accused the international deputies of turning down a reorganization plan approved by O'Reilly.

It was further charged that the deputies had taken no action to get the funds of the local from Caldwell "because he was their buddie and part of their meal ticket."

Bars Committee from Hall.

The disorder became acute when Peter Formica, the international representative, refused to let the Hillman committee enter the hall. Nearly all the 80 National Tea clerks howled down this ruling.

O'Reilly obtained a hearing and pledged that a meeting of all the store units would be held next week, and that there would be full discussion then. An election, he said, could be held in two weeks.

Assistant State's Attorney William B. Crawford, who is investigating the Caldwell rule, expects to question Leo Gorsky, an auditor, about the local's books on Monday. So far no trace has been found of either records or funds.

U. S. JURY CONVICTS 'NUCKY' JOHNSON OF INCOME TAX EVASION

Camden, N. J., July 25 (AP).—Enoch L. [Nucky] Johnson, Atlantic City Republican leader, was convicted today by a federal jury on two counts of an indictment charging income tax evasion. He was acquitted on a third count.

The verdict convicted the 58 year old Atlantic county treasurer of evading income tax for 1936 and 1937 but acquitted him of failing to pay income tax in 1935.

The government accused Johnson of evading payment of $39,800 for the three years on an income of $199,226. A major portion of this income, the government contended, came as protection money from numbers game operators.

Judge Albert B. Maris announced he would impose sentence next Friday. The maximum penalty is 5 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each count.

NEW MANAGERS OF CLUB ALABAM RECEIVE LICENSE

City Collector Louis Rixmann announced last night that the Club Alabam, 747 North Rush street, has been licensed to reopen under new management. On May 16 Mayor Kelly ordered that a new six month tavern license be withheld from the operators of the club. The order was issued on evidence of police raids which showed the club conducted gambling games. Rixmann said that such an action does not constitute a license revocation and therefore new operators may obtain a license for the same address. If a liquor license is revoked by the mayor no license may be reissued for that address for one year, according to the law.

SIX CHALLENGE WHIRLAWAY IN CLASSIC TODAY

USO TO GET $2,500 FROM ALL-STAR FOOTBALL GAME

BALANCE OF NET PROCEEDS GOES TO 3 CHARITIES

Harmon Keeps Lead in National Poll.

BY ARCH WARD.

The College All-Americans and Chicago Bears, who will meet in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28 in the eighth annual All-Star football game, will help swell Chicago's contributions to the United Service Organizations by $2,500. That amount will be deducted from the profits of the contest and donated to the fund which will be used to establish recreation centers for the nation's armed forces.

The rest of the net proceeds of the All-Star game will be divided equally, as always, among the United Charities, the Catholic Charities, and the Jewish Charities of Chicago. The sum which will accrue to these three organizations is expected to be as large as in other years, despite the contribution to the USO, for revenue from the game promises to establish a new record for the enterprise.

Nearly five weeks remain before the kickoff, but more than 55,000 tickets already have been sold. The entire $4.40 section was disposed of a week after seats went on sale, June 6. The $3.30 locations were exhausted a few days ago, and the last of the $2.20 tickets will be sold within the next week.

Applications from All Over.

National interest in the game is reflected in ticket applications. Hundreds have come from such widely separated cities as Washington, D. C., Minneapolis, New York, Denver, Nashville, Detroit, and Kansas City. Soldiers' field officials are arranging to install bleachers atop the rim of the stadium to accommodate the anticipated overflow.

Tom Harmon of Michigan continues to lead the coast-to-coast poll, which will determine the personnel of the All-Stars' starting lineup. The Wolverines' brilliant left half back, who was a unanimous All-American last fall, has polled 733,986 votes. His teammate, Forest Evashevski, whose blocking helped establish Harmon as the back of the year, is running almost as well. Evashevski, who will become head coach at Hamilton college in September, has 702,118 votes.

The poll will end at midnight Tuesday. The 11 players with the greatest number of votes at their respective positions will comprise the collegians' opening battle front. In event any player chosen by the fans is unable to join the squad, the man with the next greatest number of votes must be moved in to replace him. The same policy applies in event an elected player is injured in practice and unable to take his place in the lineup.

Mucha Tops Linemen.

Rudy Mucha, Washington center, is the leading vote getter among the linemen. His 681,297 give him an edge of almost 100,000 over his closest rival, Jack Hall of Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers, who is being supported robustly in the Little All-America drive that has boosted Nick Foran of St. Benedict to a potential starting position at tackle, and Bill McMahon of Rockhurst to the No. 2 spot at guard.

Only three athletes from colleges outside the middle west are among the select eleven this morning. In addition to Mucha, they are Augie Lio of Georgetown, who holds first place among the guards, and Nick Drahos, Cornell tackle. Tommy O'Boyle of Tulane is in third place at guard and Ernest Pannell of Texas Aggies is the No. 3 tackle. Paul Severin of North Carolina is the third place end.

More than 60 players will be invited to join the squad. They will report at Northwestern university, Aug. 10. The Bears will begin work the same day at St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis.

Boston, Mass., July 25 (AP).—After staggering momentarily, Lefty Grove recovered today and trudged sturdily into the company of baseball's immortals by achieving the 300th victory of his major league career as the Boston Red Sox surged from behind to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 6. Jimmy Foxx, who jumped to fame with Grove as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics, provided the payoff triple which broke Cleveland hearts in the eighth inning.

Lefty Grove.

"The thrill of a lifetime? This is it!" said Lefty as Dom DiMaggio, who collected Lou Boudreau's fly for the final out, handed him the winning ball in the jubilant Red Sox locker room. Score:

GRANGE DROPS SUIT; PICK NEW DIRECTOR AUG. 5

The $50,000 libel suit of Harold E. [Red] Grange against Wendell S. Wilson, athletic director of the University of Illinois, was dismissed by agreement yesterday before Judge Charles A. Williams in the Superior court when Wilson retracted accusations made against Grange in the recent Illini athletic department squabble.

Attorney George Landon, representing Grange, said after the dismissal of the suit was announced: "The retraction was all that we sought. Grange didn't want any of Wilson's money."

In Champaign, Waldo Ames of Chicago, who was elected president of the board of directors of the university's athletic association yesterday, announced that an acting director to succeed Wilson will be named at the next meeting of the board of trustees on Aug. 5.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bill Terry's Giants, who have feasted on Cub meat all season, dined again yesterday, much to the discomfiture of Jim Wilson's sixth placers. The New Yorkers were so ravenous that they dismembered Vern [Lefty] Olsen in one inning and then proceeded leisurely and flawlessly to a 5 to 2 victory in the series opener.

While in the process of being gobbled up by their guests, the Cubs had trouble with their bats. Their total was good enough but the punch in the pinch was absent. They couldn't even get a man past second base for five innings, but in the sixth kicked up enough of a stir to cause Bill Lohrman's departure. Then they got around to threatening in the seventh, but, with the bases filled, Bob Carpenter came to the relief of Ace Adams and nothing happened.

Olsen Leaves Early.

Olsen was visible only during the first inning in which the Giants served themselves a four run course seasoned by Babe Dahlgren's error on an easy grounder. Without the error Olsen might have survived, but there still were four hits mixed in the assault, one a two base contribution from Alumnus Dickie Bartell. It drove in two of the four runs. With Olsen gone, Larry French did some beautiful southpawing for six innings and for dessert Vance Page was brought in. The enemy pasted him for a run in the ninth.

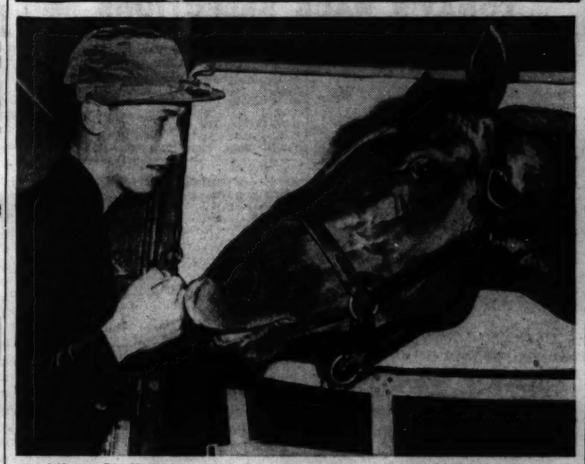
The only pleasing feature about Olsen's one inning act was that Rucker, the first batter, accomplished nothing. Giant cannon crackers began to explode immediately. Whitehead boomed a single into center and Arnovich landed one in left. Ott grounded to Dahlgren, but Babe let the ball seep thru, Whitehead scoring and Arnovich moving to third. He went in from there while Danning was forcing Ott. Young plunked the ivy on the left field wall with a two bagger and followed Danning across the plate when Bartell doubled to the same sector.

Hack Gets to Bill.

Lohrman's magic over his adversaries began to wane when Hack opened the sixth with a single to right and Gilbert singled to center. Dallessandro forced Gilbert, after which Nicholson singled to center, Hack counting and Dallessandro taking third. He sneaked home on Dahlgren's infield hit to Jurges.

The Giants' ninth inning run grew from a double by Ott and a single by Young.

Big Names at Arlington Today



Albert Shelhamer and Whirlaway, Calumet farm's favorite to win the Classic stakes at Arlington Park today, get acquainted. Shelhamer obtained the mount on the star 3 year old when Eddie Arcaro, Whirlaway's regular rider, was suspended in the east. [Associated Press Photo.]

Con McCreary is only a little fellow—4 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 104 pounds, but his name is big among jockeys. He rides Our Boots in today's Classic.

Our Boots, regarded by many as Whirlaway's chief rival. The colt is owned by Woodvale farm and is trained by Steve Judge.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Whirlaway goes today in the race which is the maker and breaker of champions—the $60,000 Classic stakes at Arlington Park. As odds-on favorite, perhaps at 2 to 5, he will be pursued not only by Our Boots, Attention, and other fleet footed rivals, but also by a persistent fate which has dogged the standout choices in Classics of the past. He will be racing against the nemesis which caught up with Twenty Grand, Johnstown, and Bimelech.

Where the last curve starts sweeping toward the stretch, Whirlaway will pass the spot where two champions have been overthrown. Here Johnstown, racing at odds of 2 to 5, faltered and failed as Challedon and Sun Lover came alongside in the Classic of 1939. Johnstown never ran again.

Never Comes Back Successfully.

A year later, at almost the identical point, Sirocco and Gallahadion conquered Bimelech, who was going at 3 to 5 in the 1940 Classic. Never again did Bimelech come back successfully.

Johnstown and Bimelech both had been setting the pace up to the point of their downfall. The question had been would they be able to withstand the challenges of the contenders behind them.

In the case of Whirlaway today the situation will be somewhat different, but that spot near the three-eighths pole will be none the less critical for him than for his predecessors. For this is the point at which he is expected to cut loose with that blazing quarter mile drive for which he has become so famous. In his earlier victories he has turned it on at the three-eighths pole and has passed his rivals as tho they were tied to the rail. In a quarter mile or less he has run them down, leaving him with an extra furlong in the stretch thru which he could come home free, far out in front of his field.

Two Elements of Suspense.

As he passes that spot today, probably well back of the leaders, there will be two elements of suspense for the crowd of 40,000:

1. Will he have that mighty burst of speed ready for delivery?

2. Will he make the turn running true to the rail or will he go raging along like a wild horse and carry on toward the outer fence?

Upon the answers to those two questions will depend the chances of those who back Our Boots, Attention, Bushwhacker, Daily Trouble, and To a Tee. Tho Whirlaway will have a running mate, Blenweed, the responsibility will rest with the champion because his colleague is in there largely to serve some pacemaking idea which Trainer Ben Jones may have in mind.

The pressure may be so great today that if Whirlaway gives the wrong answer to either of the above questions, it may seal his fate. He ran wide in a trial race last week and got away with it because the opposition wasn't very tough. Today, however, Our Boots and Attention both have the speed and class to snap up any opportunity the champion gives them.

It's Up to Shelhamer.

With regard to the first, there seems little likelihood that he won't have it when he's called upon. Whirlaway has indicated that he has that wild racing instinct that makes him fight for his head all thru a race and move like a bullet when his rider lets him go.

As for the second question, that is largely up to Al Shelhamer, who will be aboard the champion for the first time. In Whirlaway's sweep thru the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont, and Dwyer stakes, Eddie Arcaro rode him. In the Henry of Navarre purse at Belmont, however, Wendell Eads got him home on top, beating older horses including Mioland, Hash, and Your Chance. Shelhamer handled Whirlaway well in a workout the other day and he is recognized as a thoroly capable rider.

The entry of Blenweed was somewhat of a surprise, but there is the possibility that Jones has him in there to set the pace.

The gross value of the Classic is $55,625 plus $750 for each starter. If all seven go, it will gross $60,875. Of this, $42,125 will go to the winner.

VIRGINIA INGRAM SEEKS TO RETIRE CWDGA CUP TODAY

Opposes Mary Wilder in Final Round.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Virginia Ingram, comely Sunset Ridge star who has been one of our town's ablest golfers for a number of semesters, this morning will begin an unusual quest over the No. 1 course at Olympia Fields Country club. She will seek to become the first swinger to gain permanent possession of the Chicago Women's District Golf association trophy by winning the 36 hole final of this 12th annual battle for same at the big south side club.

Of course Virginia will have to do more than appear on the first tee and swing at a golf ball. She will have to trade shots, and they'll have to be good, against pretty Mary Wilder of Skokie, 19 year old Smith college junior. While Mary, who favors a white jockey cap, a silken blouse, and track shorts for golfing garb, was winning her 18 hole semi-final from Virginia Nilles of North Shore by a 4 and 3 count, Miss Ingram was walking off with an unexpectedly easy 7 and 5 decision over Eleanor Dudley, Ridge's national intercollegiate women's champion.

Dudley Starts Well, but—

Miss Ingram has held the championship in 1936 and 1938, not to mention her appearance in the 1937 final, and if she can bring off a third victory today, the trophy is hers for keeps.

Miss Ingram started off as tho she were going to permit Miss Dudley to move on toward the title match that the Ridge girl never has been able to win. Virginia drove the rough and then became entangled with a tree, winding up with the six that left her one down on the second tee.

That was the last time that the Sunset Ridge golfer was to be down. She rounded the turn in 42 for a four up advantage and then, after having decided the match on the 13th, played out the bye holes for a 79 just to prove that she was on her game.

Wilder Leads from Start.

Miss Wilder was 2 up after the first four holes, the margin which she retained thru the turn, with a 42 against Miss Nilles' 44.

Evert Finally Meets Larned Today---Twice

It might be appropriate to shift the Illinois state tennis tournament from the Beverly Hills club to Comiskey park this afternoon, when Chicago's leading junior stars, Gardner Larned and Jimmy Evert, will play what probably is the first double header in the history of local tennis. The first game starts at 2 o'clock.

Larned and Evert will run off their semi-final junior singles match. There will be a short intermission and then the two youngsters will resume their argument — this time in a men's singles semi-final engagement.

It is a novel situation, but Larned figures to be right at home. Yesterday he reached the junior semi-finals by beating Johnny Howard of Beverly Hills, Cal., 6-2, 6-1. It was the same Howard whom Larned whipped Thursday in the men's singles, 6-1, 6-0. The confusing duplication of matches has come about because the best players in the tournament are juniors who are competing in two divisions of play.

Evert defeated Jack Tunnell of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-0, in the men's quarter finals, and then beat Bob Kimbrell of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0, in the junior's. Other scores:

MEN'S SINGLES.
Quarter-Finals.

Dave Freeman, Pasadena, Cal., beat Robert Jake, Milwaukee, 7-5, 6-4.

MEN'S DOUBLES.
Third Round.

Robert Jake, Milwaukee, and Gardner Larned, Chicago, beat Irving Chappel, Los Angles, and Eugene Dines, Denver, Colo., 6-3, 7-5.

Sketches of Horses in Arlington Classic

Sketches of thorobreds which will run in the $50,000 added Classic stakes at Arlington Park today:

WHIRLAWAY, chestnut colt, by Blenheim II.—Dustwhirl, by Sweep.
Owner—Warren Wright.
Trainer—Ben Jones.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Winnings.
1940	16	7	2	4	$ 77,275
1941	13	9	3	2	170,161

Whirlaway is the current champion of the 3 year old division because of his sweep thru the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, Belmont, and Dwyer stakes. In addition he beat older horses, including Mioland, Hash, and Your Chance, in an overnight allowance event called the Henry of Navarre purse at Belmont. Before beginning this succession of victories he was beaten by Our Boots in the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland and by Blue Pair in the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs. His tendency to run out on the turn into the stretch was the deciding factor in his defeat in the Derby Trial. since Eddie Arcaro began handling him in his stake engagements he overcame this, but Arcaro is now under suspension and Al Shelhamer will ride him instead. Whirlaway was the leading money winning juvenile of 1940. He won seven races, including four stakes as a 2 year old. The stakes were the Saratoga Special, the Hopeful, the Breeders' Futurity, and the Walden.

OUR BOOTS, bay colt, by Bull Dog—Maid of Arches, by Warden of the Marches.
Owner—Boyce G. Martin.
Trainer—Steve Judge.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Winnings.
1940	6	3	1	2	$71,351
1941	6	3	1	1	42,481

Our Boots' most notable achievements this season were his six length victory over Whirlaway in the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland last April and his triumph over Market Wise, Robert Morris, Swing and Sway, and other good 3 year olds in the Yankee handicap at Suffolk Downs on July 4. He lost none of this prestige by his performance in the Empire City handicap on July 12. In this race, which was his most recent start, he failed by the margin of a head to catch Swing and Sway, to which he was conceding 10 pounds. He ran eighth to Whirlaway in the Kentucky Derby, and third to Whirlaway and King Cole in the Preakness. As a juvenile he won three of his six starts, including the Belmont Futurity. He was second to Bold Irishman in the Pimlico Futurity, and third to Whirlaway and Blue Pair in the Breeders' Futurity at Keeneland.

ATTENTION, bay colt, by Equipoise—Fizzas, by Bubbling Over.
Owner—Mrs. Parker Corning.
Trainer—Max Hirsch.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Winnings.
1940	7	3	2	0	$35,940
1941	5	3	0	0	4,615

Attention's best performance this year occurred in last Saturday's White Plains handicap at Empire City in which he beat a field of older horses at a mile and an eighth, carrying top weight of 122 pounds. Previously he had won two allowance events, had finished fifth to Fenelon in the Brooklyn handicap at Aqueduct, and fifth to Boston Man in an overnight event at Jamaica. As a juvenile he won the National Stallion stakes at Belmont and the United States Hotel stakes at Saratoga. He ran second to Whirlaway in the Hopeful at Saratoga and second to Bushwhacker in the New England Futurity.

BUSHWHACKER, brown colt, by Chance Shot—Masked Dancer, by Disguise.
Owner—R. W. McIlvain.
Trainer—Howard Wells.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Winnings.
1940	8	2	0	1	$38,860
1941	6	3	1	0	2,600

Bushwhacker's main claim to prestige rests on his victory in the $25,000 New England Futurity last September at Narragansett. In this event he beat Attention, Bull Brier, and Swain. An attempt was made to prepare him for the Kentucky Derby this season, but he came to hand slowly and an easier schedule was substituted. He has been improving rapidly in recent weeks and has won his last three starts in six furlong overnight allowance events. He never has raced at the Classic distance of a mile and a quarter and has undertaken a mile only once, and a mile and a sixteenth once, running eighth and sixth on those occasions.

DAILY TROUBLE, chestnut gelding, by Psychic Bid—Black Crystal, by Jock.
Owner—David Straus.
Trainer—Howard Wells.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Winnings.
1940	5	0	2	0	$ 850
1941	5	3	1	1	3,475

Daily Trouble was unable to win in five starts as a 2 year old, then he scored his first victory in a six furlong maiden race at Lincoln Fields last month. He reached his best form during the current Arlington Park meeting, winning two allowance events of a mile against ordinary company and running second to Whirlaway in the mile and an eighth Classic Trial last week. He finished two and a half lengths behind the Calumet star after the latter had gone wide at the head of the stretch.

TO A TEE, brown colt, by Ariel—Inscrutable, by Ramus.
Owner—John Marsch.
Trainer—Burleigh Parke.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Winnings.
1940	8	2	1	0	$2,400
1941	7	3	1	3	4,480

To a Tee has been running consistently in the money against middle class horses, mostly at sprint distances. His only stake victory occurred in the Northwestern handicap on July 2 at Arlington Park. In the Classic Trial last week he followed Whirlaway to the stretch, then weakened and yielded second place to Daily Trouble. Among his victims during the Lincoln Fields and Arlington Park meetings have been horses of the class of Happy Pilot, Kings Blue, Bay Carse, and Valdina Paul.

BLENWEED, bay gelding, by Blenheim II.—Starweed, by Phalaris.
Owner—Warren Wright.
Trainer—Ben Jones.

	Starts.	1st.	2nd.	3rd.	Winnings.
1941	9	2	2	0	$2,080

Blenweed's disposition as a 2 year old kept him away from the races, but he was ready for competition during the winter season in Florida. He has been running in events for horses of the $4,000 claiming class, at sprinting distances. In three efforts during the current Arlington Park meeting he has been unable to win. In his last start he ran second to Shaun G., at seven furlongs. Previously he had finished fourth to Talked About and seventh to Joan T.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 25.—The White Sox and the Yankees played a baseball game today which seems to have only the purpose of adding to the fund of statistics compiled by the league leaders.

The Yankees won, 8 to 0. Tom Henrich's 18th homer with two on in the fourth and Charley Keller's 25th, with two on and two out in the eighth doing the bulk of tabulating, tho they were not essential to overcome the Sox's three single attack on Spud Chandler.

It's No. 3 for Spud.

The victory, tho only the ninth over the Sox in 15 meetings, was the Yankees' 10th in their last 11 games. their 23d in 25 starts and 27 in 30 tries. No team has taken a series here since the White Sox took two out of three in June.

It was Chandler's third victory of the season, his first having been accomplished at the expense of the Sox in Chicago on July 13. Luke Appling got to him for two infield singles today and George Dickey rapped an outfield single. Three balls were hit to the outfield by the Sox—Dickey's single and outs by Appling and Ben Chapman. Appling got to third after walking at the start of the seventh. No other Chicagoan got to second.

They're Going Down.

Eddie Smith, victim of a five run surge in the fourth inning, in which 11 Yanks went to the plate, was charged with his 11th loss of the year. He was nicked for nine hits in five innings. Pete Appleton finished and did fairly well until Keller knocked that No. 25.

Thus did the Sox accomplish their third loss in four starts on the present road trip, and sag two games below .500 for the first time in months. They are not feeling very gay, what with their 11 to 1 whipping yesterday and today's futility. However, some recalled that Christmas comes five months from today.

Dempseys Are Reconciled After Year's Separation

Salida, Colo., July 25 (AP).—Jack Dempsey said today he and his wife, the former Hannah Williams, were reconciled about two months ago after a separation of more than a year. The one-time world heavyweight boxing champion said he and Mrs. Dempsey and their two children planned a vacation at Lake Tahoe, Nev., next month, but that Mrs. Dempsey was taken ill recently in New York and the plans were abandoned temporarily. Dempsey is here to referee a wrestling match.

RECORD CROWD SEEN FOR NEGRO ALL-STAR GAME

Baseball fans of the middlewest started gathering in Chicago yesterday for the ninth annual Negro East vs. West All-Star baseball game in Comiskey park tomorrow.

It is likely that the record throng of 42,000 which saw the 1939 game will be eclipsed, as the advance sale is the heaviest in the history of the event. One reason for this is the scheduled appearance of Satchel Paige of the Kansas City Monarchs as one of the West's hurlers. Another is the fact that the series, always held in Comiskey park, is tied at four and four.

Games Appears a Toss-up.

Despite the presence of Paige and a number of other West veterans in the game, 14 of whom have played in previous East-West contests, while the East is relying on a fast, young group of performers, the issue appears a toss-up. Only three of the Easterners —First Baseman Buck Leonard of the Homestead Grays, Second Baseman Dick Seay of the New York Black Yankees, and Shortstop Manuel Martinez of the New York Cubans—have been in the event before.

East Has Strong Corps.

Against the West pitching staff headed by Paige and including Hilton Smith of Kansas City, Double Duty Radcliffe and Verdel Mathis of the Memphis Red Sox, Preacher Henry of the Jacksonville, Fla., Red Caps and Willie Ferrell of the Chicago American Giants, the East will present a corps equally as strong. It is headed by a man the East regards as Paige's ultimate successor—Dave [Impo] Barnhill of the New York Cubans.

To Land a Hooked Salmon Try Tickling Him in the Ribs

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TRINITY RIVER, Quebec, July 25.—If anybody had told us before we ascended the brawling Trinity river that we might hook into a 21¼ pound salmon which would sulk so long that a guide would have to poke it in the ribs with a long stick, we never would have believed it. Yet that is what happened to us when we fished seven miles up the Trinity a few days ago.

The fish that staged the sitdown strike in fast water didn't come into the picture until after we had spent some hours during which we were rather "low." In company with Dr. Donald C. Thurber and G. J. Lane of Baie Comeau and E. M. Antrim of Wilmette, Ill., we had traveled seven miles up the Trinity in a light buckboard wagon over the roughest corduroy road that ever shook a fisherman's teeth loose.

They're Not Interested.

We arrived at an old bunk house 100 yards from a logging dam on the river late in the afternoon. That evening we got nary a salmon strike, altho we could see dozens of them in the river. Up to 5 o'clock the next morning we again drew a blank, but other members of the party connected with young salmon which are called grilse. They are the lively, high jumping acrobats which have come in from the sea for the first time after they hatched out in fresh water. [Anything up to five pounds or so is called a grilse up here along the St. Lawrence.] Altho several of these had been killed by other members of the fishing party and Antrim had a seven pound salmon to his credit we were just another fisherman until the 21 pounder came our way.

And to add to the gloom of the picture [for us] a big fish which Dr. Thurber said would have weighed 25 pounds had smashed at our Durham Ranger fly and broken the line right at the point where the stout gut leader was tied.

Comes the Strike.

But at 9 o'clock with a bright sun overhead we climbed up on a high crib of logs about nine feet above roaring white water pouring over the logging dam and began to cast. We could see salmon leaping below us in the swift foam flecked water. Sometimes the big fellows rolled something like porpoises, showing their long dorsal fins. And every time one of these great fish showed himself our fever went up.

Then came the strike on a No. 4 Blue Charm fly. We set the hook slowly but firmly. The fish zoomed away from its starting point. The reel whined as the powerful salmon rushed into the white water below the dam. It traveled about 50 feet and then stopped. We exerted as much pressure as we dared. We gave the line a few tugs by working the rod tip. But the salmon never moved. And we didn't know what to do. It was necessary to get this big fish below the white water into the pool in order to fight it and whip it. But there was the smart salmon sitting on a rock and refusing to move. Finally after getting some wig wag signals from Antrim we motioned to the French guide to poke the fish and get it going.

So Zeneau, a tall white haired French Canadian, picked up a long stick on the shore, waded out into the shallow water, leaned over, and rammed the pole against the sulking salmon. The angry fish rushed from its secure position out into the middle of the current in nothing flat while we hung on. Then we had to settle down to work on this fish, a touch and go, thrilling game that lasted for 31 minutes.

BOBBY RIGGS AND SCHROEDER MEET IN FINALS TODAY

Sea Bright, N. J., July 25 (AP).—Bobby Riggs, fast reasserting himself as the game's top player, and young Ted Schroeder became finalists today in the 54th annual Sea Bright tennis tournament.

Riggs won easily from Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-3, 6-0, 5-7, 6-2. Schroeder conquered Wayne Sabin of Reno, 6-3, 6-3 ,7-9, 1-6, 6-3.

The final berths in women's singles fell to New Yorkers, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke and Helen Bernhard. Mrs. Cooke, the top seeded entrant, defeated third seeded Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., 7-5, 6-0. Unranked Miss Bernhard sprang a mild surprise by ousting Helen Jacobs, the 32 year old veteran from Berkeley, Cal., 6-3, 3-6, 6-0.

Riggs, seeking an unprecedented fourth title here, and the 20 year old Schroeder will battle it out for the men's title tomorrow.

COMMODITY RISE OVERSHADOWS DROP IN STOCKS

Share Market Dips on Far East Developments.

New York, July 25 (AP).—Securities markets were crowded out of the speculative picture today by soaring cotton and import commodities.

While the widening rift between the United States and Japan over the latter's move in Indo-China apparently dampened the buying urge for stocks, it conversely stimulated demand for staples that would be affected by embargoes and tied-up shipping in the Pacific if the oriental situation became worse.

Specialties still clung to modest advances in the stock list, but leaders slipped fractions to a point or so. There were a few setbacks of as much as 3 points.

Break After F. D. R. Statement.

The stock market was no worse than mildly mixed until the President announced definite retaliatory action against the Japanese military shift to the south would be taken. Prices then began to waver.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 43.6, its third successive decline. Sizable trades in low priced issues accounted for much of the turnover of 809,030 shares, which compared with 623,840 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Six issues reached new 1941 highs on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Transfers of 21,000 shares involved 87 individual issues, of which 34 advanced, 34 declined, and 19 closed unchanged.

The new peaks were set by Butler Brothers common, 6¼; Cities Service, 5¼; Lion Oil, 13; McCord Radiator, 18; Northern Paper, 12½, and A. Stein, 13¾.

Of the dually listed stocks traded from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, Consolidated Oil and Peoples Gas closed ⅛ higher than at New York and Aviation corporation was ¼ lower.

COMMONS VOTES ACCEPTANCE OF HUGE U. S. LOAN

Wood Thanks Jones and Morgenthau.

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—The house of commons today passed the financial powers bill authorizing the government to contract the $425,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation loan already announced in Washington.

Sir Kingsley Wood.

Before the vote Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house that "this agreement affords a satisfactory solution to the very difficult problem how to make the best use of our American assets for war purposes."

The loan is to be secured by British collateral in the form of holdings in American securities.

Avoids Forced Liquidation.

The chancellor added that it overcame objections to such financing as the liquidation of British holdings in the American Viscose company, a rayon manufacturing concern, control of which British investors lost thru the stock sale. This transaction was also criticized here because it involved a large brokerage fee for disbursing shares because of United States anti-trust laws.

"Many of these direct investments are almost impossible to sell at the present time," he said, and therefore "when the RFC obtained powers from congress to make loans to a belligerent government against collateral in the form of American securities, no time was lost in taking advantage of these powers."

Britain's advantage, Sir Kingsley said, is that direct investments of Britons in the United States "will remain the property of and under the control of the present owners," and income from the collateral will be devoted to providing interest and repayment on the loan.

U. S. Officials "Helpful."

He estimated income for the collateral at $36,000,000 annually and assignments to interest and sinking fund at $12,750,000 and $7,500,000 a year, respectively. Among the more important collateral put up, he said, were British insurance interests.

"Mr. Morgenthau [secretary of the treasury] and Mr. Jesse Jones [federal loan administrator] have spared no pains to bring the agreement to a successful conclusion. And their helpfulness in the field is yet another example of the ready and willing cooperation by the United States in the great task that confronts the two democracies," the chancellor said.

HASKELITE MFG. OFFERS 'SHARES TO PUBLIC TODAY

Haskelite Manufacturing corporation, Chicago and Grand Rapids manufacturer of plywoods, plymetal and other building materials, is offering 25,000 shares of its stock to the public today as part of a plan to provide $417,480 for additional capital and for retirement on Aug. 1 of $150,380 in bonds due next Feb. 1. The shares, of $5 par value, are priced at $10.

Holders of the bonds to be redeemed were given stock purchase warrants entitling them to subscribe by Feb. 1, 1942, for 200 shares of stock at $5 a share for each $1,000 bond held. On June 26 there were 42,820 shares reserved for exercise of these warrants.

The public offering is being made thru a banking group headed by Link, Gorman & Co., Inc.

The Haskelite corporation has main offices at 208 West Washington street. Its main plant is in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Industrial Machine Price Job Goes to Dr. Joel Dean

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—Dr. Joel Dean, assistant professor in the school of business at the University of Chicago, has been appointed price executive in charge of industrial machinery in the price division of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply. Dean is an industrial engineer and formerly was connected with McKinsey-Wellington & Co., an industrial engineering firm.

SWEDEN DEALT NEW TRADE BLOWS BY WAR BETWEEN NAZIS, RUSS

Washington, D. C., July 25 [Special].—Sweden, already suffering economically because of the war, faces new stagnation and distress as a result of the German-soviet hostilities, said today's issue of the Foreign Commerce Weekly, official publication of the department of commerce. New trade agreements had been concluded between Stockholm and Moscow only a few weeks before the German armies attacked the Russian frontiers, and now this trade is blocked.

Not only has Sweden lost her few remaining markets, but her factories are reportedly closing because of raw material shortages, agriculture is suffering from a prolonged drouth, and the coal shortage is already so severe that much disease and suffering are feared during the coming winter because of inability to secure fuel for domestic use.

Japan, Russia Cut American Buying in May

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—The commerce department disclosed today that United States exports to Japan fell to an eight-year low of $6,621,000 in May from $8,419,000 for April.

Altho Russia was on the brink of war with Germany at that time, its purchases here slumped suddenly from $5,186,000 in April to only $212,000 in May.

American exports to Japan in May were the lowest for any month since the depression year of 1933. How much of the decline was due to curtailed shipments of oil, metals, machinery, and other war materials could not be learned, however, because the department recently stopped publication of such figures.

Five Month Total Off Half.

The May total compared with exports to Japan of $13,687,000 in May of last year. For the first five months of this year exports to Japan amounted to $47,848,600, barely more than half the $91,871,000 in the corresponding period last year.

The report also showed that exports to Latin American countries rose to $85,000,000 in May, and were the highest for any month since the beginning of the war. This was 14 per cent more than April, and was due primarily to larger shipments to Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Mexico, and Venezuela. Imports from Latin America were $95,000,000. While among the highest in recent months, this figure was slightly below April.

Britain Still Gets Most.

The bulk of American trade, however, continued to center in the British empire. The empire took $247,000,000 of American exports in May, or about 64 per cent of the total.

OPM PUTS ARMAMENT JOBS, AUTHORIZATIONS ABOVE 50,000 MILLION

Washington, D. C., July 25 [Special].—The Office of Production Management reported today that the cost of United States and British armament orders and congressional authorizations has passed the 50,000 million dollar mark, and that expenditures in June totaled $994,200,000, the largest total for any month since the arms program started last June. Arms spending for the year ended June 30 was placed at $7,045,200,000.

OPM said that the total of United States government appropriations and contract authorizations, plus funds made available to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for arms and including the lease-lend program, totaled 47,116 millions and that British orders, as of June 15, totaled 3,669 millions.

United States and British commitments included 11,957 millions for airplanes, 8,483 millions for ships, and 8,081 millions for guns and ammunition.

Empire Sells Dairy Products Here as We 'Lend' to Britain

While lease-lend shipments to Britain were boosting May exports of American dairy products to new records, part of the imports of butter and cheese came from two British dominions, department of agriculture trade figures disclosed yesterday. Data from the department of commerce showed that New Zealand, Canada, and even the United Kingdom, itself, have been shipping dairy products to the United States this year.

Exports of dairy products in May, with the exception of evaporated milk, were the largest for any month since the World war, the Chicago Mercantile exchange reported.

Exports Compared.

A comparison of May and five months exports with the corresponding periods last year follows:

May Exports.	1941	1940.
Evaporated milk, lbs.	19,365,728	3,635,763
Condensed milk, lbs.	8,291,785	441,778
Cheese	4,719,050	36,260
Do processed, spreads	1,667,767	128,680
Eggs, dozens	7,490,042	796,056
First Five Months.
Evaporated milk, lbs.	47,231,722	15,107,747
Condensed milk, lbs.	29,006,023	1,804,316
Cheese, lbs.	5,016,918	235,143
Eggs, dozens	8,057,292	2,399,947

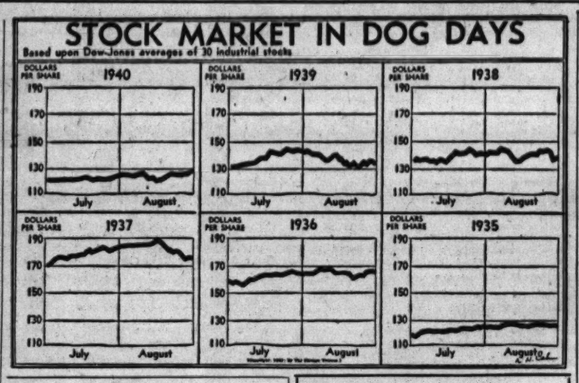
The condensed milk exports were exceeded only in August of last year when Great Britain bought more than 48 million pounds. The Mercantile Exchange reported that cheese exports in any full year between 1927 and 1939 have never reached the total set by May exports alone. Exports of eggs during the month were almost double total shipments for the year of 1940.

Cheese imports were only about half as large as last year, both for May and the five months period. Altho the largest part of the cheese came from Argentina, Canada and the United Kingdom were the second largest shippers. While the department has discontinued revealing the source of imports, it reported the United Kingdom shipped 734,000 pounds of cheese here in January.

Butter Imports Climb.

Butter imports for May totaled 334,081 pounds against 130,190 a year ago; for the five months 852,070 against 552,094. New Zealand shipped approximately 30,000 pounds in January, 50,000 in February, and almost 70,000 in April. Canadian shipments were close to 5,000 pounds a month, when reported.

Prior to passage of the lease-lend bill, England and its dominions had been regular shippers of cheese to the United States. While no records are made public, it is not believed any cheese has been shipped here from England since January. While the lease-lend act makes cheese available to England almost as a gift, both Canada and New Zealand have continued to avail themselves of the high prices created in this country by lease-lend purchases of our government, dealers said.



American Can Leases Large Harvey Plant

BY AL CHASE.

American Can company, one of the world's largest makers of containers, leased for a long term yesterday the big plant formerly occupied by Western-Austin company, in Harvey, and will use it for making, for the government, fiber "sleeves" to hold various types and sizes of shells.

Upwards of a million dollars, it is understood, will be spent in rehabilitating the 50 buildings on the 20 acre tract just leased, and installing new machinery to make the containers. The plant has a total floor area of 250,000 square feet.

Will Need 500 to 600 Workers.

The armament order will necessitate a personnel of 500 to 600 as soon as operations begin, with a large increase expected when the plant is in full production.

The extensive alterations and improvements will be started at once, it was announced, and the latest type of equipment for the manufacture of fiber containers will be installed. Manufacturing operations will commence within 60 to 90 days, it was said.

Served by Three Roads.

The property is bounded by Illinois Central railroad tracks on the west, by 155th street on the north, by Halsted street on the east, and by 156tn street on the south. It is served by the Baltimore & Ohio and the Grand Trunk railroads, in addition to the Illinois Central. The lease negotiations were made by Nicolson, Porter, and List.

American Can company has several big factories in the Chicago area. Three are in the city. The Englewood plant, at 60th and Western, is the largest. In Maywood there are four plants. It also has a fiber container plant at Joliet, and a machine shop in Waukegan.

THREE INDIANA UTILITIES VOTE MERGER PLAN

Indianapolis, Ind., July 25 (AP).—Stockholders of the Public Service Company of Indiana, the Central Indiana Power company, and the Terre Haute Electric Co., Inc., approved by a majority vote today the proposed consolidation of the three companies and their subsidiaries into a new corporation to be known as the Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc.

The subsidiaries are the Northern Indiana Power company and the Dresser Power corporation.

Directors of the consolidating companies plan to meet about Aug. 25 to consider final steps necessary to consummate the merger. It was expected the consolidate would become effective Sept. 1.

Today's action by stockholders was made possible by an order of Judge John P. Nields of the Unite States District court of Delaware authorizing the trustee of Midland United company, owner of more than half of the outstanding stocks of the companies, to vote in favor of the consolidation.

Grain Exchange Institute Adds Two New Directors

The board of directors of the Grain Exchange institute has been increased in number to seven with the election of Edward F. Thompson Jr. and Richard Withrow. Robert H. Gardner has been reelected president of the association.

PULLMAN STARTS FIRST 2 WAR TANKS ON WAY TO BRITAIN

Two 28 ton tanks manufactured at the Hammond plant of Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company were started on their way to Britain yesterday. They were said to be the first of their type shipped. The tanks will go to a point near Philadelphia, where they will receive their armament—a 75 mm. gun, a .37 gun, and .50 and .30 caliber machine guns.

Officials of Pullman-Standard said the Hammond plant's tank operations are now on a mass production basis. Pullman-Standard got its contract from the British in September, 1940.

G. M. Delivers 75 Millions of Arms to U. S.

The General Motors corporation in the second quarter of this year delivered $75,200,000 of arms materials, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board, reported yesterday. He said that there had been a steady acceleration in arms output since last year. The corporation now has about 1,200 million dollars in arms orders, either on the books or under negotiation, he said.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

Most of the products being delivered or to be made involve extensive retooling or new factory construction. Included are machine guns, specialized electrical equipment, tank gun mounts, shells, cartridge cases, and many other items of a technical nature.

Sloan said that most of the items involve intensive application of engineering and production skill. About 75 per cent, due to requirements for specialized machinery, are outside the corporation's normal activities.

14% of Workers on Arms.

Of its 250,000 hourly workers, about 36,000 General Motors employés, or 14.4 per cent, are engaged in arms production, Sloan said. He said that because of the involved and technical nature of armament, work it would not be possible to employ at once men forced out of plants by too big a curtailment in automobile production. There will be at least temporary unemployment for a large part of the company's working force if automobile production is slashed.

Meantime the war department yesterday continued to release large arms contracts. One was for $14,334,470 awarded to the Savage Arms corporation, Utica, N. Y., for the manufacture of machine guns. Another for $14,270,000 was let to three companies for the construction of an air depot at Oklahoma City.

Among the Chicago companies getting orders were: Stewart-Warner corporation, fuzes, $2,640,466. International Harvester company, packing stops for containers, $738,394. Oliver Farm Equipment company, shells, $648,050. American Brake Shoe and Foundry company, steel forgings, $638,000.

List Other Arms Orders.

Other companies getting contracts included:

A. O. Smith corporation, Milwaukee, Wis., bomb bodies, $3,224,000.

Olson Construction company, Dobson and Robinson, and Peter Kiewit Sons company, Ogden, Utah, construction of shell loading, fuse loading and primer loading plant at Ogden, Utah, ordnance depot, $2,305,000.

McCord Radiator and Manufacturing company, Detroit, Mich., liners and suspensions, $1,821,720. The same firm received a $1,393,650 contract for body assemblies for the army's new style helmet for troops.

J. W. Bateson, Austin, Tex., buildings at Fort Sill, Okla., $1,538,000; General Motors corporation, Delco Products division, Dayton, O., landing gear assemblies, $1,174,250; Standard Tube company, Detroit, shells, $1,098,000; Edmund J. Rappoli company, Inc., Cambridge, Mass., warehouse, Watertown, Mass., arsenal, $787,000.

Sparks-Withington company, Jackson, Mich., hoist assemblies, $718,648; Globe Union, Inc., Milwaukee, fuses, $720,000; Shell Oil company, Inc., New York, fuel for air corps, $605,285; Hobart Brothers company, Troy, O., generating units, $601,049.

Gisholt Machine company, Madison, Wis., equipment for turret lathes, $550,400; George A. Whitmeyer & Sons Co., Ogden, Utah, warehouses and utilities at Utah general depot, Ogden, $516,990; A. D. Juilliard & Co., Inc., New York, 1,800,000 yards tent cotton duck, $504,000.

SINGAPORE VIEWS POSSIBILITY OF MALAY BLOCKADE

LONDON, July 25 (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Singapore today reported that British officials, bankers, and smelter operators there already were conferring on plans to enable the tin industry to meet a possible Japanese blockade of Malaya.

Such a blockade, the dispatch said, was considered likely in the event of British and United States economic measures against Japan in connection with the expected Japanese occupation of French Indo-China. Malaya is one of the world's major sources of tin, on which the United States draws heavily.

EDISON SUPPLIER ORDERED TO CUT ELECTRIC RATES

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—The Federal Power commission today ordered the Chicago District Electric Generating corporation to cut its rates to Commonwealth Edison company, Chicago, $521,978 annually.

The corporation was directed to reduce its rate base to $34,355,469 and was allowed a rate of return of 5.5 per cent.

The entire output of the corporation's generating plant is sold to Commonwealth Edison and Northern Indiana Public Service company, which supply consumers in the Chicago and northern Indiana areas.

The commission's formal announcement did not say whether the $521,978 rate slash would be passed on to consumers.

In applying the "prudent investment" theory for the first time, under authority of the federal power act, the commission said "this is a situation peculiarly suitable" to such application. The old basis for rate making has been the estimated cost of reproducing the utility property.

U. S. Dealers Ask Auto Shows; Learn Navy Will Aid Canada's

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Members of the Automotive Trade Association Managers, at their annual meeting in the Drake hotel yesterday, took the position that automobile shows should not be abandoned because of the arms program and recommended that a show be held this year in every city that wants one. All manufacturers were urged to support dealer organizations desiring such exhibits.

The Automobile Manufacturers' association voted several months ago to abandon the national automobile show, held annually in New York, because of the press of arms work. Dealers, however, have been urging a continuation of the annual city shows of which the largest and most important in the country is the one in Chicago.

Canada Keeps Show.

Emphasizing their view yesterday, they pointed out that Canada is holding a show this year despite the war.

Marjorie M. Baker, executive secretary of the Buffalo Automotive Trade association and chairman of the managers' show committee, read from a circular of the Canadian National exhibition to be held in Toronto Aug. 22 to Sept. 6, to support the dealers' demand for American shows.

"The Canadian circular announces that by the special permission of President Roosevelt, the United States navy band of 85 musicians will be sent to Toronto," Miss Baker said. "If Mr. Roosevelt can send a band to Toronto to help the Canadian exposition, which includes an automobile show, I see no reason why we should not have shows in the United States."

The managers' committee stated also that dealer shows should be held this year so that the automobile industry can demonstrate to the public that the 1942 models will be of the highest quality despite use of alternate and substitute materials.

Would Stress Arms Work.

It said that in the city shows there should be exhibits also of the many products being made by the automobile industry as its contribution to the armament program.

Another show activity suggested for this year was exhibition of service equipment which will help dealers keep automobiles in good condition during the national emergency.

Tentative dates were set for automobile shows in a number of cities. That for Chicago is scheduled to be held Oct. 12 to 19. Los Angeles, Oct. 11 to 19, and San Francisco, Oct. 17 to 26. Detroit, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and St. Louis are planning shows but no dates have been set. The New York dealers are considering holding a show.

W. A. Williamson of San Antonio, Tex., was reëlected president of the association.

'42 Models Coming Up

Detroit, Mich., July 25 [Special].—Shutdowns of automobile plants next week for the changeover to 1942 models will develop a sharp reduction in production totals at the end of this month, Ward's Reports, Inc., said today. The survey added that early August is expected to mark the lowest volume point on the automotive calendar for the year. This comment was made with an estimate that passenger car and truck production this week would be 105,635 units, compared with 109,912 last week, and 34,822 this week a year ago.

Washer Firms Lash Tactics of Henderson

Manufacturers of household washers and ironers representing a large majority of the industry protested yesterday the tactics used by Price Administrator Leon Henderson in his program for a reduction of 30 per cent in the industry's output, effective Aug. 1. They complained they have had no official notification of the cut, altho it was announced in the press, and termed Henderson's action hasty and presumptive.

Meeting in the Morrison hotel, the manufacturers, from 10 cities and 7 states, sent a telegram to Henderson containing four objections to the reduction program.

Demand Thoro Studies.

These objections were:

1. With many industry studies still to be conducted by the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, which Henderson heads, a complete picture of each industry's situation and material needs is an essential preliminary to forming a policy for any industry.

2. The washer and ironer industry has been given no opportunity to present evidence of the necessity of the washer "in many million homes."

3. Even approximate observance of the reduction program would result immediately in unemployment in numerous communities.

4. The 10 day notice allowed the manufacturers in the reduction ruling gives no opportunity for adjustment of production programs. In general the industry's plants are not suitable for an immediate shift to rearmament work. Furthermore, it has been "virtually impossible" for most of the washer and ironer manufacturers to obtain or even negotiate for government contracts.

Delay in Action Sought.

The telegram asked postponement of enforcement of the cut until the manufacturers can present facts which they feel have not been considered.

Joseph R. Bohnen, secretary-treasurer of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association, criticized the manner in which Henderson's office handled the reduction program. On July 10, he said, OPACS sent telegrams to manufacturers requesting them to meet in Washington July 14.

"We didn't even know the purpose of the meeting," Bohnen said. "When we found out we asked the opportunity to prove that ours is an essential industry and that our products are essential in the nation's homes. We were totally unprepared to present our case at the time. However, we were given to understand that there would be no action for a month or two and were assured of at least another conference. Instead, we just got the axe, no official word, and only 10 days before the announced reduction was to go into effect. We aren't objecting to any curtailment that would help the government in its defense program, but we do object to the way it's being carried out."

MILWAUKEE ROAD TO SPEND MILLION MORE ON TRACKS

Expenditure of $1,032,000 for rails and roadbed improvements on the Milwaukee road was authorized yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly. The road's trustees requested the funds on the grounds that the $7,306,290 budget for 1941 approved in February was not sufficient to cover improvements made necessary by increasing freight and passenger traffic.

The allowance will permit purchase of 13,415 gross tons of rails in addition to the 20,000 tons provided for in the original budget. Approximately $150,000 will be available for roadbed repairs.

RAIL LEADERS MEET WITH NON-OPERATING UNION NEGOTIATORS

Negotiators for the railroads and the 14 nonoperating unions held their first meeting at the Morrison hotel yesterday to discuss the unions' demands for a 30 cents an hour wage increase and the request of the western and southeastern roads for changes in certain working rules.

Bert M. Jewell.

Bert M. Jewell, head of the railway employés department of the American Federation of Labor, who is chairman of the nonoperating union negotiators, told the railroad committee that the unions would study the rules revision demands over the week-end.

The next meeting between the operating unions and the railroads will be on Monday. The railroad management representatives will mee thereafter on alternate days with the two groups of workers.

APPAREL BUYING SLACKENS, BUT SALES TOP 1940

New York, July 25 (AP).—Apparel buying slackened a bit in some stores this week, but retail sales averaged 20 to 24 per cent above last year for the country as a whole, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

"Retailers' reports indicated a more uneven day-to-day movement of trade as the first signs of a summer lull appeared in apparel lines," the credit agency said. "Sales volume, however, was said to be continuing heavy when judged by normal seasonal standards.

"Strength in prices was apparent not only in smaller reductions on clearance merchandise but also in moderate increases on new season goods.

"A tendency among consumers to purchase ahead on many requirements continued to be observed."

Once Exclusive Exchange Lunch Club Cuts Its Dues

New York, July 25 (AP).—The exclusive Stock Exchange Luncheon club, which once had 1,000 members who had paid anything up to half a million dollars for a seat in the New York Stock exchange before they were eligible, has relaxed its entry rules to bolster its income. The annual dues have been reduced to $60 from $125—outsiders may be admitted to membership, and lunches will range in price from 25 to 95 cents.

VOTE ORDERED ON RIGID QUOTAS FOR 1942 WHEAT

Acre Allotments to Be Cut 12 Pct.

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—The administration's rigid marketing control program for wheat, carrying with it a 49 cents a bushel penalty, sharply criticized by some growers, will be put up for a new farmer vote.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard announced today that the program, established this year for the first time with the approval of 81 per cent of wheat growers voting in a referendum, would be continued for the 1942 crop, subject to a new referendum next spring. Approval by at least two-thirds of the farmers voting is necessary.

Wickard said the wheat quotas for the 1942 crop were proposed at this time to give growers ample time to plan fall seedings accordingly. The 1942 wheat planting allotments will be 12 per cent smaller than this year.

Move Based on Record Supply.

Record supplies, the secretary said, made it necessary, under farm law, that he propose the control plan for the 1942 crop.

Wickard estimated that the nation's wheat supply for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1942, would be 1,300,000,000 bushels, far more than the estimated 739,000,000 bushels needed to fill domestic and export requirements. The department of agriculture announced at the same time that stocks of wheat July 1 in interior mills, elevators and warehouses, and on farms totaled 162,337,000 bushels, exclusive of the 1941 crop. A year ago such stocks were 116,764,000 bushels.

The move to continue the AAA control system came as a senate agriculture committee approved legislation which would prohibit the department of agriculture from selling government owned cotton until after the European war is over.

Clashes with Federal Plan.

With cotton prices advancing to highest levels in more than 10 years and some officials feeling that these prices might continue to artificially high levels, the department has been considering plans for release on the open market of cotton the government has acquired as a result of its loans to growers.

The committee attached to a house wheat bill a rider which would "freeze" the government holdings of cotton, now totaling more than 6,000,000 bales. The rider was sponsored by Chairman Ellison Smith [D., S. C.] of the committee, who declared its purpose was "to keep government owned cotton from breaking the market."

GRAIN GROWERS FACE LONG WAIT IN GETTING CASH

Many Must Hold Crop in Storage Crisis.

Thousands of grain farmers face the prospect of getting no money out of this year's crops before late fall or early winter because of the shortage of acceptable commercial and farm storage facilities, officials of the department of agriculture said yesterday.

Until consumption cuts down the record wheat supply and thereby releases storage space, between 50 and 100 million bushels of this year's bumper crop will have to be kept on the farm, department officials said. Dealers stated this estimate is too low—that up to 200 million bushels, or one-fifth of the crop, will have to be kept on farms.

Terminal Markets Flooded.

With the terminal markets glutted with grain from crops of other years and hundreds of cars of new wheat arriving every day, the farmer finds himself faced with these alternatives:

1. Sell the grain harvested this year on the open market and accept whatever loss there would be between this price and the loan he could get on his grain from the government if he had acceptable storage room. If Chicago elevators weren't filled with government owned corn and wheat, he could store his grain here and borrow $1.15 a bushel. If he sold it on the open market at yesterday's price of $1.03¾ a bushel he would take a loss of 11¼ cents a bushel.

2. Borrow 7 cents a bushel from the government on his wheat and build a storage bin on his farm. Dealers said that with the shortage of carpenters, farm labor, and the rising cost of materials, the farmer might encounter some difficulties if he undertook construction of a large bin. The loan rate for grain stored on the farm is about 98 cents a bushel.

3. Let the grain set in temporary storage bins where weather and rodents may take their toll, and hold it until the embargoes on grain shipments to the terminal markets are lifted.

Will Release Steel for Bins.

Washington, D. C., July 25 (AP).—Representative Karl Mundt [R., S. D.] said today the Office of Production Management and Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply had authorized use of 16,000 tons of galvanized steel needed to meet the demand for grain storage facilities on farms. Half of the supply will be made available to fabricators by Aug. 10 and the rest by Aug. 31.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

New Pest Arrives.

July 25, 1941.

THE gardener has spotted a new arrival among the insects that live off of the vegetable patch at the Du Page county farm. The late comer is a pretty bug about one-quarter of an inch long called the striped cucumber beetle.

With a black head, yellow thorax, and yellow and black striped wings, the insect presents an interesting color scheme as it crawls across the green leaves of the cucumbers. The little beetle is none too careful of its diet, and is perfectly willing to include squash, melons, pumpkins, and other plants in its menu.

Feed on Seed Leaves.

The first and greatest damage from the beetles results from their feeding on stems and seed leaves when the plants are just pushing thru the ground and before they have developed true leaves. Later in the season, when another generation of beetles appear, the leaves, blossoms, and fruits of vine crops may be damaged. The bugs also may bring bacterial wilt and mosaic disease with them.

Because the gardener kept the vegetable plot well sprayed during the start of the growing season there have been comparatively few insects. Each bug has a few representatives present, of course, but they are not in large enough numbers to do serious damage. The only exception to this was the leafhopper on the potatoes that got a little bit out of hand.

The cucumber beetles are few in number and the gardener does not believe they will cause much damage. However, he is keeping his eye on them to see that their freedom does not go to their heads to such an extent that they begin to call in reserves.

Difficult to Control.

The beetle is difficult to control, but there are several insecticides that will reduce its damage. Rotenone dust, a contact poison, has been found to be very effective. This should be applied at the rate of 15 to 25 pounds to the acre, and can be purchased from any insecticide dealer. Beetles coming in contact with the dust are slowly paralyzed and later die.

Pyrethrum dust is another contact poison that can be used to control the striped insects. This has a rapid paralyzing action and should be applied at the same rate as the rotenone. Other effective dusts are cryolite and calcium arsenate.

The garden is about at the peak of its productivity. When the sweet corn begins to come in next week the patch will be hitting on all eight cylinders. Peas, beans, spinach, beets, onions, kohlrabi, and carrots are some of the fresh vegetables that are flowing from the garden into the farm homes.
